INDIAN CRISIS MAY OVERTURN LABOR REGIME

Impasse at Conference Weakens MacDonald; Election Hinted.

VOTE OF CONFIDENCE LIKELY TO BE ASKED

If Given, Premier Would Face Showdown on All Demands.

PARLEY TO COLLAPSE IN CASE OF REBUFF

Hindus and Moslems Agreed Upon Definite Dominion Status at Once.

By JOHN L. BALDERSTON.

London, Nov. 18 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Swift drama seems to be approaching in the all-India conference, which held another plenary session today in St. James Palace.

Following an impassioned demand by the Maharajah of Alwar, ranking native prince, for an immediate "United States of India," which was supported by Sir Mohammed Shafi, speaking for 70,000,000 Moslems, Lord William Peel, former Conservative secretary of state for India, denied that dominion home rule had been promised India in the immediate future.

The situation thus provoked may result in a parliamentary crisis here and possibly a general election on the issue of whether to grant India autonomy within the British Empire.

Lord Peel's speech showed that the British delegation is hopelessly split on what can be done for India, which explains its failure to adopt any policy in advance of the round-table conference.

May Have to Ask Vote.

Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald, judging by talk heard in the House of Commons' lobbies tonight, may be forced to asked Parliament for a vote of confidence and then proceed to meet the Indian demands if he gets it. But such a course would result in the resignation not only of the Conservative British delegates, but probably also of Lord Reading, former Viceroy of India, and a Liberal, who is known strongly to share Lord Peel's views.

Should Parliament refuse to give MacDonald a free hand, which would depend upon how the Liberals voted, he would have no recourse but to adjourn or prorogue the round-table conference and ask the king to dissolve Parliament. And the ensuing election, of course, would be complicated by many issues other than the Indian crisis.

The British delegation hoped until today that its own disunion would be concealed by what were considered inevitably serious differences between the Indian ruling princes and the delegates from British Indian, on the one hand, and especially between Hindu and Moslem delegates within the British Indian delegation.

That Hope Now Dashed.

That hope has now been dashed. It was learned tonight from one of the leaders of the Indian delegation that a united front for federal union of all India has been all but reached, and that it may be completed before tomorrow's plenary session opens. Not merely are the princes and the British Indians in general accord on a responsible federal system of government, but by this afternoon thirteen of fourteen outstanding controversies between the Moslems and the Hindus had been settled. The only one remaining concerns Punjab representation as between the Hindus and the Moslems, and a minor dispute between Moslems and Sikhs.

It is the intention of the Indian leaders—Hindus, Moslems and princes

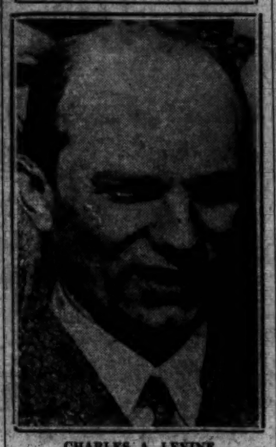
WAITS HEARING



CHARLES A. LEVINE.

ACTION ON LEVINE WILL COME TODAY

Opinion of French Experts on Minting Is Said to Be Awaited.

CHIEF EXPLAINS CASE

Vienna, Nov. 18 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Charles A. Levine, first airplane passenger to fly the Atlantic and reputedly a millionaire, was still being held by police authorities tonight on suspicion of counterfeiting, following his sensatinal arrest on Sunday night as he was boarding a train for Italy.

He is detained pending an opinion of the crown attorney as to whether the evidence against him justifies charging him in open court, though Vienna newspapers assert he will be held in custody until French minting experts arrive tomorrow to give an opinion regarding the dies alleged to have been rdered by Levine.

The Austrian law requiring that a prisoner be confonted within 48 hours with the charges against him or else be discharged indicates definite action in the case not later than tomorrow. The prisoner continues to protest his innocence with vehemence.

The wealthy American, whose counsel states that he is inclined to have eccentric ideas and then suddenly lose interest in them, looked worn and haggard this morning when, collarless and tieless, he faced Vienna detectives for a second day of gruelling examination. He wore a smart blue suit, but Austrian prison regulations compelled him to dispense with his collar and tie, a precaution against possible escape on the theory that thus clad he could be more easily spotted.

"I have paid a big price for having a big name," he said. "The police would never have arrested an ordinary man on this charge. I ordered these medals, or coins, if you like to call them so, intending to have them made up as gifts for my friends. I planned to have my portrait and that of my wife on one side and on the other a date commemorating some anniversary, birthday, silver wedding or such like."

Asked why he appeared anxious to leave Austria, he hurried replied that he had lost interest in the whole affair.

Hofrat Ludwig Wahl, noted chief of the Vienna criminal police and reputed one of the cleverest European detectives, freely exhibits a number of genuine french 1-franc and 2-franc pieces and explains:

"Since Levine came to Vienna last August he has been in touch with a local engraver whom he asked whether he could make similar medals with a portrait of Levine and his wife on one side and a commemorating date on the other. When told

MADRID HOLDS 60 IN ALLEGED PLOT BY REDS

Strikers in Barcelona Clash With Police; Three Killed.

MILITARY GUARDS PUBLIC BUILDINGS

DISORDERS NOTED IN OTHER CENTERS

Conspiracy in Capital Said to Have Had Republic as Its Goal.

Madrid, Nov. 18 (A.P.).—The government tonight discovered a plot which it says was designed by Communist agitators to overthrow the monarchy and arrested 60 alleged leaders.

Officials charged that the arrested movement had as its object the establishment of a republic, with Communists working with certain Republican elements.

It was believed that the plot was broken up wholly by speedy arrest of the leaders.

Three Killed in Barcelona.

Barcelona, Spain, Nov. 18 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Violent manifestations by strikers here today led to a sanguinary collision with civil guards in the port district in which three workmen were shot dead and three others wounded when the guards fired into a mass of rioters. Two policemen and ten civil guards were wounded in the affray. One of the policemen may die.

Although the strike has ended in Madrid, disturbance are still flaring up here and elsewhere in the Spanish provinces where a general strike has been proclaimed.

The General Labor ederation has taken the lead in the movement, its more aggressive policy having triumphed over the cooler counsels of its rival, the General Union of Workers. The former believed that the Madrid strike gave it an excellent opportunity to force Catalonian employers to recognize the syndicates.

Barcelona Under Guard.

The tarcets of Barcelona are under constant patrol tonight by police and all public buildings are guarded by the military. Most of the big stores and smaller shops are shut and trade is paralyzed.

The syndicate's headquarters are closed by orders of the authorities. The extent of the disorders is shown by the number of arrests made. Two hundred strikers have been taken into custody, including the syndicate leader, Piestana.

News reaching here from Asturias, Grenada, Seville, Saragossa and Alicante reveals that strikes have been declared in many centers by metal workers, bricklayers and other groups as well as by tsudents. The employes of two railroads are talil on strike.

Barcelona Situation Serious.

At the moment the most threatening situation is here in Barcelona, although the authorities seek to minimize the importance of today's street fighting. Barricades were erected today by manifestants in the Calle Cortez, and from behind these stones were hurled at the police. ew street cars and buses are running. Manifestants set fire to one tarest ca rand one bus. Theaters are closed and many public utilities services have stopped functioning.

In some quarters it is believed that the strike may be prolonged and the situation grow worse. An important figure behind the scenes is Andres Nin, who once worked with Leon Trotsky. Now, after an absence of ten years, he is back in Barcelona

Calvin Coolidge

Says: Sometimes our country is charged with giving too much thought to the material things of life. The charge may appear more justified because in ordinary times the rank and file of our people are in such comfortable circumstances, so independent and well able to take care of themselves, that they make no appeal to the humanitarian sentiments. But if any catastrophe arises that is likely to cause real human suffering at home or abroad our response to the need for relief is generous and instantaneous.

The economic effect of the unemployed can be overestimated. It is the number at work, not the number out of work, that measures our business prosperity. But the need for assisting those not able to find work can not be overestimated. The real human sympathy of all our people in every station and locality now is being most effectively revealed in the relief that is being provided through private charities and local governments. It demonstrates not only our ample ability to take care of each other but the existence and power of a deep and abiding community spirit. Our social system is not yet perfected but it is already the best and safest reliance in time of need that any people ever enjoyed.

DRY REPEAL VOTED BY BAR ASSOCIATION

PLAN OPPOSED BY 6,340

Chicago, Nov. 18 (A.P.).—The American Bar Association was placed on record today as favoring repeal of the eighteenth amendment.

A favorable vote of 13,779 to 6,340 was revealed by the association's headquarters on a referendum proposing: "That the American Bar Association favors the repeal of the eighteenth amendment to the Constitution of the United States."

The result of the poll, in which approximately 75 per cent of the membership voted, will be officially announced in the December issue of the American Bar Association Journal.

Two ballots were mailed association members. The first was on a proposal whether the association should take a referendum among its members on the repeal of the amendment and the other was on the proposal of repeal itself. The votes on each proposition were cast simultaneously.

The referendum proposal carried 14,782 votes to 5,625. Had the vote been adverse to the referendum, the ballots on the repeal would have been destroyed.

The votes on both proposals were counted by a subcommittee appointed by the executive committee. The subcommittee consisted of Orie L. Phillips, chairman; Maj. Edgar B. Tolman, and Earl W. Evans.

Mr. Tolman said that the referenda were not submitted with a view to formulating policy on possible legislation, but simply to determine the attitude of the membership.

The vote was instigated by petitions filed with the executive committee early this year by a large number of members. In line with the organization's policy, the referenda were officially announced in the June issue of the American Bar Association Journal and ballots were then distributed.

A spirited controversy over the proposed vote arose at the association's annual convention here in August, when opponents of the plan petitioned the executive committee to recall the ballots and abandon the poll. They argued that prohibition was a question of national policy and not a legal question.

A motion to rescind the poll was overwhelmingly defeated on the convention floor.

$17,400,000 ASKED TO UPHOLD DRY LAW

COMMISSION IS SILENT

(Associated Press.)

Plans for a stricter enforcement of prohibition were forecast yesterday as the dry chiefs of the Justice and Treasury Departments prepared requests for appropriations totaling approximately $17,400,000, the highest figure ever placed in the budget for the work.

Prohibition Director Amos W. Woodcock said the total to be requested for his department—including the cost of adding 500 new dry agents—would reach $11,200,000. This bureau was allotted $9,000,000 for the fiscal year of 1931.

Dr. James M. Doran, commissioner of industrial alcohol of the Treasury, said he planned to ask for about $6,200,000, with the increase of $200,000 over his current appropriation covering the cost of adding 90 medicinal liquor and industrial alcohol inspectors.

Meanwhile, from Capitol Hill came another advocacy of modification of the Volstead act. Senator Glenn (Republican), Illinois, urged such a move to premit the brewing of beer of higher alcoholic content in States that desire to do so.

President Hoover's law enforcement commission at the same time declined all comment upon the maze of reports and rumors concerning the recommendations to be included in its forthcoming prohibition report.

Chairman Wickersham recalled a previous statement that forecasts as to positive recommendations at this time were "purely conjectural."

From another quarter the Women's National Committee for Law Enforcement, under the chairmanship of Mrs. Henry W. Peabody, of Beverly, Mass., issued a statement here saying it did not expect the law enforcement commission to recommend any change in either the Volstead act or the eighteenth amendment.

"While we await the report of the Wickersham committee as interesting and important, we do not expect it to do more than supply valuable information," it said. "We believe that time should be given for testing present Government policies."

In discussing plans for adding to his force 500 dry agents, with 50 additional clerks to handle their re-

CITY WILL DENY JOB PARTIALITY TO RESIDENTS

Washingtonians Will Not Get Preference, Says Reichelderfer.

APPLICANTS TO COME FROM CIVIL SERVICE

Hoover Order of Change in System Comes as Surprise.

ACTION DUE TO EVILS OF OUTSIDE PRESSURE

None of 6,300 Employed at Present Will Have to Take Tests.

By EDWARD T. FOLLIARD.

Commissioner Luther H. Reichelderfer said late yesterday that there is no intention of giving preference to residents of Washington in the new arrangement whereby District employes are to be drawn from the lists of the Civil Service Commission.

This question was one of the first to come up after President Hoover had issued an executive order applying "the principles of the civil service act and rules" to the local government.

Asked whether local citizens would be given prference if their names appeared on the list of eligibles supplied by the Civil Service Commission, Dr. Reichelderfer said:

"I don't see why they should. Residence is not a consideration in making appointments now, and from all indications it has not been in the past."

Apportionment by States.

With regard to policemen and firemen, who are already drawn from the Civil Service Commission lists, Dr. Reichelderfer pointed out that there is no such preference regulation where they are concerned.

Under the civil service act civil service jobs are supposed to be apportioned according to the population of the various States and Territories and the District of Columbia. As a matter of fact, the District of Columbia now has far more than its share of jobs in the Federal service.

Members of Congress have frequently complained about this, and the Civil Service Commission recently announced that in the future the apportionment provision would be more closely adhered to.

Hoover's Order Surprises.

In this case, it may be more difficult for District residents to get Federal jobs in the future. Hence the question as to whether they are going to be given preference in the District government. And here this question arises? Would the appointment order bar a local resident from a job in his own government?

The executive order issued yesterday by President Hoover came as a surprise, although it had been under consideration for nearly a year. The order said:

"The Commissioners of the District of Columbia and the United States Civil Service Commission have agreed that it would be in the interests of good administration to make appointments to positions under the Government of the District of Columbia after tests of qualifications.

Interpretation of Edict.

"The United States Civil Service Commission is, therefore authorized to apply the principles of the civil service act and rules, as far as may be done without incurring additional expense, by certifying to the Board of Commissioners the names of eligibles from appropirate registers established for the Federal service, such certifications and appointments to be made under regulations agreed upon by the Board of Commissioners and the United States Civil Service Commission. Appointments and promotions to the Metropolitan Police and Fire Departments are already made in

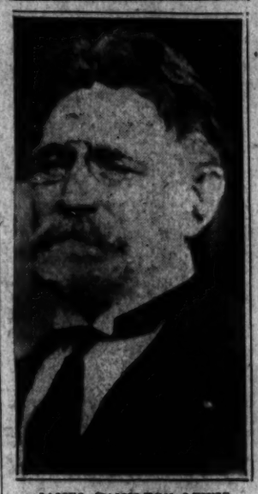
HOOVER LISTS REALLOCATION IN HOUSE SEATS

OPPOSES DELAY



JAMES HAMILTON LEWIS, Senator-elect from Illinois, who said yesterday that the new Congress should be called into session on the first possible day after March 4.

Reapportionment Under 1930 Census Listed by Hoover.

WILL TAKE EFFECT IN 1932 CONGRESS

Affect on Presidential Campaign Is Viewed as Probable.

ELECTORAL COLLEGE ALIGNMENT IS CITED

New Figures Show Gains for Republican Party, on Paper at Least.

By CARLISLE BARGERON.

Reapportionment of the House which might possibly have some effect on the 1932 presidential elections was announced by President Hoover yesterday.

The reallocations of House seats was based on the 1930 census, and unless changed by legislative enactment will become effective in the Seventy-third Congress, or that taking office March 4, 1932.

More immediate interest attached to the effect of the reapportionment upon the Electoral College, as each State is represented there by a vote equivalent to its members of the House and its two senators.

Republicans Will Gain.

On paper, the Republicans gain 21 votes in the college, while the Democrats gain 5, which is to say they gain that number of votes in the States they normally carry in a presidential campaign.

California gains 9 votes or 6 House seats, Michigan, 4; Connecticut, 1; New Jersey, 2; Ohio, 2; Washington, 1; New York, 2, a total of 21. The Republicans normally carry these States in a presidential election. On the Democratic side Texas gains 9 seats, Florida, 1, and North Carolina, 1, a total of 5, leaving the Republicans with a net gain in the Electoral College of 16.

The catch in such figuring comes, of course, in the fact that the Democrats ever to attain the Presidency must do the unusual, not the normal thing.

Democratic Hopes Viewed.

For example, their hopes of 1932 certainly embrace New York, New Jersey and Ohio, which would give them the advantage of the six electoral gains made by those three States. Even this, however, would only give them eleven gains in the reapportionment, as compared with fifteen for the Republicans.

Unless there is such an overturn in 1932 as would give the Democrats either California, Michigan, Connecticut or Washington, it is hard to escape the conclusion that the reapportionment juggles them out of at least four electoral votes.

No presidential election has ever been decided by such a margin, but when things come to the point where the two parties are neck and neck in the House and Senate, it might conceivably be that four electoral votes would mean a lot.

1916 Closest Recent Vote.

The closest outcome in recent years, of course, was that in 1916, when Wilson defeated Hughes 277 to 254. The paper gain of 21 votes which the Republicans made in this reapportionment, however, would have overcome Wilson's margin. The flaw in this comparison, though, is that Wilson carried California and Ohio which together have eleven additional House seats and votes in the electoral college under the new arrangement.

To carry the statistical fantasy further it might be pointed out that if the Democrats carry Missouri and Kentucky in 1932 they will get five less electoral votes than they would have in 1928, as Missouri loses three seats or votes, and Kentucky two. On

TRAPPED, 4 PERISH WHEN HOME BURNS

Mother and Three Children Die in Mysterious Fire Near Colvin Run.

BODIES ARE RECOVERED

A mother and three children perished last night in the fire of mysterious origin which destroyed the six-room frame bungalow of Daniel J. Sullivan, about two miles southwest of Colvin Run, Va., on the Leesburg pike.

The dead were Mrs. Bernice E. Sullivan, 42 years old; Elizabeth, 9; Elsie, 6, and Daniel J., jr., 4.

Their bodies, burned beyond recognition, were found in the basement after firemen from the Vienna, Va., department had cooled the embers sufficiently to explore the ruins.

The father was at a neighbor's home, half a mile distant, when the blaze was discovered.

Forrest Day, living across the fields from the Sullivan house, saw flames shooting from the roof and ran to the scene. When he arrived he found there two other men who had been attracted by the glow. Just as they reached the spot, however, the roof of the bungalow caved in.

The fire started about 8:30 o'clock, before Mrs. Sullivan's usual bedtime, leading to the theory that the blaze was set by an exploding lamp or was due to some similar cause.

It was pointed out that had Mrs. Sullivan escaped the initial burst of flame, she probably could have saved the children. As it was, all four were burned to death rather than suffocated.

Firemen from Vienna and McLean responded but were too late to be of any assistance because the telephone nearest to the Sullivan home was two miles away and the alarm, therefore, was late in being sounded.

Mrs. Sullivan was the daughter of Edward Lyon, of Clarendon, Va.

Kidnaped Sportsman Is Found Unharmed

Tulsa, Okla., Nov. 18 (A.P.).—George Hurford, wealthy Tulsa sportsman and race bookmaker, who was kidnaped Sunday night, was found unharmed today at Chetopa, Kans.

He had been arrested there as a suspicious character after having been put out of his captors' automobile, Chief of Police Garland Marrs was notified by two detectives whom he had sent to Chetopa.

Wife of Crater, Missing Justice, Ready to Talk

New York, Nov. 18 (A.P.).—The long silence of Mrs. Stella Crater in the face of the disappearance more than three months ago of her husband, Supreme Court Justice Joseph F. Crater, is at last to be broken, District Attorney Crain announced tonight.

Mr. Crain said she could be questioned in Portland, Me., where she is staying at a hotel. It was not indicated what Mrs. Crater would testify.

Farmer Is Sentenced For Killing His Wife

Savannah, Mo., Nov. 18 (A.P.).—Alleged to have struck and killed his wife because she arrived at the polls April 1 too late to vote against a proposed increase in school taxes, James W. Payne, 66, a farmer, was convicted of murder today.

He was sentenced to 20 years' imprisonment.

Lloyd Loses Suit For Infringement

Court Decides for Widow of H. C. Witwer; Film Star May Appeal.

Los Angeles, Nov. 18 (A.P.).—Federal Judge George B. Cosgrave late today handed down a judgment in favor of Mrs. Saxie S. Witwer, widow of the author, H. C. Witwer, in her suit against Harold Lloyd, film star and producer, alleging infringement of the copyright laws in his production of "The Freshman."

Judge Cosgrave, however, said he believed Mr. Lloyd was "unintentionally guilty of violation of the copyright laws."

He ordered an accounting of profits from the film since November, 1927, when Mr. Witwer's story, "The Emancipation of Rodney," upon which the suit was brought, had ben copyrighted.

Mr. Lloyd, now in New York, has indicated he will appeal.

Highway Bridge Strips Gear At Rush Hour, Causing Jam

Span Becomes Temperamental After Opening to Let Boat By, Refusing by 3 Inches to Return to Level and Netting Half-Hour Tie-Up.

A stripped gear in the machinery which moves the center span of Highway Bridge last night caused a half hour's traffic tieup on that structure and kept street cars from crossing the span for several hours.

About 6:30 o'clock, when many Virginians were homeward bound from their work in Washington, the center span was opened to permit passage of a boat but when the vessel had passed, the section did not return to its usual level by some three inches.

Police immediately began rerouting traffic from both sides of the river over the Key Bridge. Passengers on street cars were forced to alight, walk across the bridge and take cars on the other side.

H. R. Howser, assistant bridge engineer of the District, was called to the scene and made an immediate inspection of the span to ascertain the degree of its safety. He declared after the inspection that there was

Hurt by League Vote, Chile May Withdraw

Nation Said to Be Piqued at Rejection of Her Candidate for Place on World Court. Break Called Imminent.

Santiago, Chile, Nov. 18 (A.P.).—The Associated Press learned on highest authority today that Chile is considering withdrawal from the League of Nations because of alleged slights at the hands of large European nations.

This source said the break was imminent as the result of "too high-handed procedure" at the election this year of members of the World Court at the League of Nations assembly, when Chilean and Brazilian candidates were rejected in favor of Cuban, Salvadorean and Colombian entrants.

Chile, the last of the "A B C" nations of South America—Argentine, Brazil and Chile—participating actively in the league, was said to feel that she had cooperated in international affairs for ten years but had asked no favors.

This year the nation felt it was time for her to be represented on the World Court and put forth a candidate, as did Brazil, the granting of which might have aided in Brazil's reentering the league. The candidates of both were rejected.

California's "Volcano" Reported Active Again

San Francisco, Nov. 18 (A.P.).—Unofficial reports of increased volcanic activity at Lassen Peak were received at the local office of the United States Geological Survey today, but were discounted pending official advices. The peak has been under surveillance more than four years, with indications of "growing restlessness," but current reports of increased activity probably were due to recent snowstorms, it was said.

Each new snow brings these reports, officials declare, but on investigation they are "99 times out of 100" found to be based on an illusion caused by the snow itself, cloud effects and wisps of escaping steam.

Bob's Whereabouts Known to Friends

Missing Mining Engineer to Appear if Indicted, Crain Informed.

New York, Nov. 18 (A.P.).—The report today that Charles V. Bob, missing mining engineer and promoter, had been indicted for grand larceny brought from District Attorney Crain the information that Mr. Bob's whereabouts are known to his friends.

Although the district attorney refused to comment on apparently authentic information that Mr. Bob and three others had been indicted, he declared attorneys had "said that if their client (Bob) was indicted they would produce him at a reasonable time."

A grand jury began an inquiry yesterday into the affairs of the companies with which Mr. Bob was connected. The promoter dropped from sight in Chicago October 6, and it was feared at first he had met with a mishap in flying between Chicago and New York.

NEWS of SUBURBAN Washington and the Surrounding States the other hand, when the Republicans carry Iowa and Pennsylvania in 1932 they will get four less votes than they would have two years ago.

Appears on Pages 4, 5 and 22 Today

In the matter of States which lose representation, 21 in all, the Democrats and Republicans break about even, both in States and in the reduced vote in the electoral college.

Regardless, however, of how the figures work out there is nothing to be done about them.

Becomes Automatically Effective.

Unless the coming short session of Congress makes the reapportionment effective it becomes automatically effective.

Quite probably there will be an effort to repeal the reapportionment act of the last session, the only way in which the reallocations could be kept from becoming operative.

A few men in the Senate could stop such affirmative action, however, and would undoubtedly do so.

Not until the elections of 1932 will it be known what effect the reapportionment in itself will have on the relative standing of the two parties in the House and Senate. Legislative battles are looked for in some States in the meantime as the two parties struggle for an advantage in the redistricting of the States.

A fight is looked for, for example, in Indiana, where the Democrats now have the advantage. Ohioans seem to think the two parties will get together in that State and settle the matter amicably. In fact the Democrats had the redistricting of that State the last time and they could hardly improve this time upon the advantage which they sought to give themselves then.

Six Are Arraigned For Police Attack

Prisoners Are Accused of Taking Patrolman's Badge and Gun.

Six Negroes who are alleged to have taken the badge and gun of rookie Policeman Clarence Roberts, of the Traffic Bureau, last November 9 in a house on Fourth street, near B street southwest, were arraigned in Police Court yesterday and ordered held for grand jury action under bonds of $2,000 each on recommendation of Assistant United States Attorney Michael F. Keough.

Roberts, while patrolling a beat in the neighborhood, is said to have seen some one trying to enter a house and knocking at the door inquired if any one there knew who the man might be. The woman, who answered the door, is said to have asked if the policeman knew Policeman Ballard, and when the former assented she opened the door, stating the latter officer was inside.

Roberts testified that when he entered the room five men grabbed him, rushed him through teh house and into a yard, where after pinioning him to a tree, they took his gun and badge and chased him away. The badge later was found by a postoffice employe in a neighborhood letter box while the gun was found on one of the defendants, the testimony indicated.

Those held are Louise James, Little John Lyons, J. H. Chapman, Albert Washington, John Lyons and Hugh Lyons.

Germania Yards Launch New Vanderbilt Yacht

Kiel, Germany, Nov. 18 (A.P.).—William K. Vanderbilt's new motor yacht, the Alva, was launched in the Germania yards today. The vessel has a displacement of 3,500 tons and in the opinion of some yachtsmen here deserves the designation of cruiser rather than motor yacht.

The engines will develop 4,200 horsepower and the vessel will attain a speed of 16 knots. Capt. Kenneth G. Castleman, American naval attache, attended the launching.

The Duchess of Bedford is due at Quebec Thursday. The airmen plan a flight from Newfoundland to British Columbia shortly.

PRESIDENT CONFERS ON CONGRESS' WORK

SHOALS SOLUTION SEEN

(Associated Press.)

President Hoover called in Vice President Curtis and Senator Watson of Indiana, the Republican leader, for a luncheon conference yesterday on the legislative situation confronting the approaching short session of Congress as new problems arose to threaten the plan for avoiding an extra session in the spring.

Disposition of the controversy between the Senate and House over Government or private operation of the Muscle Shoals, Ala., power and nitrate plant and the new apportionment of the House announced yesterday are potential trouble makers for the short session.

The Republican leaders after their White House visit reported no conclusions from the conference and said it was confined to a general discussion of legislative and party questions, beyond that neither ventured.

May Compromise on Shoals.

There is a growing confidence at the Capitol that the President, despite representations by unofficial spokesmen, will be inclined to consider seriously some form of compromise on Muscle Shoals involving Government operation, as proposed in the measure of Senator Norris (Republican), Nebraska. Some solution of the dispute is regarded as necessary if the extra session in the spring is to be avoided.

Senator McNary, of Oregon, the assistant Republican leader, is standing by the Norris Government operation measure and he is chairman of the conferees. No authoritative word has come from Mr. Hoover on the subject since Representative Reece (Republican), Tennessee, quoted the President to the effect that he would veto the Senate bill.

Meanwhile, there were evidences of trouble at the Senate for the membership selected by President Hoover to comprise the new tariff commission. These six members are up for confirmation at the short term. Senator Borah (Republican Independent), of Idaho, said yesterday he was closely studying the record of Henry P. Fletcher, of Pennsylvania, who has been named chairman.

Hearings Are Wanted.

There is every indication hearings will be asked by the Senate leaders on the tariff commission nominees. These probably will be held by the finance committee which framed the new tariff act and there is likely to be a request that the hearings be public.

If a dispute develops on reapportionment of the House it will be a serious threat to the completion of the administration's program in the short term. There are signs of trouble but the Senate, the usual storm center in Congress apparently will follow its traditional course of leaving this quarrel over the makeup of the House to the House.

The Hoover administration leaders are standing firmly on a program of completing work in the short term and avoiding the extra session. The White House callers yesterday voiced this attitude upon their departure.

People Want Rest, Fess Says.

Senator Fess, of Ohio, the Republican whip in the Senate, joined. He expressed the view that there is "more or less turmoil" in the country when Congress is in session, and he believed "the people would like to have a rest from legislative worries and an opportunity to get their bearings."

Whether the fight for the export debenture principle of farm relief will be renewed during the short session was problematical yesterday and much seemed to depend on the outcome of the parley called here for next week by Chairman McNary of the Senate agriculture committee, which will include farm leaders and members of the committee.

Senator Borah, a champion of the export debenture which is opposed by President Hoover, expressed the opinion that the newly elected Congress will approve the proposition.

The Childs bought a place here in April, 1929. The former ambassador's first wife, Maude Parker, divorced him and he married his present wife in 1927.

The men, who were chained, requested to be taken into a corridor, where one was released. He immediately attacked the warden, while the other three prisoners leaped on the second warden. The six fought until a train guard came. The unchained convict jumped from the train and was killed.

PROMINENT CHILEAN DROWNED, IS BELIEF

Effects Found on Norfolk Boat Thought Those of O. L. De La Barra.

FORMERLY WAS CONSUL

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 18 (A.P.).—Oscar L. de la Barra, former Chilean consul at Baltimore and recently connected with a New York financial concern, was believed today to have been drowned between Baltimore and Norfolk.

When the steamer City of Norfolk docked here today, Capt. Edward James reported that for the trip to Norfolk, ended there yesterday morning, a passenger registered as M. Barra purchased a single ticket. Four hours after the vessel sailed a top coat with a cardcase bearing cards of Oscar de la Barra and newspaper clippings referring to him was found on deck.

At Norfolk officers entered the stateroom with a pass key and found a note reading: "In case of accident, please notify at once my attorney, Julius F. Sandrock Baltimore."

Mr. De la Barra, who held the Baltimore post from 1927 to last April, had served as Chilean consul in Alica, Spain, and New Castle on Tyne.

Mr. De la Barra was about 29 years old. He was connected with the Guaranty Trust Co. in New York, where his wife is now said to be.

Norfolk, Va., Nov. 18 (A.P.).—Agents of the Chesapeake Line here today said they had no report of the disappearance of Oscar L. de la Barra from a steamer between Baltimore and Norfolk. The ship arrived here yesterday morning.

Charge of Assault Dropped by Rover

Thomas E. Smoot Was Accused as Party to Attack on Policeman.

United States Attorney Leo A. Rover yesterday entered a nolle prosequi in a charge of assault with intent to kill contained in an indictment returned November 4 against Thomas Edward Smoot.

Smoot was indicted on the charge in connection with an attack made October 12, 1929, on Policeman Benjamin Howze, of the Eighth Precinct. Howze, according to police reports, went to an apartment at 1321 Belmont road northwest to investigate loud talking, and after being admitted is alleged to have been assaulted. Will Douglas, according to police, snatched Howze's baton and after striking the policeman over the head several times was shot and killed. Howze spent several months in the hospital.

Smoot was not accused by police of attacking the policeman with any weapon except his hands. Since the affair he is said to have married Margaret E. Frye, who was reported by police to have been present at the time.

Judge Denies Federal Receiver for Auto Firm

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 18 (A.P.).—Application for a Federal receiver for the Moon Motor Car Co. here was denied without prejudice today by Federal Judge C. B. Faris. The judge said he saw "no reason to appoint a Federal receiver to sell 35 or 40 Ruxton cars." An attorney in the case told Judge Faris the company is "obviously solvent," with assets of $1,250,000 and liabilities of approximately 25 per cent of that amount.

A temporary receiver appointed Saturday by Circuit Judge Granville Hogan already is in charge of the business, following receivership application in the State courts by a minority stockholder who alleged the business was being liquidated for the benefit of creditors.

EXTRA SESSION HELD IN HANDS OF HOOVER

Norris Says if Progressives' Demands Are Met, One Will Be Sufficient.

JOBLESS BILL IS CITED

That President Hoover can avoid an extra session of the new Congress by yielding to the legislative demands of Republican Progressives was the deftly worded ultimatum served on the administration yesterday by Senator Norris (Republican), of Nebraska, veteran Progressive leader.

Senator Norris yesterday repudiated suggestions that he and his Progressive colleagues plan to force an extra session by blocking the annual supply bills, but suggested that continued administration to such measures as his bill for Government operation of Muscle Shoals might, in effect, constitute a filibuster conducted by the administration against its own avowed interest. Besides his Muscle Shoals bill, Senator Norris listed the constitutional amendment to abolish "lame duck" sessions of Congress, the Wagner unemployment bills, and the Shipstead anti-injunction bill, as measures which must be considered during the coming short session.

Telephone Conversation Held.

Speaking over the telephone from his Nebraska home, the senator said: "I have heard nothing about any plan to conduct a filibuster. However, as long as we continue to have lame-duck sessions, filibusters will be possible, and I am in no position to say that one will not occur during the coming session. There are certain measures now pending that should be passed at the short session. They can be passed if the administration will withdraw its opposition, particularly in the House. Most of them already are on the calendar. If the administration continues to block these measures, as it has in the past, the result may be to prevent passage of the appropriation bills, thus making an extra session unavoidable.

"In that event the administration will be in the position of having filibustered its own bills to death and consequently will be to blame for the necessity of a special session."

Muscle Sohals Bill Cited.

The most important of the measures upon which Mr. Norris demands action is the Muscle Shoals bill. That measure goes to the heart of the long-standing controversy between advocates of public and private operation of electric power plants, a conflict which has kept Congress deadlocked on Muscle Shoals since the World War. President Hoover is on record in opposition to the Norris bill, but there were intimations thrown out that today that administartion may weaken on this issue rather than risk an extra session of the new Congress which would be dominated by antiadministration elements.

A hint in this direction was dropped by Senator Fess, of Ohio, chairman of the Republican national committee, who said that while he is diametrically opposed to public opeartion of power plants, it is conceivable that he might waive his opposition rather than see the Muscle Shoal issue go unsettled. Mr. Fess also announced himself as opposed to an extra session of Congress on the ground that it would be extremely injurious to business. He explained that the country is kept in a "turmoil" whenever Congress is in session and that just now there is need for order and public confidence.

PLANE, TRIO ABOARD, LOST IN CALIFORNIA

Sought Vainly by Air Fleet After Reports of Fight With Fog and Gale.

MOUNTAIN AREA COMBED

Bakersfield, Calif., Nov. 18 (A.P.).—Twenty airplanes swept in widening circles late today above the rugged Tehachapi Mountains, in search of a missing Pacific Air Transport plane and its three occupants.

The mail and passenger craft, bound from San Diego to Oakland, made its last radio report while fighting fog and fierce winds above the 8,000-foot peaks soon after midnight.

Miss D. Markow, of San Diego, rode the night mail plane with Pilot F. A. Donaldson and his mechanic, George Rogers. She had purchased a ticket at San Diego for Portland, Oreg.

A parachuite flare, indicating that Mr. Donaldson had sought an emergency landing place in the thick of a murky, gale-torn night, was the only clew to the flier's fate. This was spotted through binoculars by a searching pilot far down the side of Liebre Mountain. Mr. Donaldson had only two flares.

Liebre Mountain skirts Poso Canyon, 25 miles southeast of Lebec on the mountainous ridge route highway. At 1:47 a. m. Mr. Donaldson sent this radio message to the United Airport: "Still over Lebec, 11,000 feet altitude. If I can't get more altitude, I'll come back to Burbank."

To turn right, as the location of the spent flare indicated he had, would take the storm-battered plane into a waste of rugged mountains and canyons, or else out into the wide Antelope Valley section of the Mohave Desert. A thorough aerial search in the valley revealed no traces of the single-motored biplane.

After leaving Burbank at 11:30 o'clock last night, Mr. Donaldson talked frequently with the United Airport. His last word, at 2:07 a. m., was: "Still over fog, 9,000 feet."

Havana Seeks to Avert Future Students' Riots

Havana, Nov. 18 (A.P.).—Reorganization of the by-laws at Havana University probably will result from the disorders of the last week, in which students had a prominent part. The government today considered amnesty measures with a committee representing the school. Last night 11 alleged student ringleaders were freed and 50, charged with sedition, were placed under low bail.

Prominent alumni are drafting a reform measure for submission to President Machado. Except for the voluntary suspension of two newspapers in protest against the censorship, and the censorship itself, Havana has returned to normal.

Belasco, Critically Ill, Misses First Premiere

New York, Nov. 18 (A.P.).—For the first time in the 51 years he has been producing plays in New York, David Belasco missed one of his own premieres tonight. Instead of hovering in the wings as the curtain ascended on "Tonight or Never," the white-haired dean of the theater lay critically ill with lobar pneumonia in his hotel room.

An evening bulletin said his condition was "still serious," despite a restful day.

LEADERS TO STUDY MEDICAL PROBLEMS

Sickness Insurance Plans in Other Hands Held Conference Topic.

DATE IS SET BY WILBUR

Medical problems faced by the United States, which apparently have been solved in recent years by other nations, will be tackled by an outstanding public and professional figures at a conference announced yesterday by Secretary of the Interior Ray Lyman Wilbur for September 17-24, 1931.

This announcement was the high light of a two-day session of the committee on the costs of medical care, of which the Secretary is chairman, at its closing meeting in the Mayflower Hotel.

Notables to Attend.

The conference will be attended by the 50 members of the committee and by 75 notables in the field of medicine, public health and economics, and with representatives also from national independent organizations concerned directly with the wage-earner.

While the exact nature of the problems to be threshed out were not divulged by Secretary Wilbur, the intimation was drawn from talks by various speakers on the two-day program that the questions involved the compulsory State sickness insurance, in effect in 25 countries, and the voluntary State sickness insurance plan operating in fifteen countries of South America and Europe.

Will Study Costs.

Harry R. Moore, director of study of the committee, phrased the aim of the conference as being discussion of "problems regarding the cost of sickness and all allied problems which other nations have solved."

Secretary Wilbur pointed out that the proposed conference will seek to work out arrangements "distinctly American," if possible. The conference will culminate the efforts of the committee during the last several years.

Neither the names of the 75 notables nor the locating chosen for the conference were made public. Secretary Wilbur explained that the gathering should be held at a quiet, secluded spot, where those in attendance could be free from disturbing influences, to map out a Nationwide program.

Other speakers yesterday included Dr. C. A. Winslow, professor of public health at Yale School of Medicine, chairman of the executive group of the committee, and Dr. Lewellys F. Barker, of Baltimore, who has been an active member of the organization since its inception.

Thug Takes Neck Mole On Victim for Stickpin

Chicago, Nov. 18 (A.P.).—The neck of Joseph Dematriads, of Oak Park, attracted the attention of one of two robbers who held him and another customer up in a haberdashery store last night, stripping him of his coat, vest and other wearing apparel.

"Hey you," the robber said as he glared at Dematriads' neck just below his Adam's apple; "give me that stickpin. Are you trying to get away with something?"

"No, sir," said Dematriads, "I'm not. That's a mole."

Early Congress Opposed Thanksgiving Observance

The story of the part played by George Washington's proclamation designating Thanksgiving Day as a national holiday is related in a statement issued yesterday by the George Washington Bicentennial Commission.

Opposed by several members of Congress, who thought America should not observe a day of thanksgiving because the custom had been established in Europe, Washington issued an order October 3, 1789, for public prayers of thanks.

The original order disappeared from public archives and was lost for more than 100 years, turning up at an auction sale in 1921 when it was immediately purchased for $300 by the Library of Congress. It is now rated as a priceless historical document.

Celebration of Thanksgiving Day had been the custom from the earliest days of the Massachusetts Back Bay colony, according to the commission's statement.

The recovery of the Washington proclamation is credited to Dr. J. C Fitzpatrick, who was then assistant chief of the manuscripts division of the Library. It was offered in a collection of Washington manuscripts being sold in New York. Dr. Fitzpatrick is editing a series of Washing documents to be published by the commission.

Experts to Investigate Error Which Killed 16

Medellin, Colombia, Nov. 18 (A.P.).—Two physicians from the National Laboratory of Hygiene of Bogota arrived here today to investigate the deaths of 16 children in a local hospital after inoculation with diphtheria toxin.

The toxin was said by officials to have been administered by a young interne, Gonzola Ramirez, by mistake for antitoxin. When the error was discovered he became insane. Thirty-three others of the children inoculated were alive today but their condition was said to be serious.

VINCENT, FOE OF U.S., PRESIDENT OF HAITI

Editor Who Opposed American Occupation Elected to Succeed Roy.

SERVED LAND IN EUROPE

Port au Prince, Haiti, Nov. 18 (A. P.).—Stenio Vincent, opponent of American occupation, today was elected President of Haiti by the National Assembly to succeed Eugene Roy.

The choice was somewhat surprising, for the strongest candidates considered previously were Constantin Mayard and Seymour Pradel, but the race today was principally between Vincent and Pradel, with the former chosen on the fourth ballot.

Vincent, who is editor of the anti-American Haiti Journal, is 56 years old and a member of the extreme opposition. He is a lawyer, now serving as president of the Bar Association of Port au Prince, formerly was in the diplomatic service in Paris and Berlin, at one time was president of the Senate and again was minister of the interior.

Functions of Council.

He is the first regularly elected President of Haiti since American intervention in 1916. During that period the presidents, including Louis Borno and his successor, Eugene Roy, were chosen by a council of state appointed by the president holding the office at the time of the election. Borno was given a second term by his own council.

The council, consisting of 21 members, has performed the functions of Parliament during the American occupation, being distinct from the president's cabinet of ministers.

When Borno was overthrown last spring Roy was chosen temporary president until a national assembly could be elected to pick a permanent president. He resigned this week and the balloting on his successor followed.

Departure of Russell.

American Marines were landed in Haiti in 1915, a few hours after President Vilbrun Guillaume Sam had been assassinated by a mob and the country sanctioned the occupation in 1916 by treaty. Since that time and until last week the United States had been represented in Haiti by a high commissioner. The Hoover commission which went to Haiti last February recommended that the office be terminated, and normal diplomatic representation be established.

Hence, Brig. Gen. John H. Russell, of the United States Marine Corps, left the high commissionership last week and the United States Minister, Dana G. Munro, formerly chief of the State Department's Latin-American division, arrived Sunday in the capital of Haiti.

The occupation treaty expires in 1936.

U. S. Wheat Markets Even As Prices Abroad Collapse

Federal Stabilization Program Credited for Domestic Steadiness; Three Canadian Premiers Meet to Urge Minimum Selling Scale.

Chicago, Nov. 18 (A.P.).—The domestic grain markets rode out a storm today while world prices sank in a deluge of selling. Pits at Winnipeg and abroad were almost demoralized by selling orders, and wheat on the Winnipeg Exchange Exchange collapsed 8½ cents a bushel for a time.

At Chicago, in sharp contrast, net losses for the day ranged from ½ to 2¾ cents, and December wheat contracts finished the session still at 75 cents, a price maintained for several days despite evaporating values elsewhere.

Buying by Government sponsored agencies and the encouragement lent by their stabilization policy to private traders was credited with holding the domestic market on even keel. The spread of Chicago prices over Winnipeg increased from yesterday's 11-cent advantage to approximately 15 cents today, and Chicago gained another cent on Liverpool.

At the final gong December wheat, old contracts, sold at 73 cents here; March at 73¾ to 73⅝, May at 75 to 75⅛, and July, new contracts, at 73⅜ to 73¼.

Buying orders for 800,000 bushels appeared through several grain firms here without a fixed price limit and these gave adequate support to the market despite the tremendous sales in foreign centers. These orders were ascribed to the Government supported stabilization agencies. Another supporting factor was spreading operations, involving sales on foreign markets against equal purchases here.

Corn paralelled wheat on the local exchange, dropping from 1¾ to 3 cents a bushel, while oats lost 1⅛ to 1⅜ cents.

Ottawa, Nov. 18 (A.P.).—Premiers of the three provinces in Canada's wheat belt came to Ottawa today to enlist the government in a plan to fix a minimum price for wheat but were told no action would be taken until Prime Minister Bennett comes home from England.

It was suggested that Parliament would wish to pass on the proposal if Premier Bennett should be favorably disposed toward it, since its effect probably would be to put the government into the grain business.

The Premiers of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta met with Sir George Perley, acting prime minister and discussed the minimum price project and other plans for stabilization of the grain market. Sir George refused to reveal the nature of the alternative plans nor would he say whether any definite figure was suggested as a minimum price.

After discussing the market situation the premiers weer asked for their views on various proposals for improving the conditions of the Western farmers.

FUNDS NOT ON LIST, ASPIRANT TELLS NYE

Nebraska State Treasurer Says He Knew of No Outside Aid.

GROCER NORRIS LINKED

Lincoln, Nebr., Nov. 18 (A.P.).—Testimony that funds contributed to the campaign of State Treasurer W. M. Stebbins, candidate for the Nebraska senatorial nomination in the Nebraska primary, were not listed under names of donors, was heard today by the Senate investigating committee.

Charles C. McCloud, Republican national committeeman from Nebraska, said sums he collected as well as money contributed by himself was not so listed.

"Is that a customary thing for a natoinal committeeman to do in a primary campaign?" Senator Gerald P. Nye, chairman, asked.

McCloud replied, "I guess not."

Asked if money from other States were sent into Nebraska to aid Stebbins, the witness said he knew of no such "outside assistance."

Hugh Lrake, State railway commissioner, testified Paul Johnson, an adviser of George W. Norris, Broken Bow grocer, had suggested at a conference that the grocer would be worth "a lot of money to some one, possibly $30,000 to $40,000."

Those attending the conference, Drake said, were himself, his brother, Oscar Drake, an attorney; Victor Seymour, who until recently was connected with the Republican national senatorial campaign committee, and Johnson.

Grocer Norris later entered the senatorial contest as an opponent of Senator George W. Norris.

Seymour, who several months ago denied any connection with the Nebraska campaign, was named by Stebbins as the man who arranged for Grocer Norris' filing. Stebbins said he paid the Grocer's filing fee of $50 and gave Seymour a $500 bond to contribute to the second Norris' campaign fund.

Jobs for 25 Begging, Says Capital Woman

There may be a number of agencies functioning in the Capital to relieve unemployment, but it is hard to convince Mrs. Mason Nicholson of that fact. Her belief is that finding persons for jobs is harder than finding jobs for unemployed.

Last Friday Mrs. Nicholson decided to use 25 extra employes in her business from that time until the holidays for house-to-house canvassing. According to her story, she began telephoning in an effort to secure these employes. She called national, District and private relief agencies in her desire to secure 25 workers.

But up to last night after many "references" from one agency to another Mrs. Nicholson had secured only 3 of the 25 persons she wanted. Now she wants to know who said the "unemployment situation" was bad.

WORK CENSUS CHECK TO BE ENDED TODAY

About 6,000 Returns Made by Unemployed; Reports to Be Classified.

PLAN GRIDIRON BENEFIT

Work of counting and tabulating the results of its workers' census taken last Saturday will be completed today by the Commissioners' unemployment committee, it was reported last night by C. J. Adams, jr., secretary of the organization.

Present plans call for tabulation of the information obtained, under about thirteen classifications, which will show the age, sex, experience, financial responsibilities and marital status of the applicants for jobs. The tabulation also will separate those who are former service men from those who are not.

On the tabulation any salary over $25 a week is listed as "wages desired," while any amount under $25 comes under the head of "willing to work for." Age classificatons are divided into those over 40 and those who have not attained that age.

Divide in Classes.

Applicants are to be divided into three classes, it is planned, according to type of ability. The groups are laborers, skilled laborers or artisans, and office workers. Special classifications also are being prepared for jobless workers, whose wives or children are employed.

The committee, headed by Frederic A. Delano, is conducting a strenuous campaign to find jobs for those who need them.

Counting of returns has not yet been started, and all estimates of the total number of job seekers who enrolled in the census are purely conjectural at present, it was explained. The total, it is expected, will be approximately 6,000. The count is to be only approximate in any event, being accomplished by obtaining the weight of 100 cards and computing the total number from the weight of the total.

Plan Football Benefit.

Final plans for the Marine Corps-Coast Guard football game, to be played December 6 at Griffith Stadium for the benefit of the unemployed of Washington, were discussed yesterday by Mr. Adams with representatives of the two teams.

There are to be 25,000 tickets offered at $1 each, for regular seats, and $1.50 for grandstand seats, it was decided. Clark Griffith has donated use of the stadium, and other expenses of the game will be held down to a minimum.

The game is to be played for the President's Cup, donated by President Coolidge in 1924, and a spirited contest is expected. President and Mrs. Hoover and many other leaders in political, diplomatic and society circles have been invited to attend. The President's Cup now is held by the Marine Corps.

Army Provides Cots.

Secretary of War Hurley yesterday advised the Commissioners that Army cots and blankets are available for use of homeless unemployed persons during the winter months, and may be obtained by the Commissioners, for distribution to charitable institutions or individual applicants, from Maj. Gen. Fred W. Sladen, commander of the Third Corps Area, in Baltimore.

The special committee designated by the Federation of Citizens Associations to aid in providing unemployment relief, yesterday prepared to request local banks to make small loans available for use of those who need funds to make repairs or alterations to their homes.

Fund Shortage Checks Plan.

The committee was created Saturday night, with Assistant Corporation Counsel W. A. Roberts as its chairman, to urge property owners to have such repairs or alterations, and any other odd jobs around their homes, done immediately in order to provide employment.

Investigation has revealed, however, Mr. Roberts reports, that although home owners are not only willing but anxious to have the work done, they lack funds both for materials and labor.

Dr. George C. Havenner, president of the federation, called upon the Commissioners yesterday to urge them to award contracts for public works to local contractors and employers of local labor wherever possible.

Peru, Uruguay Resume Diplomatic Relations

Lima, Peru, Nov. 18 (A.P.).—The newspaper La Prensa reported today that diplomatic relations had been restored between Peru and Uruguay.

Uruguay and Peru broke off relations in September as an outgrowth of the Peruvian revolution. At the time Augusto B. Leguia's administration was overthrown, some of Senor Leguia's executives took refuge with the Uruguayan Minister. The provisional military government thereupon declared the minister persona non grata.

Making of Home Brew Laid to Missourian, 82

St. Louis, Nov. 18 (A.P.).—Aided by a cane, George H. Mueller, 82, walked into U. S. Commissioner John A. Burke's court today to answer a preliminary hearing on charges of sale and possession of home brew.

After Mueller waved the hearing and was bound over to await action of the court, Commissioner Burke allowed him to sign his own bond.

"When this flaming youth gets a little older," the commissioner remarked, "he might settle down and behave himself."

A year ago Mueller served 30 days in lieu of a $250 fine for a liquor violation.

EUROPEAN BUSINESS REMAINS IN SLUMP

Conditions in Latin America Show No Improvement; Japan Aids Banks.

GREEK TRADE DECLINES

Latest cable and radio advices to the Department of Commerce show that industrial conditions in Europe show little change, although in Belgium the metallurgical and woolen industries have renewed activities to some extent. Unemployment, however, is still increasing in Belgium and the Netherlands.

In Sweden the industrial production index rose slightly during September, as compared with August, although it was somewhat lower than in September, 1929. However, certain important industries are not covered by the index.

No appreciable gains can be detected in Canadian business. The wheat crop estimates have been raised recently, but, Winnipeg prices on November 14 reached the lowest level ever recorded.

Argentine Business Dull.

Greek foreign trade for nine months shows heavy declines in both imports and exports, with the import excess somewhat reduced.

Latin American conditions have not improved. In Argentina, despite favorable weather conditions, dull business prevails. There has been a further restriction of credit in Chile, with no gain in general business. Business activity has not been resumed in Brazil. Import purchases in Mexico have been seriously affected by the weakness of the exchange.

Some Far Eastern countries show a trend toward optimism based on slightly higher raw material prices, but no material gains have been recorded. The Japanese government is rendering all possible assistance to banks in order that industries may be able to carry on into the new year without defaulting on obligations. British Indian conditions tend to strengthen slightly, but commodity markets lack confidence.

To Discuss Causes.

The course of business in Siam is still downward, particularly because of the uncertainty of the rice market and weakness in tin and rubber exports. The business tone of the Netherlands East Indies has been very slightly improved by firmer raw commodity prices, and the same factor has caused a slight strengthening in the Philippine Islands. There has been a better demand for the finer grades of Australian wool on the Sydney market.

The causes and possible remedies in the present world economic depression will be discussed by the Council of the International Chamber of Commerce in Paris on December 5, according to an announcement, yesterday by the American section of that organization.

Silas H. Strawn, of Chicago, chairman of the American committee of the International Chamber, will head the American delegation to the council meeting. Other members will include Nelson D. Jay, Paris representative of J. P. Morgan & Co.; Col. Robert E. Olds, former Undersecretary of State, now member of the law firm of Sullivan & Cromwell; F. F. Powell, president of the British-American Chamber of Commerce, London, and Col. William N. Taylor, president of the American Chamber of Commerce in France.

Policemen Commended On Murder Conviction

James R. Kirkland, assistant United States attorney for the District, yesterday sent a letter to Maj. G. Pratt, superintendent of police, commending Precinct Detective Aubrey M. Tolson, Private Hiram McDaniels and Private John E. Burke, of the Seventh Precinct, for their action in obtaining evidence against a colored man convicted of first-degree murder in Criminal Court recently.

The defendant, Charles Norris, was speedily convicted, Mr. Kirkland said in the letter, mainly because of the efficent way in which the evidence was collected and presented by the policemen.

absolutely no danger of a collapse and that the most the section might slip below the level of the remainder of the bridge was 6 inches.

Under his direction the span was blocked up to the correct level and both street car and automobile traffic resumed over the bridge before midnight. Repair of the broken gear will place the bridge in first-class condition again, Mr. Howser declared.

A small traffic jam resulted at both ends of the bridge when the span first settled, but police quickly cleared it and little confusion accompanied the accident. Scores, however, walked out onto the bridge to watch the work of putting the span in its proper place.

POLICE MUST ACT ON LEVINE TODAY

this was possible, Levine aroused the suspicions of the engraver who then came to the police to ask if what Levine wanted was lawful. We told him he was committing a criminal offense. Levine was watched and when we saw he was on the point of going to Italy, we arrested him.

"A point to be noted is that Levine insisted on the coins being made with milled edges exactly similar to the real coins. His intention, he tells us, was to take the die to America where the price of copper is extraordinarily low.

"Another detail is correspondence and gaming counters or chips found in Levine's possession. Counters bore the sign 'C-D,' which might refer to the Casino at Deauville or to some American clubs. They were marked variously 10,000, 20,000 and 50,000 francs. Levine at first said he could not remember where the counters came from, but later said he intended to introduce them in the United States."

Makes Light of Charge.

Levine's lawyer made light of the charge, suggesting simply that this was "one of the most foolish things he had ever done."

The Austrian coinage law is particularly severe in that not only can counterfeiting be punished by life-long imprisonmept, but it is necessary to prove that a forgery was actually committed; proof of its commencement or the mere intent is sufficient.

The beautiful blonde who was with Levine at the time of his arrest was Mabel Boll. She had a dramatic interview with Levine ni pris here today from which she emerged a complete wreck. Her tears and sobs reduced her to such a state that Levine advised her to return to Paris as she was not wanted as a witness. Miss Boll's version, as told to reporters, is that Levine said he wanted to engrave the medals with her portrait and she had asked him to have them made "like the Lindbergh medal."

Grain Speculation Notice Sent Borah

Complaint Covers Action of Farm Board Agents in Chicago.

(Associated Press.

A complaint came to Senator Borah, of Idaho, yesterday from John F. Barrett, of Chicago that Goefernment agents "have been speculating in wheat."

Senator Borah, who is watching the Farm Board's operations in the wheat market with interest, offered no comment upon the telegram. It read:

"This is to notify you that Government agents have been speculating wheat today, maintaining December at 73, May at 75, new May at 76. They have now our December 18½ over Winnipeg, and 21 cents over Liverpool, figuring in the freight."

There is every indication at the Capitol that congressional leaders are prepared to support the Farm Board with additional funds for its attempt to stop the decline in wheat prices.

LEWIS ARGUES NEED FOR MARCH SESSION

Senator-Elect Says Voters Demand Action Upon New Issues.

HOLDS SPEED NECESSARY

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 18 (A.P.).—James Hamilton Lewis, senator-elect from Illinois, said today that the new Congress should be called into session on the first possible day after March 4, "in response to the decision of the ballot box."

He expressed this belief after an interview with Gov. L. L. Emmerson on the subject of waterway work for the unemployed.

"The session would not be an extra session called by the President" said Lewis, "but a regular procedure obeying the call of the people for relief in unemployment, taxation, and agricultural depression.

"The new members of all parties have received instructions from the voters on the measures or projects put forth as necessary for the welfare of the republic. These instructions of the people ought to be carried into effect at the earliest moment possible, to serve the object of the election.

"* * * the present old Congress reconvenes by license of being elected for two years. The error of our Government is in the theory that each congressman and senator is bound by the principles of the platform on which he ran, despite any directions upon issues arising in the meantime.

"The new Congress meets with very little political party division; on all questions the House and Senate have the same direction from the people, with the tariff alone as the exception. The tariff has become a local issue. This is proven by the fact that, but for the five Democrats of the Senate and certain Democrats of the House, the Republican tariff bill would not be law."

CAPITAL RESIDENTS WON'T GET PREFERENCE FOR DISTRICT JOBS

accordance with the civil service act and rules, as provided by statute."

The first interpretation—and it is still the interpretation of some—was that the order placed the District government under the rules of the Civil Service Commission, but Dr. Reichelderfer declared that this was not exactly correct.

Could Be Rescinded.

"It is really a working agreement between the District government and the Civil Service Commission whereby the commission will supply us with eligibility lists to draw from," he said.

Had a law been enacted by Congress, he said, it might be different. In the case of the executive order issued yesterday by President Hoover, he said, the President, if he saw fit, might very well rescind this if the Commissioners asked him to.

There are now in the District service approximately 6,300 employes—3,300 statutory employes and 3,000 per diem employes; that is, employes who work for a stated sum a day.

Commissioner Reichelderfer said the local government, under the new arrangement, would call on the Civil Service Commission for eligibles for clerical jobs, and later on, perhaps, for technical jobs.

As for the per diem employes, he said, the Civil Service rules would not be applied to them at all.

Under Political Pressure.

District employes already enjoy the benefits of the classification act. They get the same leave—30 days sick and 30 days annual—and they also receive the same retirement benefits as Federal employes.

But they have been selected heretofore in an entirely different manner. They simply were appointed, and no written test was necessary.

The result of this system has been that the Commissioners and the department heads have been under considerable pressure from politicians and others who sought jobs for their constitutents and friends.

This, together with the fact that competitive tests will make for efficiency, is responsible for the executive order issued yesterday.

None of the employes now in the service will be affected by the order; it applies only to those who come in from now on.

Washington is only one of two cities of comparable size that do not require applicants for jobs to take a test, the other being Indianapolis.

Recently, the Commissioners issued an order whereby employes are required to serve a probationery period of six months. This policy, Commissioner Reichelderfer said yesterday, is to be continued.

BAD FAITH CHARGED TO POSTAL OFFICIAL

U. S. District Attorney Accuses Arch Coleman in Hearing at St. Paul.

$120,000 LEASE IS CITED

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 18 (A.P.).—L. L. Drill, United States district attorney for Minnesota, charged in testimony today that Arch Coleman, first Assistant Postmaster General, acted in "bad faith" in connection with litigation involving the St. Paul Commercial Postal Station, leased by the Postoffice Department under a noncancelable lease.

Appearing as the only witness today before Senator John J. Blaine (Republican), of Wisconsin, chairman of the special Senate committee investigating postal station leases, Drill declared that Coleman went to the assistance of the owner of the local station when Drill's office last April was fighting an appeal from an award of damages in condemnation of the building. The owner of the building is Postal Stations, Inc., headed by Jacob Kulp, Chicago.

Drill said Coleman appeared as a witness for the station owners to assist the contention that the building was safe and undervalued by appraisers appointed by the Federal court. Drill identified a personal letter he wrote to Seth W. Richardson Assistant Attorney General, soon after Coleman appeared as a witness, in which he complained of lack of cooperation on the part of the Postoffice Department.

"I am thoroughly disgusted with them and no tinclined to the belief that it all came about innocently," Drill wrote, after reciting how Coleman's appearance had come to him as a surprise which jeopardized his chances of success in opposing the appeal.

"I am of the opinion," his letter continued, "that they are guilty of the utmost bad faith. I am also of the opinion that there is a disposition to conceal something in connection with this case."

While the Postoffice Department paid $1200,000 as annual rental for the station, a Federal grand jury held the value of the property was $290,000, and in the condtmnation proceenidgs commissioners gave it a value of $334,000. The grand jury also charged in a report in March, 1928, that the lease was tainted with "corruption, misrepresentation and fraud."

Demonstration as Otto Comes of Age Denied

Woman Testifies In Murder Trial

Virginian Collapses During Questioning in Death of Pennsylvanian.

Mrs. McCarris also denied that she had quarreled with Lee or threatened him, and told how she had left her husband, Frederick, in Portsmouth with her two small children to live with Lee. She contended that she accidentally shot Lee when she fired a shotgun in celebration of Independence Day. After testifying several minutes, she collapsed in the arms of a matron. Revived, she continued her testimony.

A number of witnesses for the State testified she had quarreled with Lee and had threatened him, in jealousy over his attentions to Miss Bernice Doyle, of Philadelphia. One, 13-year-old James Hicks, son of a policeman who owns the farm where Lee and Mrs. McCarris lived, said he had heard the couple quarrel on July 4 and had seen Mrs. McCarris raise a shotgun to her shoulder and point it at Lee.

The lad said he had run when he saw this and later heard a shot. His brother, Thomas, 16, testified he heard the couple quarreling, heard a shot in the house, and saw Lee stagger to the porch and fall.

Bond Issue Urged To Provide Work

Drought Condition Blamed for Present Need in Frederick County.

Special to The Washington Post.

Frederick, Md., Nov. 18.—Officers of the Emergency Drought Association today asked the Frederick County commissioner to arrange a $100,000 bond issue to provide road work for unemployed persons who will be subject to acute distress this winter, unless they find work. The request followed a meeting, attended by more than 100 farmers, who unanimously supported the plan, at the courthouse.

Holmes D. Baker, president of the Citizens National Bank and chairman of the drought association, presided.

Failure of the canning factories to open and the destruction of crops and vegetation by the drought were blamed for the unemployment situation.

It was decided to form separate organizations in each of the 26 districts of the county, with headquarters in Frederick, to deal with the problem. Approximately 200 persons registered at the Federated Charities building in three days for work. The bond issue would provide $4,000 in each of the 25 election districts outside of Frederick. Men with families would be given preference.

REPUBLICANS GAIN.

The reapportionment of the House of Representatives, which has just been announced from the White House, is particularly interesting at this time because of the bearing it will have on the future strength of the political parties. States will not be able to take advantage of their new allotment of representatives until 1932, but the new apportionment will become effective then whether Congress approves or not.

Seats in the House have not been reallocated on the basis of population for twenty years. Failure of Congress to enact the necessary legislation for the reapportionment has denied the people of some States their rights to fair representation. The Congress that will meet this December and the one that assembles a year from December would have a different political line-up if the Constitution had been observed.

If the Republican party had insisted on a reapportionment in 1920 it would not now be faced with virtually an even division of the parties in the House and Senate. Republican States have gained most of the seats that are to be shifted. Every Congress since 1920 would have been more dominantly Republican if representation had been on a basis of equality.

The reapportionment is chiefly interesting now, however, because of the effect it will have on the election of 1932. States that have been assigned additional seats will not only strengthen their position in the House but will cast more presidential votes in the electoral college.

Democratic States suffer the heaviest losses. Missouri's delegation will be diminished by three; Georgia's and Kentucky's, by two. The Republican States of Iowa and Pennsylvania will lose two each, and the States that stand to lose one seat are fairly well divided between the two parties. On the basis of the last election it appears that the Republican party's strength in the losing States will be cut down by about twelve seats and the Democratic party by about fourteen seats.

It is in the reallocation of these seats that the Democrats suffer. All the States making phenomenal gains are Republican, except Texas. California, which is solidly Republican, gains nine representatives and an equal number of electoral votes. Michigan will probably add four Republican representatives to its delegation; New Jersey, two; Connecticut and Washington, one each, and Ohio two. Ohio's congressional delegation was fairly well divided in the last election, but it is a traditionally Republican State.

The Democratic gains are confined to Texas, with three new representatives, and Florida and North Carolina, with one each. New York, which gains two seats, is in the doubtful column, since its present delegation is almost equally divided.

The almost certain gains for the Democrats are five seats, compared with nineteen for the Republican party. Subtracting these from the probable losses, the Democrats have a net loss of nine seats and the Republicans a net gain of seven, leaving New York in the doubtful class.

Control of Congress in 1932 may be decided by the results of the reapportionment, and the next President may also owe his election to the shifting of votes in the electoral college.

DISTRICT CIVIL SERVICE.

At the request of the District Commissioners, President Hoover has authorized the Civil Service Commission to "apply the principles of the civil service act and rules by certifying to the Board of Commissioners the names of eligibles from appropriate registers established for the Federal service, such certifications and appointments to be made under regulations agreed upon by the Board of Commissioners and the United States Civil Service Commission." Apparently the effect of this order will be to throw open the doors to employment in the District Government to all residents of the United States.

The law specifies that appointments to the public service in the departments at Washington shall be apportioned among the several States and Territories and the District of Columbia upon the basis of population. Does the executive order putting the District Government under civil service mean that in the future residents of the District will be on a common basis with residents of the States so far as their eligibility to employment in the District service is concerned? Does it mean that applications of Washingtonians for jobs in their own municipal government will not be given preferential treatment?

SOVIETIZING MUSCLE SHOALS.

Seeing no hope of enacting the Norris bill, the insurgent ranks of the Senate have brought forth a proposed compromise on the Muscle Shoals issue. As matters stand there is no hope of foisting upon the country this scheme to put the Government into the power business. Proponents of the Norris scheme threatened to bring about an extra session of Congress in the hope of coercing President Hoover into withdrawing his opposition. The President would not be intimidated. Apparently the more subtle method of compromise has now been decided upon.

Senator Norris offers to amend his bill so that the power plant would be under Government operation and control, while the nitrate plant would be available for private lease. This "compromise" is unworthy of the name. It would take away all incentive for any corporation to make a satisfactory bid on the nitrate plant, which would stand idle as it has done for the last ten years. On the other hand, the Government would enter the power business without the excuse of operating a nitrate plant for the benefit of agriculture. The result would be a naked and unashamed imitation of Russian communism.

There can be no compromise of the Muscle Shoals issue. Either the Government will go into the power business or it will not. The suggested "compromise" exposes the hypocrisy of those who are trying to use Muscle Shoals to commit the United States to sovietism.

FOR BETTER AMERICANS.

Extensive preparations have been made for the White House Conference on Child Health and Protection, which will be opened by President Hoover tonight. For more than a year 1,200 experts have been engaged in studying the health and well-being of the children of the United States, the progress that has been made in methods of child care, and the deficiencies in the systems of training children, both normal and subnormal. It is not in some respects a pleasing picture that these experts are prepared to paint before the conference. Some 6,000,000 school children, they found, are suffering from malnutrition. More than 600,000 school children have weak hearts, 250,000 are stammerers, 382,000 have tuberculosis, and additional thousands are hard of hearing, blind or partially blind, or suffer from speech defects. It is true that the experts report 1,500,000 gifted children, but of these only 4,000 are receiving the special training that is desirable.

Twice, in years gone by, representative citizens have assembled in Washington to consider child health and the needs of children. The first child-health conference was called by President Roosevelt in 1909. It led to the establishment in 1912 of the Children's Bureau. The second conference, which met in 1919 at the call of President Wilson, was limited in scope. This year's conference was called by President Hoover to consider the field of child health and well-being in its broadest aspects. More than 3,000 delegates have been invited, and such subjects as the need for an adequately trained, full-time health service; the protection of employed physically and mentally handicapped children; means for obtaining greater cooperation among parents, teachers and police in handling delinquent children; vocational guidance and education; the provision of scholarship funds for children whose parents can not afford to keep them in school; the extension of State aid to widows and children; standardization of child health activities; preventive health measures; the safeguarding of family life from social and economic disorders; community care of handicapped children, and home relief for dependent children are scheduled for discussion.

Civilization can be measured by the attention which the community pays to the rearing of its children. America's progress has been attributed to its natural wealth, the industry of its people, and the mechanization of industry. These are important factors, but if the improvement of the human element is neglected it can not be expected that the United States will lead the world in true greatness. The efforts to improve the health and well-being and to increase the opportunities of America's children are worthy of all praise, inasmuch as progress in this direction will permanently enhance the welfare and happiness of the Nation.

OCEAN AIRMAIL PLANS.

Confirmation of the fact that negotiations looking toward the establishment of a transatlantic airmail and express service are under way comes from London, Paris and Washington. From London comes the statement that the managing director of Imperial Airways is coming to the United States to further the transatlantic project. In Paris it is announced that Andre LaFont, managing director of Aero Postale, is in New York to confer with J. T. Trippe, president of Pan-American Airways, and in Washington Assistant Postmaster General Glover says that the Government has been informed that both British and French interests are negotiating with Pan-American for the formation of a plan whereby they will divide up the proposed transatlantic airmail contracts. A statement from the Postoffice Department says that "Postmaster General Brown has been approached on the possibility of transatlantic airmail, and has indicated an interest in any proposal that would speed up these mails."

It is proposed to carry the mails from the United States to Europe via Bermuda and the Azores. This is by long odds the most practicable route for such a service, but the fact remains that planes having a flying range of at least 2,000 miles would be needed. The world has yet to produce a seaplane (only the seaplane is commercially practicable for over-water flying) capable of flying 2,000 miles in regular service carrying a pay load. The DO-X, superb ship that she is, is not suitable for such service. The British are said to be building long-range seaplanes, but, even so, months and years of experimental flying will be required before the new ships can be depended upon for regular commercial service.

Pan-American and Imperial Airways and Aero Postale are looking to the future. It does no harm to prepare plans at this early date for transatlantic airmail service. Some time in the future, when ships are available, the plans can be put in operation. But for the present, when every long-distance flight is an adventure, when a three-day air crossing is the best that can be proposed, and when fast steamships, utilizing airplanes and catapults, can get the mails across in four days, and when the DO-X, the ultimate in present-day seaplane design, has such difficulty with fog and weather in flying from England to France that she is forced to spend a night anchored off the coast of France, it is a bit early to look for regular commercial transatlantic air service.

It is not yet certain what effect the defeat of Senator Heflin will have on the climate of Washington.

It is evident that Bernard Shaw didn't take his list of the world's greatest men seriously. He didn't include himself.

"Research reveals that there are 12,000,000 radios in the United States." Why, there are that many in our block alone.

ALEXANDER LEGGE

By HAL BORLAND,
In the Philadelphia Public Ledger.

Until Alexander Legge was drafted into the Farm Board chairmanship a year and a half ago, not one out of a thousand newspaper readers recognized his name. But that was the reader's loss, not Mr. Legge's. He already had done things, big things. For seven years he had been president of the International Harvester Co., biggest manufacturer of farm machinery in the world. He was a $100,000-a-year man. During the World War he was vice chairman of the War Industries Board, the remarkable work of which Chairman Bernard Baruch attributed entirely to Mr. Legge's ability and industry. He was also manager of the Allied Purchasing Commission, and at the Paris peace conference in 1918 he was an economic adviser to the American delegation, for which work he received congressional recognition. Later he had a big part in reorganizing the war-wrecked industries of France, Germany and Russia.

This was the gentleman who, at 63, shouldered the job of pulling the farmer out of the bog in which he had been floundering for ten years—and stepped into the national limelight.

But that limelight, even after a year and a half, has revealed very little of Alexander Legge except the color and the character readily visible to any one who meets and talks with him. Certainly it has revealed no weakness in this six-footer who knows farms and farmers as probably no other man in Washington.

Born in Dane County, Wis., not far from Madison, the State capital, he grew to the age of 15 on his father's farm. Then the Legges moved to another farm near Schuyler, Nebr., about 75 miles west of Omaha. His public school education completed between farming seasons, he spent the next ten years as a farmhand and cowboy. At the age of 25 he decided he didn't want to spend all his life tending hogs or plowing corn. He got a job with the Council Bluffs (Iowa) branch of the McCormick Harvester Co.

A year later Harold McCormick, heir to the business, went to Council Bluffs to learn the job from the ground up. Looking forward to the time when he would manage the firm, he watched for potential executives. A friend advised him, "Watch Alex Legge. He's a big, red-headed farm boy and a comer."

McCormick watched the red-headed farm boy, gave him responsibility. Alex Legge took to it like a duck to water. Thirty years later, when McCormick retired, he became president of the International Harvester Co., successor of the original McCormick Co.

"Who's Who in America" has known Mr. Legge for the last ten years, but until the current issue has contained only a bald recital of his business career. Now it also lists his birthday, but not his parents, his honors or his marriage. It is commonly known, however, that he is a widower with no children; that he works harder than any two average senators, and that he is too busy for social engagements. His talk is salty, of the soil. Farmers understand every word he says. His millions invested in International Harvester stock, railroad stock and motor-company stock leave him unchanged. He is still a big, rawboned, red-headed farm boy—"Hardboiled Alex," he is often called.

Now Mr. Legge says he is going to resign. That means he will resign—and no ifs or buts about it. But Mr. Legge has not said when he will resign. "Hardboiled Alex" never yet has quit in the face of a hard job.

So any rejoicing just now by the radical farm-relief politicians who know Mr. Legge can whip them single-handed is a bit premature. In the light of past performance, Mr. Legge still has a lot of farm-relief fight in his system.

Can Uncle Continue to Carry the Load?

SHORT CIRCUITS.

Generally Speaking.

Rutland Herald: Every person has at least one book in him, and generally speaking, it ought to remain there.

Noisy as a Model T.

Dallas News: What Mussolini should do is to take his saber to a garage and have the rattle taken out of it.

"What-Of-It?" News.

Milwaukee Journal: Just to let us know that it is on the job, the Department of Commerce reports that the buggy and phaeton are disappearing rapidly.

Now and Then.

Amsterdam Recorder: Stocks are now down to the level of 1926. And strange as it may seem, people thought times were pretty good in that year.

Science Aplenty.

Detroit News: The staff journalist with the Byrd party tells about a poker game that lasted four months. And yet there are skeptics who claim these expeditions are not scientific.

EASY EDUCATION.

Dr. Eliot thought men could be educated only with 5 feet of books which he selected, says the Raleigh News and Observer. Hugh Walpole makes it easier. In a speech last week he said that there are only six books "which are worthy of being called literature." He named them as follows: Tolstoi's "War and Peace," Homer's "Iliad," Jane Austen's "Pride and Prejudice," Keats' first volume, Doughty's "Arabia Deserta" and Chaucer's "Canterbury Tales."

This is not only an easy route to education. It is also a cheap one. Think of being able to read all the books "worthy of being called literature" by buying and reading six books.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

TALE OF A BROOCH.

A little woman found a brooch upon the street one day.
It looked to her like jewelry the 10-cent stores display.
She took it home to pin her waist
while out to wash she went,
And day by day that trinket gleamed
as o'er the tub she bent;
But no one stopped to notice it. No mistress at the door
Would cast a second glance at things the washerwoman wore.

"It is a pretty brooch," she thought
"I'll wear it while I may,
Then give it to my daughter on her graduation day.
It's rather sad to look at now. I've lost a pearl or two,
But I can pay a jeweler to make it good as new."

So when the happy time arrived she asked a man the cost
Of two small pearls which would replace the ones that she had lost.

The jeweler the trinket took and gravely looked it o'er.
Said he: "Wait just a moment, please.
I fear 'twill cost you more Than you expect. These pearls are rare." She trembled at his speech.
"For gems like this we'll have to charge two thousand dollars each.
This is the most expensive brooch, exquisite, charming, quaint!"
The washerwoman heard no more.
She'd fallen in a faint.

To find that brooch police had searched the city up and down,
And all the time it glistened on a woman's gingham gown,
And all the time it glistened as she toiled some floor to scrub
Or shed its rays of loveliness above the steaming tub.
But like this washerwoman countless folks, year in, year out,
Perhaps are blessed with riches they have never learned about.

The Virtue of Reasonable Men Becomes a Vice in Extremists.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

OUR fathers and our fathers' fathers fought for liberty and won.

Having been strong enough to win it, they were strong enough to control it. In their hands it was not a menace.

Liberty, however, is for those who earn it. The strong can not bequeath it to the weak.

Those who inherit liberty accept it as a natural right and seldom are aware of the obligations it imposes. They dance without thought of paying the piper. They turn liberty into license, and soon they are enslaved by their own follies. They are no longer free men, and will have no freedom until they earn it in their own right.

Thus history repeats itself and each new generation must fight for a new freedom from new tyrants or submit to chains.

When modern men first began to thirst for freedom, the law and the courts were cruel and unjust. Men were hanged for petty thefts. Criminals were quartered, disemboweled and burned. The poor and the unknown were "railroaded" to jail on the perjured testimony of any big-wig they had offended. Men rotted in jail for want of money to pay their debts. The accused was guilty until he could prove himself innocent.

When decent men could endure such tyranny no longer, they revolted. The freedom they fought for was freedom from cruel and unjust laws and brutal courts.

It was no easy victory; and the conflict was so bitter and the hatreds it engendered were so lasting that generations three times removed still nursed a prejudice against the forces of law and gave their sympathy to whomsoever the law pursued.

The modern secretly sides with the criminal because his own great-grandsire was whipped for his impudence to a crown official. Freedom, to him, means freedom from all authority.

And much enjoyment of unearned freedom, without a sense of responsibility to hold it within respectable limits, has at last resulted in almost complete destruction of the machinery of justice.

The accused is innocent in theory until proven guilty.

Actually, nine in ten of those indicted are guilty as charged. The corpse is there or the loss is there to establish their guilt, and witnesses worthy of trust confirm it.

Yet criminal after criminal goes free or escapes with a trivial punishment because juries, lawyers and judges are no longer trustworthy servants of society.

Again the people are enslaved—this time by the tyranny of crime and their own weakness and indifference and folly, and they shall not again be free until they develop the courage and character to fight and overthrow their masters as their fathers did before them.

PRO AND CON

Various Aspects of Political Issues Discussed by the Press.

Borah Breathes Trouble.

New York Times.

To Mr. Borah the plan of first aid for everybody's business is "superlative impudence." He will not filibuster and does not suppose the Democrats will. But he is convinced that the Progressives will insist on the consideration at the short session of matters which he regards as pressing. Farm relief, with a renewal of the debentures feature; Government operation of Muscle Shoals; "power legislation generally;" the passage of the Norris resolution to eliminate the "lame duck" short session of Congress—these are a few of the bills which Mr. Borah may have included in his immediate program.

Where is the time to discuss, much less act, on any of the other important things implied in the Borah statement? What he has said, if supported by his Senate familiars, must be taken as a move in the direction of an extra session.

Dilemma of the Democrats.

New York World.

If the Democrats make even a temporary coalition with the administration to prevent a special session they will be charged throughout the West with betraying the farmers in the interest of bipartisan big business. And if the Democrats follow the insurgents' lead into a special session they will be charged in the East with an irresponsible attitude toward business.

That Tariff Revision Threat.

Houston Post-Dispatch.

One queer Republican view is that the Democratic offer itself means a declaration of war against the protected industries. The Washington Post voices this standpoint, declaring that the Democrats, while disclaiming any intention of frightening business by general tariff revision, "plainly serve notice that they favor piecemeal revision." This would keep Congress in an upheaval of attempted tariff changes, and would alarm and paralyze "every industry entitled to protection against dangerous foreign competition."

Though first reports from Washington were that the Democratic offer was regarded there as statesmanlike and politically wise, it now seems that it is encountering rough sailing in both parties. Senator Moses, G. O. P. wheelhorse, cautioned his party to beware of "Democrats bearing gifts." And now Senator Glass,

While admiring their manifestation of patriotism, one wonders whether the Democratic leaders have again lived up to the Democratic reputation for doing the wrong thing at the wrong time, by tossing away a possible opportunity to control Congress, or at least to force an overhauling of the tariff law.

"United" Democrats.

Kansas City Times.

Former Gov. Smith, of New York, tells a Boston audience that there is no hope of a solution of the wet and dry question by the Republicans, because that party is "compelled by force of circumstances to dodge" the issue, the circumstances being that some Republicans are wet and others dry. It is to be assumed from this that the Democrats are of one mind in the matter, as was shown in the presidential election results of 1928.

On the Rampage.

Louisville Courier-Journal.

Four elephants stampeded in London at the lord mayor's show. Perhaps they had heard about the rout of their blood brother over here on November 4.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Oil Companies Employ American Seamen on Their Tankers—A Sailor's Testimony.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I was much interested in the editorial "Jobs for American Sailors," that appeared in The Post on November 18, as I spent some months as a seaman on oil tankers, and during that time was a member of the Eastern and Gulf Sailors Association, a division of the American Federation of Labor.

I particularly remember the feeling that was manifest against the "Dollar Line." Robert Dollar is one of the strongest proponents for a strong merchant marine and is continually pointing out its value as a supplement to the Navy in time of war, yet, with the exception of officers, the crews of his ships are foreigners. Not only foreigners, but men who are not even eligible to American citizenship; Orientals who are content with a fraction of the wage that must be paid to American whites, and who are satisfied with quarters and food that are far below the standard.

On the other hand, the larger oil companies who operate their own ships are to be congratulated for the high standards they have created for crew accommodations, food and pay, as well as for the training that they give. With possibly only one exception they give all preference to American crews.

I know that this editorial will be very much appreciated among seamen.

G. H. BARROWS.

Three Highways Across Country Should Be Constructed Forthwith.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The present period of depression is an excellent opportunity to construct three modern 300-foot highways across the continent through virgin territory where possible, tunneling through the Eastern mountains and overpassing railroads and building new bridges across the Mississippi River and other rivers to open new, undeveloped territory and connect up these sections with developed territory. Reconstructing present highways is costly, and pioneering must be continued even in this age.

One highway in the Southern section should start from Charleston, S. C., running through or near Atlanta, and straight west to Los Angeles, Calif.; a second one, starting at Washington, D. C., passing near Louisville, Ky., and west to San Francisco, and a third, from Boston through Cleveland, Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul, and to Portland.

The national debt is being paid too rapidly at the present rate of a billion a year, and these projects are necessary to the development of the United States and as a timely aid to the Nation's prosperity.

R. LEGRAD.

Washington's Wide Streets Do Not Require Dangerous Left-Hand Turn That Is Necessary in Other Cities.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: A most satisfactory justification of the rotary left-hand turn in relation to Washington city traffic is that of Russell T. Edwards, printed November 16. So, at least, it seemed to me, and I advise traffic fans who missed it to look it up in The Post of that date.

His argument that the National Capital should retain the left-hand turn adapted to its wide thoroughfares, instead of adopting the unsafe inside turn necessary in the case of narrow streets elsewhere, meets the approval of all Washingtonians who travel a great deal on foot as well as by automobile.

"Let Washington be the model in this regard, as it is now," says Mr. Edwards. Indeed, his remarks, in addition to their special significance, should in their general application be given serious consideration by inferiority citizens who are prone to depend unduly on the "expertness" of outsiders in reference to all sorts of local affairs. As Mr. Edwards further suggests, "We do not have to copy anybody in anything unless the thing copied has proved merit."

GEO. A. CAPPS.

Inadequate Mail Collections and Restricted Deliveries Bring Forth Strong Protest.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I wish to register my most vigorous protest against the present inadequate and unsatisfactory mail service being rendered in this section, and perhaps other sections of Washington. For example, under the present system—or rather lack of system—mail deposited in boxes after 9 o'clock p. m., is not scheduled to be collected until after 2 o'clock p. m. the next day—a period of seventeen hours. Such purported but pseudo "economy," in these days of unemployment, saying nothing of the recent cut to only two mail deliveries a day, is an intolerable injustice to the taxpayers of the District of Columbia and a gross reflection on the Postoffice Department of the richest nation under heaven.

No Wet Plank Will Be Nailed to Next Republican Platform, Asserts Mr. Miller.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: There are demands that no friend of the Republican party shall advocate the repeal of the eighteenth amendment. To join hands with the Democratic party in this way in 1932 would be political suicide. It would inevitably mean the formation of a third party with a bone-dry nominee to which the friends of prohibition the country over would flock in overwhelming numbers. They would most certainly elect their candidate.

Senator Wadsworth and his friends apparently do not realize that the drys in the country, like those in Congress, are in the majority. The wets may as well prepare for a bitter dose, for the Republican platform of 1932 will have no plank advocating a repeal of the eighteenth amendment.

W.C.T.U. IS PLEDGED AGAINST WET VOTE

Political Parties Are Warned to Nominate Only Dry Candidates.

OFFICERS ARE RENAMED

Houston Tex. Nov. 18 (A.P.).—Delegates to the fifty-sixth annual convention of the National Woman's Christian Temperance Union pledged themselves today not to vote for any wet political candidate and warned political parties to nominate only drys.

The convention reelected national officers and adopted a program calling for a widespread "education" campaign in public schools in behalf of the eighteenth amendment.

Mrs. Ella A. Boole of Brooklyn, was chosen president for her sixth term. Other officers reelected were:

Mrs. Ida B. Wise Smith, of Des Moines, Iowa, vice president; Mrs. Anna Marden De Yo, of Evanston, Ill., corresponding secretary; Mrs. Margaret C. Munns, of Evanston, treasurer; Mrs. Sara H. Hoge, of Lincoln, Va., recording secretary; Mrs. Nelle G. Burger, of Springfield, Mo., assistant recording secretary.

Loyalty Is Pledged.

After adoption of the union's general prohibition platform which declared opposition to "any and all political parties adopting a repeal or modification plank," the delegates swept to their feet and, at the direction of the officials, thrust their right hands high above their heads and cried, "We'll see this thing through!"

Then they began to sing, first "Blest Be the Tie That Binds" and later "A Charge to Keep I Have."

As Mrs. Boole beamed upon them, Mrs. D. Leigh Colvin, of New York, called out, "Let North and South join hands." All over the hall they clasped each other's hands.

Text of Plank Adopted.

The plank adopted read:

"We reaffirm our position taken in the last presidential campaign in favor of dry planks in party platforms. We will oppose any and all political parties adopting a repeal or modification plank. We declare our determination to support candidates who by personal example, public acts and public utterances show themselves the undoubted friends of prohibition."

The union also passed a resolution requesting the creation of a Federal board of film censorship.

Miss Maude M. Aldrich, head of the motion picture department, said the movies would be constantly used against the eighteenth amendment from now to the 1932 campaign" unless action was taken.

INDIAN CRISIS MAY OVERTURN MACDONALD'S GOVERNMENT

alike—to press the British delegation relentlessly from now on for a definite pledge that equality of status for India within the empire shall be the goal of this conference. And it is because the British delegation can give no such pledge that matters seem to be approaching a crisis, affecting British as well as Indian politics.

Mean to Force Action.

The Indian delegates, Sir Tej Bahadur Sapru declared today, are determined to force the issue as soon as possible because they are disgusted by MacDonald's speeches, which say nothing, and by Lord Peel's speech today, which, it is believed, will arouse Indian opinion at home. Telegrams already are being received by the Indian delegates from their supporters who favored the present conference, urging them to break it up and come home as a result of MacDonald's negative speech when King George opened the conference.

The conference decided at today's plenary session to appoint a federal relations committee to consider the structure of a federal system of government for India. Wedgwood Benn, secretary of state for India, will be chairman and the committee will have six British members, ten from the Independent Indian states and sixteen from British India. The appointment of this committee does not satisfy the Indians, who will demand a declaration from MacDonald in a plenary session that equality of status for India with the other dominions will be conceded.

Would Take Safeguards.

If it is, they will get to work and their leaders express themselves as willing to accept safeguards regarding control of the army by the viceroy and possibly other checks and balances.

Lord Peel's speech was the event of today's plenary session. After sentiment and emotion, he told the delegates, the conference must come down to practical affairs and went on to quote the viceroy, Lord Irwin, on the alleged dominion status pledge as stating "asserting of a goal, however precise its terms, is a different thing from the goal's attainment."

No promise has been made, Lord Peel, asserted, for "immediate translation into fact of a full measure of dominion status."

While the delegates may be united as to their ultimate goal, he continued, "we may differ as to the pace or rapidity with which we may attain that goal."

Lively Moments Result.

At these words, it was learned, there were lively movements of indignation among the Indian delegates at the plenary session, from which the press was excluded.

Lord Peel also denied the statements of Indian speakers that the British have any kind of a commercial monopoly in India other than the advantages obtained by their own skill and energy. He was eulogizing the Simon report's proposal for "full autonomy in the provinces" when an Indian delegate shouted:

"Bogus: Absolutely bogus!"

"I will come presently to the question of whether it is bogus," Lord Peel said with dignity, continuing his speech as if there had been no interruption.

Still Further Angered.

The former secretary of State for India still further angered, most, if not all, the Indians present by questioning the fitness of India for parliamentary institutions, saying that it may be that these in India "are not growth, but graft" and "it would be a pity to stereotype too early the precise form which the constitution ought to take."

He ended by looking forward to India taking "an equal part in the great community of the British commonwealth of nations by processes quicker or slower, as the case may be."

The Maharajarah of Alwar, wearing a diamond sunburst in his peaked turban, demanded in a florid speech the creation of an Indian federation, although objecting to that particular word.

"To me the United States of India sounds more grand," he said.

Seeks Dominion Status.

Sir Mahommed Shafi, the Moslem leader, demanded "dominion status as an equal partner in the British commonwealth of nations," speaking in the same terms and with the same urgency as the Hindu orators, but on behalf of 71,000,000 Moslems he insisted on their legitimate share both in the provincial and central government. He welcomed the declaration of the princes that "the Indian states are willing to come into an all-India federation."

The Maharajah of Rewa, speaking, he said, as the one conservative Indian delegate, declared:

"It seems to me that a nation is being brought to birth."

Indian Conditions Deplored.

This youngest of the Indian princes, who at the age of 27 has already been ruler of a large state for twelve years, asserted: "The state of India today is such as to bring tears to the eyes of all who love her."

He urged the desire of the native states to safeguard their individual existence and for "guarantees and safeguards." In closing his address, he quoted these words spoken by Edmund Burke when the fate of another nation was in the balance:

"Magnanimity in politics is not seldom the truest wisdom and a great empire and litle minds go ill together."

LEAVES OF TOBACCO YIELD FRUIT FLAVOR

Malic and Citric Acids Found in Every Cigar as Plant Growth Is Checked.

NICOTINE UNDER STUDY

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 18 (A.P.).—Science finds in tobacco leaves the acid flavor of apples and oranges. Not just a trace, but plenty of the malic acid of apples and citric acid of oranges are present in every cigar.

Instead of being new brands sought for advertisement, these are the findings of pure science—incidental developments in a study of tobacco leaves at the Connecticut Agricultural Experiment Station, undertaken to learn the manner in which green leaves manufacture plant foods.

The latest discovery, one which shows an unexpected and surprising ability of young tobacco plants to produce nicotine, was made public today.

Tiny seedling plants grown in the laboratory of Dr. H. B. Vickery, biochemist, produce nicotine, although no trace of it can be detected in the seeds. They are planted on a sheet of blotting paper, moistened with pure distilled water in which there is no nitrogen, and the seeds sprout with no source of food other than that furnished by nature in the seed itself.

Although there is nicotine in the seed pods, all trace of it has vanished from the seeds by the time they have ripened. Nevertheless, whether they grow in daylight or in darkness, by the time the plants are half an inch tall they contain about three-tenths of 1 per cent of nicotine.

Adult tobacco plants are known to make nicotine with the aid of nitrogen drawn from the oil through their roots, and they contain 2 to 3 per cent of nicotine by weights.

How the young plants are able to produce the complex poisonous substance Dr. Vickery is trying to learn, for the process may yield valuable information on plant growth.

The tobacco leaves synthesize various vital plant foods in addition to the apple and orange acids. These leaves were selected for scientific study because they are big, thin and uniform and an unlimited supply of them is available in Connecticut, grown under controlled conditions by expert tobacco farmers.

236,879 Enrolled In Legion for 1931

Shows Greatest Advance Membership Since Its Formation.

Indianapolis, Nov. 18 (A.P.).—The greatest advance membership in American Legion history, 236,879, enrolled for 1931, was reported today in a national telegraphic roll call at the annual conference of department commanders and adjutants, in session at the national headquarters. Wisconsin led the Nation, with 67.73 per cent of its quota. Special citations will be awarded to the ten departments reporting the highest percentage of membership quota attained as of November 18. Following Wisconsin are Kansas, with 63.93 per cent; Hawaii, 59.88; Rhode Island, 54.55; Louisiana, 52; West Virginia, 45.78; Alabama, 45.64; Florida, 45.55; Mississippi, 44.99, and Minnesota, 41.40. California just missed the first ten, with 40.51.

Mexico City, Nov. 18 (A.P.).—Fernando de la Garza, personal representative of President Ortiz Rubio, is en route to Laredo to meet J. Reuben Clark, new American Ambassador to Mexico, and escort him to the Mexican capital.

The president has ordered a special car to be placed at Mr. Clark's disposal at Laredo.

The Soviet government arrested the murderer and expressed regrets to the Afghan ambassador.

COSTE, BELLONTE STEAL DO-X SHOW

French Fliers Arrive at Bordeaux for Banquet; Huge Welcome Given.

GERMAN SHIP TO LEAVE

Bordeaux, France, Nov. 18 (A.P.).—The French fliers, Coste and Bellonte, stole the show from Germany's big DO-X today, and the tremendous crowd which turned out to see them arrive for a banquet tonight made yesterday's jam of sightseers watching the seaplane fly over the city look like a corporal's guard.

But it was all taken in good part by the German crew. After all, Coste and Bellonte are national heroes, and DO-X still has her greatest deeds before her.

The Frenchmen arrived too late to meet the seaplane crew, still aboard their plane 20 miles from the city, in the Gironde River. The DOEX is scheduled to leave tomorrow morning for La Coruna, and her crew went to bed early tonight.

The German officers were not asked to attend tonight's banquet in honor of the French airmen, since they are to leave so early tomorrow, but there was no dissatisfaction over this apparent omission when it was explained that the visitors had expressed a preference to stay with their ship on the last night before the take-off.

Dr. Claude Dornier, the DO-X designer, said today that when the ship reaches Lisbon, starting place of the ocean lap of a projected flight to America, he may decide to take down her twelve motors and install British engines.

It was believed, however, that the motor trouble, if there is any, probably involves the magnetoes, and a magneto expert was on his way to Lisbon today to look over the plant.

LEGAL ASSOCIATION VOTES DRY REPEAL

United States Circuit Court of Appeals for the Tenth District, sitting at Albuquerque, N. Mex., said the referendum was an expression of the membership of the American bar in its attitude toward the eighteenth amendment.

The bar, Judge Phillips explained, has two methods of putting its questions before the membership: By adopting resolutions at the annual meeting, or by submitting the question to a referendum vote, as was done in this instance.

Whether the bar association now will take any definite step toward bringing about repeal probably will not be known until the next annual meeting in Atlantic City next September, Judge Phillips said.

It had been intended, it was learned, to make known the result of the referenda at an earlier date, but it later was decided to withhold the announcement until after the elections, in order that the poll could have no effect on the balloting.

Walter H. Eckert, Chicago, chairman of the association's publicity committee, said the result of the referendum on the eighteenth amendment could be interpreted as an action of the membership advisory to the executive committee. In other words, he said, the lawyers had expressed themselves against the eighteenth amendment, and now the executive committee knew the desired attitude to take in considering its program for the next annual meeting.

In view of the outcome of the referendum, he said it would be possible that some definite program may now be formulated.

ports, Col. Woodcock pointed out this would bring his corps of agents to around 2,000, in addition to 200 special agents, several alcohol inspectors and 24 instructors for his agents' school.

There was some conjecture as to whether a move would be made in Congress to offer an appropriation considerably larger. Such an attempt was made in 1929.

Senator Glenn, in urging modification of the Volstead act, contended the brewing of beer with an alcoholic content above the one-half of one per cent now permitted would "satisfy 90 per cent of those who are opposed to the present liquor situation, and would replace the widespread use of injurious home brew and high powered liquors and syrups."

Beetles Sought In Jahncke's Car

Officials in Maryland Are Courteous, Says Navy Official.

Search of the automobile of Assistant Secretary of the Navy Jahncke near Baltimore by uniformed men was admitted yesterday by Mr. Jahncke, but the Assistant Secretary said the incident occurred two months ago and that the search was for Japanese beetles rather than liquor as published reports had indicated.

Mr. Jahncke said that his machine was stopped at Waterloo, Md., on the Washington-Baltimore boulevard, as were all other cars, by red signal flares. Uniformed agents searched the car of the Assistant Secretary, but were orderly about it and courteous to the occupants, Mr. Jahncke added.

Federal inspectors were stationed at Waterloo at the time on a Japanese beetle quarantine assignment. They were attired in khaki uniforms.

Newspaper-Making Called Profession

Achievement of Individual or 'Happy Combination,' Publisher Says.

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 18 (A.P.).—Col. Robert R. McCormick, publisher of the Chicago Tribune, today described the newspaper as the achievement of an individual or a "happy combination of individuals." Speaking on "The Newspaper as a Business Enterprise," he said:

"I have always been accustomed to think of the newspaper in the terms of a man or a group of men associated together, the achievement of an individual or a happy combination of individuals, and that with the passing of these a newspaper falls into a slow and steady decline unless or until it comes into the possession of another man or group of men suited to the occasion."

"So-called business methods are used in newspapers, to be sure, but they are merely incidental. A newspaper is a profession—an organized profession—I believe the best organized of the professions, but it is not a business in the sense that the dry-goods store, bank, or factory is a business."

Free State Army Critic Quits Officers' Reserve

Dublin, Nov. 18 (A.P.).—Lieut. Gen. Sean McKeon, prominent in the long struggle against the British and under sentence of death when the Free State was established by treaty, resigned from the officers' reserve today.

He was one of the four signatories to a document published last week which censured the administration of the Free State's army.

and from a place of semihiding is working with some success to build up again the power of the Sindicato Unico, which Gen. Martinez Anido was able to reduce to inactivity during the dictatorship.

This organization is rich and well disciplined. It publishes a defiant little daily news sheet, La Solidaridad Obreara, which, for all its being suppressed and fined continually by the civil governor, is very popular with the working class.

Unico Acts Secretly.

The Unico acts secretly with sudden violence and the order with which its lightning strikes are conducted has something of sinister menace in it. Most strikes in Barcelona are orderly and disturbances are usually provoked by irresponsible workmen and students. This was the element which stopped street cars and threw stones.

Many people here believe that the strikes which are continually occurring all over Spain, and which up to the present seem to have left no bitterness between opposing classes of the population, are practic for a sudden revolution directed against the government which will strike rapidly and with great violence or will fizzle out at the start.

Maier Quits as G. O. P. Chairman in New York

New York, Nov. 18 (A.P.).—William J. Maier resigned today as chairman of the Republican State committee. The resignation is to take effect December 3, when the committee will meet to name his successor. "When I accepted the chairmanship in June, 1929," he said in a statement announcing his decision, "I agreed to serve only until the end of the 1930 session of the Legislature."

In answer to a reporter's question as to whether the so-called Hoover group in the party in this State wanted him to stay, Mr. Maier said, "Every one has asked me to stay."

Curry Seat in Congress Not Filled at Election

(Associated Press.)

One district will not have representation in the short session of the present Congress because the electors neglected to fill a vacancy. A check-up has shown that no member was chosen in the Third California District to fill the seat made vacant by the recent deadth of Charles F. Curry.

Charles F. Curry, jr., was elected to the Seventy-second Congress to succeed his father, but no special election was held and in all probability the seat will remain vacant until March 4, 1931. Young Curry, however, is going to establish an office and carry on the district's business until he takes his seat.

Lucas Explains Absence of Fess

Says Senator Was Advised of Matters Discussed at White House.

(Associated Press.)

A statement was issued yesterday by Robert H. Lucas, executive director of the Republican national committee, explaining that Chairman Fess, of the national committee, was "fully advised" of the questions discussed at Monday's White House conference which Senator Fess did not attend with the other party officers.

Later yesterday, Senator Fess also called at the White House to visit President Hoover. He said he had discussed affairs of the George Washington Bicentennial Commission, of which he is chairman.

In his brief statement, Mr. Lucas said: "The conferences yesterday were wholly on administrative matters, with the executive officers reporting to the President as to the conclusions reached. Chairman Fess was fully advised as to all the matters under consideration, and the results met with his entire approval."

ADVERTISING LAUDED AS DEPRESSION AID

Club Told That Great Need for Economic Relief Is More Consumption.

OTHER TALKS PLANNED

Advertising is "the one Moses in these days of purely temporary depression who can lead us out of the wilderness of fear," the Advertising Club of Washington was told at the weekly meeting at the National Press Club by Stewart L. Mims, vice president of the J. Walter Thompson Co., advertising organization, New York City.

His talk marked the first of a series of six messages to be given before the club here by prominent members of the Advertising Federation of America.

"We have plenty of production," he said. "America could produce, if she were put to it, nearly all the manufactured goods the entire world needs. What we need is consumption and one of the greatest urges to consumption is advertising."

In asserting that the federation deemed the time expedient to emphasize its slogan, "Truth in Advertising," he vigorously refuted the claim of opponents to advertising that the consumer eventually pays for advertising.

"The advertiser apparently does not pay it out of his profits and its does not seem to come out of the pocket of the consumer. There is no black magic about it, only a marvelous economic paradox by which you have your cake and eat it, too. Advertising pays its own bill, by stimulating consumption and speeding up production, and thereby creating enough additional wealth to pay the bill many times over.

"During the past 17 years all commodities combined have advanced just twice as much in price as have those groups of commodities affected by advertising. In addition, the advertised commodities have maintained a more constant price level, with much less fluctuation than have all other commodities combined."

Two sewer contracts involving $24,368, were awarded to the Stowell Construction Co. by the District Commissioners yesterday. One was for construction of the East Washington Park sanitary sewers in the vicinity of Thirty-second and D streets southeast, on which the Stowell company's bid, $18,419.75, was the lowest of those submitted by four contractors.

The other contract calls for construction of the South Portal drive sanitary sewer in the vicinity of Sixteenth street northwest and the District line. The Stowell company bid $5,954.80 on this job, again being the lowest of the four competing contractors.

SWAMP ENGULFS HIGHWAY IN OHIO

Marsh That Once Swallowed Train Battles Progress to Control It.

BELIEVED ONCE A LAKE

Special to The Washington Post.

Geneva, Ohio, Nov. 18. — Greedy Pymatuning swamp, which 20 years ago swallowed a railroad train, has just engulfed a highway.

Buried in the East Branch, generally known as the Shenango swamp, are thousands of tons of road-building materials used in the construction of what was to have been the new Perry highway, a short route between Pittsburgh and Erie, Pa. Where the road should be is a lake.

The swamp starts in the southeastern part of Ashtabula County, Ohio, and extends into Pennsylvania. The State of Pennsylvania is attempting to build the short cut across it at any cost and thousands have visited the scene to watch the one-sided battle.

The contractor had agreed to build the road with a specified amount of material, but this quickly disappeared into the depths. The State continued the work, adding many more carloads of material. This also sank from sight.

Railroad Lost Long Battle.

Much mystery surrounds this swamp. Not far from the spot where the road materials disappeared millions of tons of materials for a railroad bed lie buried.

The Bessemer Railroad battled the swamp for more than 40 years. It was during this struggle that a train of cars sank into the depths.

Lumber from an old dock at Conneaut was used for piling and driven endways into the ooze. Th se promptly turned over. After the railroad company finally won the victory, constant attention had to be given the stretch. A watchman was kept walking the track.

The road bed sagged several times, but now after the expenditure of several million dollars, it is believed to be firm. Engineers consider the project one of the greatest railroad-building achievements in this part of the United States.

Boat Crew Lost in 1835.

Another mystery which still hangs hazily over the swamp is that of a lost boat crew, last seen in 1835. Recently its supposed location was traced by trees and vegetation which had grown up out of it.

The craft, according to traditional information, was 60 feet long and 12 feet wide. No one knows if its crew was massacred, was unable to relaunch the boat because of the recession of the water or met some other fate.

Some old timbers supposed to be from the craft were taken to Conneaut 90 years ago and made into canes for souvenirs.

Prof E. T. Mason, historian of Conneautville, Pa., has established the date of the boat's landing as 1760. Mason's grandfather, who had visited the boat's remains, handed down authentic information on it.

Geologists believe the swamp was a lake two centuries ago.

MRS. G. S. LIVINGSTON DIES

Funeral Service Will Be Held This Afternoon at Oak Hill Chapel.

Funeral services for Mrs. George S. Livingston, a resident of Washington almost half a century, who died Monday, will be held at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon at Oak Hill Cemetery Chapel. Burial will be in Oak Hill Cemetery.

Mrs. Livingston was the daughter of the late Clement Young and Marion Hunter Young. Her husband died several years ago. She is survived by two daughters, Mrs. William Larson, Chevy Chase, and Mrs. Charles L. Griesbauer, of Kensington, Md.

Tenor of Russia, Heard in Program

Capital Audience Is Highly Appreciative of Voice of Karolik.

Maxim Karolik, tenor, formerly of the Theater "Music Drama," of Petrograd, was heard yesterday afternoon by an appreciative audience at the new National Theater in a comprehensive program of Russian, French and Italian songs.

M. Karolik has a voice of unusual mellowness which he handles in a thoroughly artistic manner and with finish and ease. Although his program was one which would have been a test for any tenor he went through it with flying colors and with some outstanding successes.

Particularly effective was his rendition of Debussy's "Merry-Go-Round" and a group of French songs by Faure. In the Russian numbers his interpretation of the works of his countrymen was a rare treat and the audience was most enthusiastic for these groups. The assisting artist of the afternoon, Nicholas Slonimsky, won an ovation by his admirable playing of solo numbers as well as through his accompaniment of M. Karolik's program.

HOLLAND RECLAIMS ZUYDER ZEE LAND

Tides Will Yield 500,000 Acres at Cost of Only $120 Per Acre.

MAJOR PART FINISHED

Amsterdam, Nov. 18 (A.P.).—Holland is winning her war of annexation against the Zuyder Zee.

By reclaiming more than 550,000 acres from the tides and waves, the Dutch will increase the area of their country 7 per cent and the tillable acreage by 10 per cent at a cost of only $500 an acre.

The second major part of the engineering feat has been finished and work started on a new lap of the work which will be finished in the spring of 1932.

Like Adding Province.

Biak van Kuilelen, director of reclamation works, estimates his country has added an area the size of the Province of Groningen, giving Holland twelve such divisions in all.

Carrying on her generations-old tilt with the Zee, Holland's engineers constructed long dams of sand, concrete, basket work and clay, then faced the huge levees with stone. Work was pushed incessantly on the great project until at last the long arms of the dams met and the major part of the preliminary work had been completed.

Huge Pumps Used.

The area inclosed by the dikes was then divided into sections and giant pumps set to sucking the water off what was once the sea bottom. The first section was drained only recently, but there was no let up. Continuously throughout the day and night the pumps kept up their droning symphony of Holland's fight against the sea.

Draining the water from the land, moreover, is not the last step in the fight. Given time the sea bed dries, but the land must be "worked" continuously for months and treated by agronomists to remove, or nullify, the salt in the ground.

Then must follow the work of building drains, roadways and cities in the new province, almost a modern Atlantis.

WRITING INKS USED MAINLY IN HOMES

Manufacturer Keeps Pace With Demand After Business Discards Pen.

HARD HIT BY TYPEWRITER

Kansas City, Mo., Nov. 18.—Ink black upon the pages of old documents, proving its enduring qualities, fades nevertheless out of the modern business picture.

"There's scarcely any place left for ink in the business world now," sighs J. D. Nelson, sole manufacturer of writing ink here. He is the man who cooked up the first batch of Kansas City made ink 30 years ago, having purchased a 25-cent oil burner for that purpose and an ink formula, for which he paid a chemist $5.

That was back in the days before general use of the typewriter and before these big bookkeeping machines and loose leaf ledgers came into use. Court records and voluminous abstracts were painstakingly hand written then. Ink on paper was the medium of expression. Consequently the young ink factory of 1900 soon developed a sizable consuming market.

"But now," continues the manufacturer, "the only business use left for ink is in signatures. A name or two on contracts, letters and checks and the business consumption of writing ink is at an end."

Despite the business trend away from ink, however, the Kansas City manufacturer manages to keep his production abreast of the volume when business was scratching away with countless pens.

The home is the consuming market now. The family budget figures aren't kept on a bookkeeping machine and personal and social correspondence has prevented people from forgetting how to write anything but their names in longhand. Consequently the Kansas City manufacturer still produces and sells a half million bottles of ink annually.

NURSE'S COMPLAINT JAILS "RICH WIDOW"

Woman Alleged to Claim She Is Entitled to Estate of Henry M. Flagler.

$2,400 SUM IS INVOLVED

Police last night were investigating claims of a 67-year-old woman that she is the widow of Henry M. Flagler, multimillionaire railroad magnate. She was arrested on complaint of a young trained nurse.

At the House of Detention, where she is being held for investigation, the woman is listed as Mrs. Zora Emma Howe, of Mountville, N. J. A man named Charles Howe, arrested yesterday in Mountville, will be brought to the District in an effort to clear up the case. He is reported to be the woman's husband.

The complainant in the case is Miss Jane Pierson, 221 R street northeast, who is seeking to recover $1,900 and a new automobile valued at $500. According to Detective Sergt. William Messer, who arrested Mrs. Howe at a downtown hotel, Miss Pierson gave the prisoner the money and car on a promise of $1,000,000 for her favors.

Messer said also that Mrs. Howe told Miss Pierson the money would be forthcoming from the $17,000,000 Flagler estate and that when Miss Pierson asked for payment Mrs. Howe explained she had been unable to secure her share of the estate, but would make good the payment through the sale of a famous painting, valued, she said, at $3,000,000.

According to the detective, Mrs. Howe claims to have been the second wife of the famous Florida railroad and hotel builder, previously prominent as a Standard Oil magnate.

Sergt. Messer declared police had been working on Miss Pierson's complaint for some time and had kept watch in the hotel for Mrs. Howe's return. When she came back to Washington yesterday she was immediately arrested.

SMITH ATTORNEYS DISPUTE EVIDENCE

Move to Suppress at Trial Data Seized by U. S. Government.

ILLEGALLY DONE, CLAIM

After Justice William Hitz, in District Supreme Court, yesterday had overruled a new motion to delay the trial of G. Bryan Pitts, C. Elbert Anadale, and John H. Edwards, jr., former officials of the F. H. Smith Co., their counsel notified the Court that they were preparing to file a motion to suppress certain evidence which they believe the Government illegally seized. Justice Hitz stated that the matter would be taken up when the motion was filed.

Attorney Wilton J. Lambert, who with Attorneys Frank G. Raicle and R. H. Yeatman, appear for the three men, said the motion to suppress would be based on the contention that the Government is seeking to prosecute the three defendants on evidence seized at the Southern Maryland Trust Co., Seat Pleasant, Md.; the Murray Hill Trust Co., New York City, and the Commercial National Bank, of Washington. All evidence gleaned from these seizures is illegal, Mr. Lambert told the Court.

The motion for the postponement of the trial which is slated for next Monday was based on the contention that Mr. Yeatman has been ill and that a copy of the bill of particulars which the Government was required to furnish defense counsel was not served on him. Justice Hitz, however, held that the bill of particulars had been delivered to other counsel and ruled that the trial should go on as scheduled.

Pitts, Anadale, Edwards and Samuel J. Henry, former president of the company, are named jointly in the indictment, but the latter, through his counsel, Attorney Harry S. Barger, recently was granted a severance. All are charged with conspiracy to embezzle $5,000,000 of the company's funds and to destroy records.

U. S. Flier in San Salvador.

San Salvador, Nov. 18 (A.P.).—Capt. Arthur W. Stevens, United States Naval Reserve flier, arrived here today from Panama en route to Brownsville, Tex. He had been making flights over a number of South American countries.

Women Now Dominate at Horse Shows

Many in Smart World Have Their Racing Stables.

JUDGING from the number of women who exhibited entries in the last national horse show, held recently at Madison Square Garden in New York, it would appear as though the show horse owes his come-back to the feminine sporting world. In the old days, when the horse was a necessity as much as anything else, there were women exhibitors, but men dominated the sport. Now the game seems to be in a fair way of passing into the hands of the women.

One has but to look to the "blue grass" section of Virginia, Middleburg and Warrenton, to realize the number of smart women, well known in Washington, who have their own stables. Their entries in the various shows held throughout the East fairly dot the programs, and all entries are exhibited under the names of their feminine owners.

Of the group in Warrenton and Middleburg, two have racing stables, Mrs. William F. R. Hitt, whose entries at Laurel, Bowie and other nearby tracks are made under the name of Katherine Elkins Hitt, as she is known in the sporting world. The other is Mrs. D. C. Sands, wife of the M. F. H. of the Middleburg Hunt. Both enjoy great success with their stables.

Owners of show horses in Middleburg are Mrs. John Hay Whitney (Elizabeth Altemus), who, of course, needs no introduction; Miss Mallory Davis, and Miss Julia Whiting, a former Washington resident. In the heart of Virginia, there is Mrs. Robert Somerville, who was "a Du Pont." Mrs. Whitney is only recently "of Middleburg," her husband having acquired their estate only shortly before their marriage early in October.

At the show in Madison Square Garden there were more women riders, drivers, and owners than ever before. If it had not been for the great number of Army men showing in the classes for hunters, the women might have outnumbered the men actively engaged in the sport of showing horses.

A check-up on the ribbon winners brings forth the names of prominent women, who are nationally known. For example, Mrs. William P. Roth, of San Francisco, who carried off several championships, in addition to a number of first places.

To mention but a few others who came in for winnings, were Miss Ruth Cowans and Mrs. Edward Phillips, of Canada; Mrs. John F. Jenney, niece of Mr. and Mrs. Pierre S. du Pont, of Wilmington; Miss Ruth Lawler, Miss Gwen Martin, whose stable is one of the largest in the East; Mrs. John Farrell; Mrs. Lyman Irish, Miss Edith Anderson, and Miss Louise Finch.

Miss Anderson Is Introduced At Reception

Drawing Rooms Banked With Flowers Sent to Debutante.

Mr. and Mrs. Chandler P. Anderson entertained at one of the loveliest of the debutante receptions yesterday when they introduced their daughter, Miss Harriet Anderson, to their friends at their home on Twenty-first street. The drawing rooms were banked with the flowers sent the debutante. Miss Anderson wore a gown of putty color satin, fashioned in two-piece effect, and carried a sheaf of yellow roses, alternating her bouquets during the afternoon. Mrs. Anderson wore beige chiffon and lace with a corsage of orchids.

Mrs. Anderson's sister, Senora de Riano, wife of the former Ambassador of Spain, Senor Don Juan Riano, came from her home in Newport to be present at the party and was busy greeting many old friends. She and Senor Riano are greatly missed in Washington where they made their home for years when he was Ambassador of his country and dean of the Diplomatic Corps.

A small group of debutantes assisted Miss Anderson. They were Miss Margo Wyeth, Miss Sylvia Contee Meredith, Miss Kathleen Knox and Miss Eliza Mitchell.

The Auxiliary Board of Regents of Trinity College are sponsoring a dance to be held in connection with the card party scheduled to take place in the Mayflower Hotel on Friday evening. The proceeds will be used to augment the student loan fund. Miss Minnie E. Carroll is chairman of the dance committee and Miss Marguerite Orme is chairman of the young ladies' committee; Mr. Frank Wolpert is chairman of the young men's floor committee. Mrs. Charles J. Cassidy is general chairman of the card party and dance.

Representative and Mrs. Homer Hoch have reopened their home at 100 Maryland avenue for the winter.

Ann Interprets the Mode

This blue knitted sweater has a blue taffeta scarf incrusted to the back of its neck. The oddly wrapped skirt of blue wool is of the same material as the three-quarters coat, which boasts lapels of black faille. (Courtesy of Schiaparelli, Paris).

Paris, Nov. 18.

HERE'S something to cut out and lay on his breakfast plate. Yeah, raving again—this time about that most detestable and tiresome of masculine habits, which I like to call the "hotel manner in the home."

• • • •

The "hotel manner" is a disease, a parasite of good breeding. Oh, no, it isn't an evidence of poor breeding or manners, nor even of untidiness. Carelessness, perhaps. It isn't wrong, you see—it isn't one of those habits which are so appalling an indication of mediocrity that the moment you realize it you can drag it out by the roots. It's just as I said—a parasite, which feeds on good breeding. Yet, after all, it does indicate something loose somewhere—either in your perspective or in your sense of cluttered-ness. (It's awful to be lacking in a sense of cluttered-ness—but, that's another story).

• • • •

The "hotel manner" is as follows: You are reading the newspaper, worse, the Sunday newspapers-S. Finished, they fall—sheet by mussedly sheet—onto the floor; or you have finished a couple of books—onto the floor they go; onto the floor also your soiled lingerie, hankies, gloves, towels in the bathroom, in short, anything with which you have finished.

The accepted hotel manner in the home!

Of course, you have a maid or two or ten to pick them all up. Or more likely you haven't anything of the kind—but a long-suffering, uncomplaining wife or mother who does.

Is that nice?

• • • •

Boudoir dolls have to be more than decorative these days—without losing one single bit of their decorativeness, of course. The gorgeous ones I brought back from Paris with me, for instance, have a skirt that completely covers the sleeping pillows on the bed, and furnish a charming decoration for the entire room by so doing.

Wouldn't you like to send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare department of The Washington Post for the illustrated leaflet which tells you how you can make this boudoir doll that is a whole bed decoration? It's really so easy to make, with the detailed directions, and it would make the most acceptable Christmas present you can imagine for any woman.

• • • •

Fashion French: Pavot (pah-vo)—poppy Peau (po)—skin; Peche (pesh)—peach; Peigne (payn-yuh)—comb; Peignoir (payn-wahr)—dressing gown.

• • • •

O-o-o-o-h, lucky you if your color's blue! Schiaparelli made the skirt and waist of navy blue wool—the skirt wrapped around in a most novel manner and buttoned snugly on one hip, 'n' the coat three-quarter length, flaring straight from the shoulders and with black silk faille lapels. But even more marvelous than all this is the blue sweater and its taffeta scarf collar! No more blowing around of loose-ended-scarfs, my deahs—not for the lady who wears the ensemble I illustrate today, anyhow—for the scarf is incrusted right into the sweater itself, at the neckline in back, and achieves a happily permanent effect of swaggering nonchalance. And, oh, yes, the scarf is all different shades of blue.

Au Revoir!

What Today Means to You

By MARY BLAKE.

"SCORPIO."

IF November 19 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 7 a. m. to 8:30 a. m., from 2 p. m. to 3 p. m., and from 11 p. m. to midnight. The danger hours are from noon to 1 p. m. and from 6 p. m. to 7:30 p. m.

It will be proven on this date that Fate can be brutal as well as kind, and that certain close associates are made of straw, and not steel. There will be more promises than fulfilments. Danger warnings through pleasure.

The child born on this November 19 will have a very genial nature, and will win affection and friends through its merry, sunny disposition. It will not take life very seriously, although it will be both sincere and honest. It will love sports and games, and will be only a fair student.

You have a brave, courageous and adventurous nature, and you will never allow your existence to become a tame or settled one. If you be a man, the blood of a navigator or "colonist" flows through your veins, and you will feel the call of distant lands. You are a handy man, and will always be able to make a living for yourself, and to be of service to others. When your days become a treadmill, you have the nerve and ambition to seek the place where there may be a ladder. You are seeking more than comfort and security.

It is easy for you to cooperate with others, and you are always ready to listen to advice, although you are not afraid to stand on your own judgment. You do not pretend to be a "know-it-all." You have too much nervous energy to lead other than an active life, and your mind and fingers are seldom idle. Your enthusiasm, your optimism and your vigor, make you a stimulating companion, but not a restful one. You take a sympathetic interest in others, and you are one in whom it is easy to confide. You are generous, and are almost too willing to be a sturdy oak upon whom others may lean. You love responsibilities, and you take considerable pride in doing your duty at all times.

If you be a woman, you are very fond of entertaining, and you have the qualifications for a social leader. You have considerable tact and are a good mixer.

Successful people born November 19:

James A. Garfield, twentieth President of the United States.

King Charles I.

Lyman Whitney Allen, clergyman and author.

George Eames Barstow, business man.

Indoor and Outdoor Gardens

By JANE LESLIE KIFT

INSECTS ATTACK STUNTED PLANTS

HOUSE plants, no matter how carefully cared for, are likely at this season to be more or less stunted, due to lack of moisture in the atmosphere and also to lack of fresh air. By stunted I mean that they have ceased to grow, and whenever a plant ceases to develop new growth it becomes the prey of some insect enemy which in its weakened condition it cannot resist.

The first thing to do under such a condition is to remove your plants to a cooler place, some room where the air can be frequently changed. The red spider is usually the first insect to arrive in a group of sickly plants. This enemy is easily routed.

Place the plant on its side in a laundry tub and get out your hand syringe or a whisk broom, or use the shower in the bathroom, if that seems easier. The water will drown the insects and a few such treatments will entirely rid the plants of them. Always, when spraying, see that the water reaches the under surface of the leaves, as this is the favorite haunt of all insects.

The second insect is usually the aphis, or green fly, and the third is the mealy bug. These enemies can soon be chased away by a few applications of water, coal oil and water (one teaspoonful of oil to a quart of water) or soapsuds. Remember that one or two applications will not do; it usually takes at least half a dozen. These applications should be rather close together.

When the plants are entirely free from insects, the next step is to keep them free. The only way to do this is by the persistent use of the daily shower, for clean plants kept in rooms that are flooded with light and pure air are never likely to be troubled with insects.

Of late I have been receiving many letters mentioning worms in the soil of house plants. The best way to banish these pests, which though distasteful are rarely injurious, is to pour some weak lime water over the soil. One application usually causes the worms to cease their activities.

(Copyright, 1930.)

All readers' questions on growing and care of indoor and outdoor flowers and floral decorations for social functions will be answered by Miss Kift, directly in this column if addressed in care of The Washington Post, or directly to readers if a self-addressed, stamped envelope is supplied.

Wives of Tomorrow

FRANCES M'DONALD

He Wants More Money.

DEAR Miss McDonald: As you gave "Miserable" such splendid advice in regard to her sulky boy friend, I have a rather difficult problem for you to solve.

I have been married one year to my second husband and of course he knew I had been married before and understood what brought my divorce after four years of apparently happy married life. I was ignorant of my husband's actions, which had been more than questionable to a great many others for some time; therefore my "ignorance was bliss" as long as he treated me justly. Now my present husband continually throws the former one up to me. Every day there is something he claims I did for him. I don't do now, either in regard to finances or work. I did work hard, more so than the average girl, often from 7 a. m. as late as 11 or 12 p. m. and on my feet, as I had a business of my own and was trying to make good.

I still have a business and my present husband sulks bitterly whenever I go shopping or elsewhere and claims I didn't neglect business before and gave my earnings to husband No. 1 and am not willing to do as much for him. I was young then to have a business and quite foolish as I can now see to allow a man to throw away money a girl worked hard for. I have learned from experience and I can't see why a man who sympathized before should expect his wife to do what he condemned some one else for. My opinion is he should let the subject of my former husband drop in regard to our present affairs. I used to be very sensitive in even speaking of him and never mentioned my being married before to people who didn't know. And now since he has been thrown up to me so many times I no longer become embarrassed with a conversation over him. Do you think this is a fair deal?

My husband is invariably telling me how much he worries and broods over trivial matters and how very blue he is, and seldom laughs and seems happy as he used to, yet insists how strong his love is for me. Until it, too, am beginning to become of the same disposition at times and I think it so much nicer to be in good spirits or at least appear so for the benefit of those you have to mingle with. Things often can be so much worse. I believe in looking for the silver lining. Don't you?

CLOUDY NOW.

Take your husband firmly in hand. Tell him that arguments are over with for all time, and whenever he starts to discuss your affairs leave the room and shut the door behind you. He is the clinging vine type of man that always marries a woman who is in business. But he should have at least the sense to conceal his eagerness regarding your earnings. It is interesting to study the types that naturally come together. Women who support their husbands are seldom naggers, but are usually nagged! In other words the woman who is capable in business, is seldom capable where her rights with a man are concerned. Men who marry for money are invariably rude to the women they marry, rather than cringing or ingratiating as popularly supposed.

Be firm. Let no man rule you. When he whines, show him that you feel contempt instead of sympathy. You can never make a man of him but you may be able to train him or force him to conceal his lack of manhood. Your greatest difficulty will be that you are the type of woman who can be influenced by weakness even in a man—in fact, especially in a man. Force yourself to do what a different type of woman would have done long ago and there may still be hope.

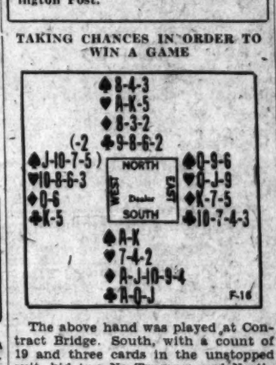
TAKING CHANCES IN ORDER TO WIN A GAME



The above hand was played at Contract Bridge. South, with a count of 19 and three cards in the unstopped suit, bid two No Trumps; and North, with a count of 7, bid three. It could have been bid: South two Diamonds, North Three Diamonds and South three No Trumps; in either case South would have risked an adverse run of the Heart suit.

At Auction Bridge South would bid one No Trump and obtain the contract.

West led the Five of Spades—his fourth best—and East's Queen was captured by South's Ace. Declarer counting his sure tricks could see two Spades, two Hearts, one Diamond and two Clubs. He needed two more, one of which he could obtain by taking two Club finesses, if the King of that suit happened to be in the East hand; but one more trick would not produce game.

Dummy had entries for only two finesses and therefore the long Diamond suit was the one to work on. Declarer properly put dummy in with a high Heart at trick 2 to lead the Deuce of Diamonds and play the Nine from South, which West won with the Queen. West led another Spade which forced out South's last stopper in that suit, and he had to take out dummy's last stopper in Hearts in order to get that hand into lead Diamonds a second time. Bare of all defense in both majors, Declarer led the Eight of Diamonds from dummy and when East played small, played the Four from South's hand, making the finesse with fear and trembling. When the Eight won, Declarer's game was assured, as he could cash the remaining Diamonds and also win two Spades, two Hearts and one Club.

While the second Diamond finesse was desperate, it had one point in its favor; the first Diamond trick had been taken by West's Queen, and if West had held both the King and Queen he would have been very apt to play the King as a false card.

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS

To the limit of space questions pertaining to hygiene and prevention of disease will be answered in this column. Personal replies will be made to inquiries, under proper limitations, when return, stamped envelope is inclosed. Dr. Evans will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual disease.

CONTAGIOUS DISEASES.

OF the various forms of ordinary contagious disease only measles and whooping cough are matters of much concern to health departments. Practically every person over 15 years of age, who has lived his childhood years in a city, has had measles. A. W. Hedrich gives the percentage thus protected as 95. The people who live in the rural districts have not been so unlucky.

Measles epidemics come in waves. These waves are spaced about two years apart. The city that enjoys a low measles rate in 1930 should restrain its tendency to boast, for it is due for a fall in 1931.

Averaging the years, Hedrich finds that about one-sixteenth of the child population is scheduled to have measles in a given year. Of those over 15 years of age, only 1 person out of about each 140 is due to have the disease in a given year. As a rule, a person who has had measles will never have it again. There are a few exceptions.

In Baltimore, Hedrich found measles was most prevalent in the sixth year of life, though the seventh year was a close second, and the fifth year was not far behind. The opinion was based on the reported cases. In Aberdeen, Scotland, the fifth year was the year of greatest prevalence, as judged by all cases and reported cases, for many cases are never reported. In all cities, by the time school age is reached, most children have had their allotment of measles.

The disease is most fatal in the second year of life, though the first year is a close second. The disease becomes milder year by year. At age 10 and after, in Aberdeen, the death rate was very small. This means that, next to protecting a child completely, comes delaying his attack of measles until he reaches 10 years of age. We should take great care to protect every child under 2.

The problem of protection is an easy one so far as the individual family is concerned. All that need be done is to draw a little blood from either parent who has had measles and inject it into the muscles of the child. This should be done as soon as possible after exposure to the disease. In addition, all the precautions set forth in the laws should be obeyed.

The problem of the health department is more difficult, and will remain so until a proved preventive vaccine is marketed.

Your Name
WHAT DOES IT MEAN?

By HARRY A. DEFERRARI, Ph.D.

THE family name "MacNaughton" is of Celtic origin and means "the son of Neachtan." "Neachtan" was an old personal name meaning "the pure one." "McNaughton" and its common variation, "MacNaught," are common Scottish surnames, especially in the neighborhood of Lochow.

The family name "Pearson" (also spelled "Pierson") is found in old records with perhaps as many variations in spelling as any other English family name. It means "the son of Peter." "Peter" is ultimately of Greek origin, and means "rock" or "stone." A thirteenth century list of English names mentions a Walter Peresesone and a Richard Persone.

The family name "Rover" is generally a low German form of "Rueber" and means "the turnip-grower." However, it is sometimes a low German form of "Rauber" meaning "the robber." A third source is the old Germanic personal name "Hrodebert" (modern English "Robert"), which means "bright fame."

The personal name "Nancy" is a variation of "Hannah." "Hannah" is ultimately of Hebrew origin, and means "mercy" or "grace."

The family name "Sprowle" (also spelled "Sproule," "Sproole," and "Sprule") is derived from the middle English "Sproul." It was obviously first given as a nickname since it means "energetic" and "active."

The personal and family name "Wilbur" is of English origin, its source being the Anglo-Saxon "Wilburh" or "Wilburg," meaning "beloved stronghold" or "beloved city." This old personal name was originally given only to girls. The corresponding modern Scandinavian form "Vilborg" is still kept as a feminine name.

Jean's Santa Claus

By JULIE ANNE MOORE

SYNOPSIS.

Thinking it over, Jean decides to accept Mollie's invitation and go to New York. She leaves that afternoon. On the train she takes stock of her finances and discovers she has $1.22 left after buying her ticket. Oh well, she'll be with Mollie in a few hours. Arriving in New York she takes to the skate and Jean generously tips the driver the remainder of her dollar bill. One of the girls in the store informs Jean that Mollie had been married that morning and started for Missouri on a wedding trip.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER III.

Twenty-two cents!

Two dimes and two pennies!

Jean eyed her worldly capital, and for the first time since her discovery that Mollie's unexpected marriage had left her in an extremely difficult situation, a smile had lighted up her lovely countenance.

"I'm not broke," she told herself cheerfully. "Why, I've four separate, individual pieces of money, and absolutely nothing to spend them for."

A statement which promptly provided its own contradiction, for it came to her with a sharp pang that she had not eaten since breakfast. So excited had she been over her departure from Kelsey that she had politely declined lunch at Mrs. Pritchard's, and had not had time to think of eating since.

But now she knew, beyond all question, that she was hungry, that she was hungrier than she had been in—oh, months; years, maybe.

"Two roast turkeys, waiter," she mused whimsically, "and a side dish of lobster, tenderloin steak and pork chops. Bring me a dishpan full of fried potatoes, with a few pounds of any other old vegetable you have lying around. And after that"—she laughed lightly at her own nonsense—"and after that, waiter, I'll have four quarts of chocolate ice cream and a pound of angel food cake."

The several streams of unhurried humans flowed up and down Broadway, occasionally swelling before the great show windows of the Simmons Department Store, gently buffeting the lonely girl who, surrounded by thousands of her fellow beings, struggled to get her bearings.

For all the sympathy and aid she could expect from these people, she might as well be back in Kelsey. They simply didn't know she was alive—didn't care. They had their own troubles, and their own lives to live. Their code was, "Every man for himself and every woman for her man." At least that is what Mollie had once written her, and she was inclined to believe it now.

This morning she could have said "yes" to a certain young garage foreman and this would never have happened. With no more effort than was required to walk to the minister's house she could have been Mrs. Philip Baldwin, with a reasonably large, able, attractive and unreasonably loyal and loving husband to fight her battles.

But she had laughed at him. Before she settled down, she had told him, she wanted to live—wanted a little adventure.

Well, she was getting what she had asked for. Within an hour of night, she was in the middle of New York without a job or a friend, and with exactly 22 cents to sustain her for—only heaven knew how long!

The hunger pangs again. She had to go see if the waiter had brought her order. What had she asked for? Two roast turkeys——.

Smiling, she edged into the crowd, found a narrow place in the current and was swept slowly away from the one port to which she had looked for relief, and been sadly disappointed.

A thin young man of angular features, the visor of his gray cap pulled well down over his eyes, bumped into her gently.

"Hi'o, Good-Looking——"

Jean started at him in silence. His type was unmistakable. Insult he would not recognize. To repulse his confident advance required something more than a sharp retort. Silence, Jean suspected, was the most effective rebuff.

"Pretty big week-end bag you got there," he observed with a smile that left one side of his face immobile. "Wouldn't like to crawl into a taxi now, and save the walk?"

She sought to escape him by drifting deeper into the throng, but drifting was slow and he found it no trouble to drift with her. At first merely irritated, she was now rapidly growing angry. If she could see a policeman—but, no. She didn't want to create a scene, and it was just possible that she might find herself summoned to court as a witness. No, she had to settle with this young beast alone.

Just how she would have settled it had the young man not unexpectedly brought affairs to a head is a matter of conjecture. But settle it she did when, as they stepped from the curb to cross Forty-second street and the crowd thinned out, he suddenly stepped in close to her and put an arm about her waist.

Her movements were so fast that he hardly knew what had happened. He saw her leap away from him and swing the suitcase high over her head; but its descent was so swift and violent that his hands were barely half way to his face when the cumbersome thing struck him full across the eyes.

He stumbled back, blindly, steadied himself, and with clenched fists plunged toward her.

Jean thought to dodge him, but she knew immediately that it was useless. Instinctively, she closed her eyes and covered her face with her arms.

There was a sharp crack as of fist on bone, a low groan and many excited voices.

Untouched, Jean opened her eyes. An inert figure lay at her feet. A tall young man in a dark suit and gray felt hat held her suitcase in one hand and was taking her arm with the other.

"Quick!" he said. "Get out in the crowd. They'll have the police here in a minute."

Jean asked no questions. She let him guide her to the opposite curb and hurry her into the leisurely throng.

A loud voice behind them was raised above the general noise of the street: "He went that way! . . . With a girl! . . . Yeah, that's right, with a big red suit case . . .!"

They both heard it distinctly. He looked down at her quickly. "Is this valuable? I mean its contents, of course . . .?"

Valuable Jean thought, slightly confused. It was all she had in the way of clothes.

But she understood what he meant. The suit case would identify them.

She reached for it. "Let me have it. You go on . . . quick!"

He merely grinned. "No, thanks."

"All right," she cried at him, "drop it. They're coming after you. Everything in it didn't cost more than $20."

She saw him pull the suit case up, jerk the little white card bearing her name from its handle, and casually let it down to the sidewalk.

Behind them a man cursed. He had fallen over the suit case. Jean could not resist the temptation to look back. The man sprawled on the sidewalk was in policeman's uniform.

Giggling, she pulled her companion from the Broadway stream into the more casual cross current of Forty-third street.

A hasty appraisal of her companion was reassuring. He was noticeably tall with shoulders that mildly suggested football shoulder pads under his coat, and was more good looking than handsome. That is to say, he was good looking in a strictly male way, with sandy hair, brown eyes that appeared to be laughing constantly, a mouth quite adequate to his broad face, and a chin quite distinctly aggressive.

"Close call, that one," he remarked cheerfully when they were well away from Broadway. "Our friend the policeman was out for pelts."

"Did you mean to trip him up when you threw my suit case on the sidewalk?" Jean asked, laughing.

His laugh was soft, but genuine and infectious. "Pure luck," he declared. "By the way, is it any of my business why your friend set out to maul you in the center of New York?"

She told him what had occurred. "When he put his hand on me after I had done everything to discourage his attentions . . . . I lost my temper."

"Shame, shame! I saw you. You have a most effective temper. I hope you don't lose it often." And, abruptly changing the subject, "I'm fearfully sorry about the suit case. Dropping it saved me an ugly experience with the police, of course, but . . . Anyway, I'll see that you get another and duplicate its contents tomorrow."

But Jean's thoughts were moving more slowly. "Why did you hit him?" she asked seriously. "I mean, why did you step in to protect me when you knew nothing about me. You might have been interrupting a domestic quarrel . . ."

He nodded, grinning. "Yes, I know. I did once, and barely escaped a load of buckshot . . . . Now, don't ask me if I make a practice of this sort of thing," he laughed. "It just happens that when I see an extremely pretty girl being annoyed by . . . . well, by practically any one at all, I get mad. I shouldn't, perhaps, but . . . I'm that way."

Twice, by tacit agreement, they had turned left, and were now on Forty-second street, approaching Broadway again.

"I've taken it for granted," said the young man, "that you're letting me see you home, or to some place where I can feel that you're safe." He half shut one eye and gazed off toward Broadway. "However," he told her, "it looks as if we're coming back to where we started. You don't live down here, do you?"

Jean shook her yellow head. "I've been in New York only since about 4 o'clock. My home's in Connecticut."

"Oh! Visiting?"

"No, I came to work—until Christmas, anyway."

"I see. May I ask where?"

Jean might have resented this half an hour before, but now she only smiled and told him of her plan to surprise Mollie Wilder and of Mollie's greater surprise and departure from the city.

He was instantly sympathetic. "Say! That was a disappointment, wasn't it? What do you propose to do now?"

An electric sign three stories high and about two feet wide, on which the word "Restaurant" was spelled vertically provided Jean's answer. She was starving.

"In about 30 seconds," she told him, "I expect to walk into that restaurant and demand food."

"All in favor, signify by saying Aye! You don't mind if I go along?"

"No, certainly not. You understand, of course, I'm to pay for my own supper?"

He nodded as if he had never considered anything else. "Mine, too, if you like." And as they were about to enter the revolving doors of the restaurant. "Say, as a matter of convenience while we're in here, it might be a good idea if we attempted some sort of introduction first. My——"

Jean said: "You took my only card from the suit case handle. That was the landlady's idea; she would have it on there."

"Oh, that's right." He fished the tag from a vest pocket and read it aloud: "'Miss Jean Melba, 24 Fairview street, Kelsey, Conn.' That gave me everything but your telephone number and your favorite movie actress."

Jean waited, smiling.

"Oh, yes . . . my name." He removed his hat and ran his fingers through his long, wavy hair. "My closest friends call me Sandy."

"Appropriately enough," Jean agreed. "But not being one of your closest friends, you'd better tell me your last name."

"You won't laugh?"

"Why—of course, not!"

"My last name . . ." he hesitated. "My last name is . . . Clause . . ."

And despite her promise, Jean did laugh, freely, delightfully.

"I knew it," he declared, pretending to be annoyed. "No one believes in Santa Claus any more, so when they run into a real live Sandy Clause they think it's funny."

"But I don't," Jean assured him. "I mean I don't and I do. I do believe in Santa Claus, and I don't think it's funny . . . That's why I'm laughing; I'm delighted. You see, I've already sent my Christmas order to Santa Clause, and you're a good omen. . . ."

Guiding Your Child

ADOLESCENT ZEAL.

By MRS. AGNES LYNE.

It is well known that boys and girls during the years of adolescence often go through intense religious experiences.

Sometimes the faith with which they ally themselves at this time is quite different from the one in which they have been reared. When this occurs, parents are likely to respond with an antagonism and disapproval which serve only to widen the breach between them and the child.

Whether at adolescence the children adopt the religion of their elders or another, it seems that the thing which should most concern the intelligent parent is an insight into the part which this sudden religious zeal plays in the child's emotional economy.

The form which his religion takes at this time probably is not nearly so important as the purpose which it serves for his inner needs.

When from an objective consideration of the child's life, it appears that he is happily adjusted to realities, it would be reasonably safe to assume that whatever his religious experience, it is playing a wholesome part in his development.

But the intense religious preoccupation of an unhappy, badly adjusted child is probably a flight from real problems and has no value in his life save as a temporary escape. Such a child should be drawn tactfully into the circle of natural childish interests.

Efforts should be made to relieve him of his emotional difficulties through the establishment of better relationships at home and at school.

While it would be unwise to deprive him of any outlet which may be a source of comfort, even if this appears in what seems to us an undesirable form, we may do much to lessen the need for escape by improving his adjustment to the realities of here and now.

Hollywood Screen Life

By HUBBARD KEAVY.

Hollywood—Events in the professional life of Kay Francis might have been dipped from the same kettle as are the sob-stories of fiction, but her story differs in that it has a happy ending.

KAY FRANCIS

It is the product of the same recipe which makes the tale of the comedian who battles to become a tragedian and of the painted clown who dreams of doing aerial feats in his circus.

Miss Francis never wanted to be a stage vampire. Her dream was to be a leading woman in dramatic plays. But she is tall, slender, dark—cut out for a siren.

Now she has proved that type doesn't mean anything. Today she is playing leading roles. It is like the caterpillar that turned into a butterfly.

Early in life Kay determined to follow the footsteps of her mother, Katherine Clinton, who had been on the stage for years. Young Katherine, who has become Kay, was educated in convents partly because her mother believed the sisters might influence her daughter against the stage.

Later she took a secretarial course, but instead of getting a job Kay went to Europe. On her return she decided to go on the stage.

Ideal Vamp.

She got her first role with surprising ease. Then she learned why she was selected—she was the ideal vampire type. That wasn't what she wanted, but she resolved to stay with it because it made possible her presence before the footlights.

Kay was in many career and home wrecking roles before her first picture, "Gentlemen of the Press." That, too, was like the rest. Eight similar movie characters followed.

But in spite of the kind of parts she was given Miss Francis' popularity grew, and suddenly she was cast opposite Ronald Colman. Another lead, like she had always wanted, came with William Powell. And there will be more.

Bungalow Life.

There should be something here about Kay's real life. She lives in a small bungalow with her maid and her cook, a dog, three cats, a rabbit, goldfish and a canary.

She has one car, an inexpensive coupe. She likes to be "dressed up," but her own clothes are much simpler than those she wears on the screen. However, they are just as stylish and rich looking.

She has 22 evening gowns and 50 pairs of slippers. She dresses for dinner nearly every night.

Uncle Sam's Home Hints

Clothes Hints for Children.

(Bureau of Home Economics.)

A child should have pockets in every garment, whether it be a suit or dress or an outside wrap. They give a place to stow away "valuable" string, pebbles and small toys, as well as a place to tuck the handkerchief. Three-year-olds soon learn to use a handkerchief if it is in a convenient place, but if it is to be crammed down in the mitten or up the sleeve, tied through a buttonhole or put in the hat crown, they will not take the time or trouble to hunt it. Pockets placed near the waistline and slanted across the top are easiest for the child to reach.

Sleeves in children's play suits must be sufficiently large to assure comfort. A short type is more satisfactory than one with a decidedly shaped cuff. The fullness around the hand, which comes in the almost straight coat sleeve, can be removed by a box pleat laid in the sleeve after the lower edge has been finished. This pleat should come on the back of the arm in line with the elbow, and should be deep enough to make the sleeve fit comfortably around the child's wrist, but still slip over the hand. The back half of the pleat may be sewed completely in place, and the front half may be held by a loop of fabric, cord or elastic sewed on the fold and fastened over a button. Such a design allows fullness through the elbow, does away with troublesome cuffs and requires only one button. Also the size of the sleeve at the hand can be altered quickly and easily by just moving the button.

DISTRICT APPROVES CRET'S BRIDGE PLAN

Contract for Klingle Valley Span to Be Advertised by January 15.

DRAWINGS ARE STARTED

The design submitted by Paul Cret, architect, in collaboration with Modjeski, Masters & Chase, for the steel arch bridge which is to replace the present span over Klingle Valley on Connecticut avenue was approved by the District Commissioners yesterday.

Working drawings of the design were started immediately by the municipal architect's office and are to be completed so that the contract may be advertised by January 15 and awarded before March 1. Construction of the bridge is to be completed during 1931, with no interruption to traffic while the work is under way.

The accepted design previously had been approved by the Fine Arts Commission and the National Capital Park and Planning Commission. The new bridge is to be built with concrete-faced abutments of stone quarried near Washington. These abutments will support a single steel arch 250 feet long, on which will be built a roadway 60 feet wide with sidewalks on each side.

It is expected that the bridge will continue serviceable anywhere from 50 to 100 years. The design provides for widening the span to a width of 80 feet by removing a series of brackets along the outer edge, thus utilizing the space now provided for sidewalks as additional roadway.

Mr. Cret is the designer of the Pan-American Union Building and the Folger Memorial Library. Ralph Modjeski, of the designing company, is the son of Mme. Helene Modjeski. He designed the bridges of the Alaskan Railway and was consulted as an expert by the Canadian government following the collapse of the Quebec Bridge.

Mellon Ceremony Still Undecided

Families Fail to State if Second Wedding Will Be Held Today.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Nov. 18 (A.P.).—Their plans for a brilliant society wedding interrupted by disclosure that the youthful principals already were man and wife, members of two prominent Pittsburgh families seemingly were undecided tonight whether a second ceremony would be performed.

While the higher circles of society here were engrossed in preparations for the wedding of Miss Grace Rowley, 19, and W. L. Mellon, jr., 20, there came within 48 hours of the wedding date the announcement that the couple had been married more than a year. They eloped and were married November 16, 1929, at Wellsburg, W. Va., Pittsburgh's "Gretna Green."

According to Mrs. E. H. Rowley, mother of the bride, the families of the couple were to reach a decision today whether the plans for the wedding scheduled for tomorrow were to be carried out. No further statement could be obtained from either family tonight. Young Mellon is the son of W. L. Mellon, Pittsburgh financier and a grandnephew of A. W. Mellon, Secretary of the Treasury.

New Jersey Youth Takes Farm Prize

Boy of 17 Awarded $1,000 as Outstanding Student of Agriculture.

Kansas City, Mo., Nov. 18 (A.P.).—David Ridgeway Johnson, 17, who represents the fifth generation of his family on a farm near Lambertville N. J., was acclaimed the outstanding student of vocational agriculture in the United States at the American Royal Live Stock Show here tonight. The slender youth received from Gov. Henry S. Caulfield of Missouri a check for $1,000 awarded by the weekly Kansas City Star.

The committee, which voted unanimously to award the championship to Mr. Johnson, is composed of S. H. Thompson, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation; C. E. Huff, president of the National Farmers Union, and L. J. Taber, master of the National Grange.

David was born on the 93-acre farm one-half mile from Stockton, N. J., and in the old stone colonial home which his Swedish great-great grandfather acquired from an Englishman in 1814.

Trio Bound for Bermuda Rescued From Atlantic

Miami, Fla., Nov. 18 (A.P.).—Three men who attempted a voyage from New York to Bermuda in a small nonsinkable boat were brought here today, ill and exhausted by three days buffeting by an angry ocean. Behind them, Capt. Harry Wohlenberg, master of the craft, believes they left a potential floating mine, made of an airtight boat filled with gasoline fumes.

The trio left New York last Saturday. Pounding seas opened seams in the gasoline tanks and the fumes filled the boat. Finally William Lake climbed on deck and fired twelve rockets. One was answered by the oil tanker Muskogee, which took off Wholenberg, Lake and Caspar Barth, the third member of the party.

IN THE PLAYHOUSE
By JOHN J. DALY

ALTHOUGH Katharine Cornell has played some fifty-odd parts in her stage career, fourteen of which were outstanding—her first Broadway success was in "A Bill of Divorcement"—the general public has forgotten that this stellar actress ever played roles other than those of "ruint women," as the phrase goes. They associate her with such strenuous parts as this she enacts at the Belasco in "Dishonored Lady." Well, the next time Miss Cornell comes to town she'll have an entirely new play founded on the celebrated love affair of the Brownings, and as Elizabeth Browning, Miss Katharine Cornell will undoubtedly reach the heights of dramatic art. Paul Kester, the playwright, believes Miss Cornell is a second Duse.

PAUL KESTER, incidentally, has been a hide-away from Washington these many years—until last Saturday morning when his adaptation of Mark Twain's "Tom Sawyer" was played in the National Theater by the Junior Players. Previous to that, Mr. Kester had not been represented on the local stage since Margaret Anglin appeared here in the premiere of "The Great Lady Deadlock," a play made out of Dickens' "Bleakhouse." That was back in 1923, or thereabouts. It took Katharine Cornell to drag Mr. Kester to town. He lives, now, some 60 miles south of Fredericksburg, Va., in one of the old Lee mansions—a house built away back before Revolutionary days. It was rather thrilling to meet Mr. Kester, who wrote "Nell of Old Drury," and Miss Cornell—in real life Mrs. Guthrie McClintic—and to hear them talk over the reviving theater.

THE theater in Washington is certainly showing signs of a great comeback. Boxoffice sales are on what managers call the up and up. The Belasco and the National this week are doing tremendous business. Mr. Will Mahoney, the clown of clowns, and about the best Lancastershire clog dancer on the American stage, has a startling number on the Mahoneyphone—really a xylophone—where he plays "The Stars and Stripes" march with his dancing shoes. He is the life of the party in Earl Carroll's "Sketch Book."

NEXT week the theater here will have what practically amounts to two premieres—two new plays, at least. One, a Pirandello play, "As You Desire Me," will come into the Belasco Theater flying the banner of the Professional Players. These players have won decided praise this season already, keeping up to their record of last year, when they scored with such meritorious work "As Death Takes a Holiday," and "The Infinite Bootblack." Mr. Joe Gaites, the producer, is ready for an airplane flight to Washington Monday, to be here for the opening performance, when Miss Judith Andersen makes a bow under his personal direction. Miss Anderson, a former Belasco star, was last seen in Washington when she played Nina Leeds in "Strange Interlude."

AT THE National Theater lovers of drama will have an opportunity to welcome back one of the real artists of the stage in Basil Rathbone, who will be seen in the new play, now undergoing treatment in Baltimore, called "A Kiss of Importance," as if any other kind of a kiss is of importance. This vehicle will roll on the stage of the National next Monday night. It had its first cruise before the footlights in Wilmington, of all places, and came away with glowing press notices.

Son of Former Nominee For Presidency to Wed

New York, Nov. 18 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—James M. Cox, jr., 27, son of the former Governor of Ohio and former presidential candidate, and Miss Helen Hasbrouck Rumsey, 24, of this city, were granted a marriage license this afternoon by City Clerk Michael J. Cruise. The ceremony will take place Friday in St. Bartholomew's Church.

Mr. Cox, whose father publishes the Dayton (Ohio) Daily News, Springfield (Ohio) News-Sun, and Miami Daily News, gave his occupation as publisher. He resides at the Cox home, Trailsend, in Dayton. Miss Rumsey is the daughter of Lee Moses Rumsey, of St. Louis.

Hollywood, Calif., Nov. 18 (A.P.).—Lila Lee and Renee Adoree, film actresses, are rapidly regaining their health in the mountain air of Arizona. A Hollywood friend of the two, who visited them, said both showed marked improvement.

Miss Lee, who had played in sixteen talkies in eighteen months without a rest, was ordered to the Prescott (Ariz.) Sanitarium several weeks ago. Miss Adoree, also a victim of overactivity, followed soon after. Miss Lee sent word to her friends she expected to return to work in February.

ELEVEN CHINESE SET FREE BY GRAND JURY

Narcotic Charges Ignored as Also Liquor Bills Against 14 Persons.

TRACHTENBERG INDICTED

While the District grand jury in a report made yesterday to Justice Oscar R. Luhring returned 31 indictments, it refused to indict in 25 cases involving 38 individuals.

The chief feature of the report was ignoring charges against eleven Chinese who were arrested in three raids by narcotic agents and police last April in a house at 345 Pennsylvania avenue northwest in the heart of "Washington's Chinatown."

All Chinese were arraigned before United States Commissioner Needham C. Turnage and held for action of the grand jury. Lack of evidence is said to have caused the grand jury's action.

The raids were made during the national convention of the On Leong Tong; and the Chinese have been at liberty under $10,000 and $5 000 bonds since their arrest.

Held on Murder Charge.

Charles Young, Negro, was indicted on a charge of first-degree murder in connection with the slaying November 2 of Elijah Quarries, also colored. Young is alleged to have killed Quarries as an aftermath from a gambling game.

Dillard E. Clark, alias Jack Clark, Negro, was indicted on a charge of first-degree murder in the slaying November 9 of Thomas A. Davis, also colored. The latter was killed as he entered a house on Ninth street northwest, near Florida avenue.

Aaron Trachtenberg, 27-year-old tire dealer, whom United States Commissioner Needham C. Turnage refused to return to Baltimore several weeks ago to answer a charge of passing counterfeit money, was indicted on the charge of violating the Jones act. The indictment is in three counts and charges sale, transportation and possession of liquor last November 5. The sale, according to the indictment, was made to Reuben Nichols.

A 73-year-old white woman, Lydia Graves, was named in two indictments charging forgery and uttering. She is alleged to have forged the name of C. Forest Dickey to two checks, each for $10. In each instance she is said to have made purchases of clothing and received change for the check tendered in payment.

Stole Cigarettes, Charged.

Theft of 8,500 packages of cigarettes from a B. & O. freight car on October 26 near Deanwood is charged in an indictment which accuses Elwood V. Anderson and Robert N Hutchenson with housebreaking and larceny. In the same connection, the grand jury indicted William B. Hutchenson and Ollie Boxwell on a charge of receiving stolen property, the accusation being that they received 1,500 packages of the stolen cigarettes.

Charges of a conspiracy to kill in which three Negroes were held for the grand jury last week in Police Court were ignored. They were against Charles A. Taylor, Lettie Hickman and Fannie King. The two women are alleged to have given Taylor $50 and promised him $100 more to "bump off" Walter Hickman, husband of Lettie.

Philip T. Littlejohn was exonerated of a charge of homicide in connection with the death, May 23 at Thirteenth and Kenyon streets northwest, of Thomas V. Collins. Fourteen cases in which violation of the prohibition law was charged were ignored by the grand jury. Most had been sent back to Police Court and disposed of there.

Judgment for $5,000 Consented To in Court

A consent judgment for $5,000 was entered yesterday in District Supreme Court in favor of Bertha H. Reinhardt, of the Concord Apartments, and against the I. X. L. Taxi Service, Inc., of 2390 Champlain street northwest. The judgment was entered to a suit filed February 13, 1928, by plaintiff, who said she had been seriously injured January 1, of that year, when the automobile in which she was riding was struck by a taxicab of the defendant.

Justice Wendell P. Stafford instructed a jury before him to return the judgment after attorneys for contending sides had reported that an amicable settlement had been reached. Attorneys Whelan and O'Connell appeared for the cab company, while Attorneys Cromelin, Laws and Coe represented the plaintiff. The settlement was half the amount sued for.

Wife Asks Court To Void Marriage

Husband Already Wed, Says Miss Billhimer, Deserted.

Claiming that her husband deserted her the day after their marriage and alleging that since then she has learned he was not legally separated from the wife of a former marriage at the time, Edith M. Billhimer, of M street northwest near Fourteenth street, yesterday asked the District Supreme Court to grant her an annulment from Edwin Kinsloe.

The woman explains that the man she married is known by a variety of names, and asserts that she has not heard from him but once since he deserted her. That was about six months ago, when, she states, she received a note written on stationery of the Army-Navy Y. M. C. A. at Honolulu. The envelope, however, bore no return address, the woman states in explaining why she does not know his present whereabouts.

Miss Billhimer states she went through the marriage ceremony with Kinsloe last January 1 and that he left her the following day. Attorneys Kenneth H. Bruner and Arthur H. Nordstrom appear for the woman.

Fascism Debated By Chef, Attache

Italian Aid and Servant Air Disagreement in Bloom Kitchen.

An inspection trip into the kitchen of the home of Representative and Mrs. Sol Bloom by Lieut. Col. Marco Pennaroli, military attache of the Italian Embassy, on Monday was the occasion for a brief debate on the merits of Fascism between the officer and Vincenzo, chef for the Blooms, it was learned yesterday. The chef denounced Fascism in no uncertain terms, it was reported, with Col. Pennaroli defending his beliefs.

The affair, as explained by Miss Vera Bloom, daughter of the representative, occurred when she escorted Col. Pennaroli away from 25 other guests to show him the kitchen, of Czechoslovakian design, which has received much favorable comment. Miss Bloom denied published reports that the chef chased the Italian officer from the kitchen with a meat cleaver.

Col. Pennaroli, who is an aid to the King of Italy, was undisturbed by the incident, Miss Bloom explained, remaining until the last of the guests had departed. The colonel himself declared it was "ridiculous" to report that he had fled from a servant.

Timberlake Tells Of Engagement

Representative Is to Wed Former Head Waitress of Capitol Inn.

A friendship that was formed when Representative Charles B. Timberlake, of Sterling, Colo., resided at the George Washington Inn, where Mrs. Roberta Wood Elliott was head waitress, developed yesterday into an announcement of their engagement and forthcoming wedding on December 23 here.

Representative Timberlake, who is about 70 years old, has been married twice, his second wife having died about a year ago, while Mrs. Elliott, described as in her early thirties, is the mother of one child by her husband, who died about a year ago.

Mrs. Elliott, now employed at the Census Bureau, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Wood, of Salisbury, N. C., the former of whom is a traveling salesman for a farm machinery company. Mrs. Elliott, a resident of Washington for a lengthy period, lives at 642 Eighth street northeast.

TECH CRUSHES EASTERN, 31-6, RETAINING GRID CROWN; BOBBY JONES HEADS A. A. U. LIST FOR AMATEUR AWARD

Westbrook Pegler Says

WHEN a golfer decides to accept a fortune for demonstrating his shots in the talkies, it makes no difference that he argues himself to be an amateur. The distinction between the amateur and the pro has been blurred almost to obliteration in every line of sport which offers the slightest opportunity for legitimate earnings or clandestine pickings and the topic has been argued to exhaustion. Bobby Jones, the golfer, has made up his mind to perform a series of film demonstrations, object revenue, and it would not be reasonable to suppose that the producers have agreed to make him a rich man out of admiration for his personal charm, the quality of his voice or the beauty of his figure, which, by the way, is now rather more plump than the athletic or the artistic ideal. They will pay him for his golf and a paid golfer is a professional.

Bobby's reluctance to accept the status of a pro probably can be traced to that faint, unreasonable social stigma against the professional class of athletics which still persists in this country, a vestige of that frank British snobbery which denies to the pros the prefix "Mr." and also denies them certain social privileges of the amateur, and gentleman.

British Snobbery Unfair But Honest.

There is something to be said for British snobbery. It is unfair, but it is much more honest than a snobbery which calls itself democracy and the United States Golf Association, the governing body of the most popular sport in this country, still persists in the social distinction between amateurs and pros. It would seem to be a small matter to an innate gentleman whether some set of officials should delete the precious prefix from his name on the entry lists and scoreboards at the tournaments.

It is rather surprising that one of Bobby Jones' logical intelligence and practical honesty in the minutest matters should decline to accept the status of the professional golfer along with the rewards, but the young man has been educated and confirmed in the profession of the law since his earlier years in the game and the legal mind is trained to adjust the facts to its own purposes. One may argue the question of amateurism and professionalism plausibly from either side, and Bobby has changed sides since those days when he was constantly turning down offers of easy money on the ground that they were all predicated upon his athletic distinction and therefore certain to invalidate his amateurism.

No Social Grading Among Pro Golfers.

Unfortunately for his peace, there is no social grading among the pros. They are all professional golfers and all equally, if unjustly, inferior to the amateurs in the social sense. Presumably, if the British accept the official American rating of Bobby Jones, and if they are consistent, the same young man whom they delighted to honor socially last summer and before will now be asked to subtract himself from the company of amateurs and gentlemen in the social occasions incidental to the tournaments on the other side, which would be a good way of demonstrating the absurdity of the arbitrary distinction, and, perhaps, of breaking it down.

Mr. Jones will not be in bad company among the pros. Some of them are dumb, no doubt, but an amateur card is not the only certificate of intelligence, as the friends of Mr. Tunney, the professional boxer, would be pleased to assure him. He has been a pro in all but the finest technical sense for a long time and in his association with the boys he must have found them as various as any other group of citizens of like numbers, except that they are a little more scrupulous in problems of honesty than the average man. Otherwise, in the course of so many tournaments in

Golfer-Actor May Lose Medal

Sullivan Award Will Be Made From List of 10 Nominees.

$2,000,000 Is Given A. A. U. by Anonymous Donor.

By JACK ESPEY.

INDICATION that Bobby Jones was in.. line.. for.. nomination.. as America's most outstanding amateur athlete before he had announced his retirement from amateur golf and the fact that an anonymous philanthropist had offered to give the organization $2,000,000 to be used in establishing an endowment fund were contained in sensational announcements yesterday at the closing session of the Amateur Athletic Union convention in the Hamilton Hotel.

Jones' name headed a list of ten announced as leading candidates for the Jaes E. Sullivan Memorial Trophy, a gold cup, which is being awarded this year for the first time.

The identity of the donor of the $2,000,000 will be kept secret until such time as he approves a committee of A. A. U. members who shall invest the money and supervise use of the interest, which probably would amount to $90,000 a year. President Avery Brundage, who announced the offer, stated he had not met the philanthropist personally, but that he had been assured the offer was authentic.

Jones Eliminates Self by Act.

In revealing the "first ten" athletes, Gustavus T. Kirby, acting chairman of the Sullivan memorial committee, said that in light of Jones' announcement Monday of his retirement, "he has eliminated himself in the opinion of the committee."

The others on the list in the order named are Clarence De Mar, veteran marathoner; Helene Madison, national girl swimmer of Seattle; Mrs. Helen Wills Moody, queen of the tennis courts; Barney Berlinger, all-round track and field athlete of the University of Pennsylvania; Stella Walsh, record-smashing girl sprinter from Cleveland; Raymond Ruddy, Columbia University swimmer and former Olympic team member; Thomas Hitchcock, jr., captain of the United States International Polo Team; Harlow Rothert, football, basket-ball and shot-put star of Stanford University, and George Simpson, former Ohio State University sprinting ace.

Unofficial Ranking Puts Jones First.

Although the names were read in that order, it was explained that no attempt had been made at ranking the athletes, but unofficially it was said that Jones had far outdistanced the others in the voting which was done by more than 600 members of a national tribunal of prominent persons interested in athletics.

The total of 165 athletes originally were nominated by this tribunal and from that number the Sullivan Memorial committee selected the ten previously mentioned. A vote now is being taken to determine the winner with further consideration of Jones unlikely.

The trophy is to go to "that athlete who by his excellence of performance or improvement therein coupled with the influence of his character has done that which has made of him an outstanding figure in the world of amateur sport and an inspiration toward the ideals for which the A. A. U. stands."

The gift of the mysterious donor will make possible speedy expansion of the union's activities to include provision for skilled coaching of

SCRIMMAGES TABOOED BY MILLS

All Rough Work for Year Canceled; Villanova Game Nears.

RATHER than imperil the efficiency of his Hilltoppers, Coach Tom Mills yesterday ordered scrimmaging checked off the schedule for the remainder of the season and put the decision immediately into effect by sending his charges through a light signal drill in the first day of preparation for the Villanova game Saturday.

Bill Morris and Leroy Bordeau, regular center and full back, were on the sidelines yesterday as Mills intends to enhance their recuperation from the battering received in the N. Y. U. game last Saturday by giving them a layoff until tomorrow. Maczees, half back injured in the New York game is definitely out for the season.

Outside of these ailments Georgetown weathered the 2-0 loss well.

Villanova Also Uses Rockne System.

For the third time this year Mills will face a team schooled in the Rockne system, of which it itself boasts. Michigan State was coached by Jim Crowley, one of Notre Dame's Four Horsemen; Danile J. Lamont coached Loyola, of Chicago, while Saturday's game is against a team coached by another cog in that immortal quartet, Harry Stuhldreher.

Mills, as Notre Dame back field coach, drilled both Crowley and Stuhldreher.

The Hilltoppers leave Friday morning at 9 o'clock, arriving at Villanova about noon. A light limbering up practice is scheduled for Friday afternoon.

Carnera-Uzcudun Bout May Be Shifted

Barcelona, Spain, Nov. 18 (A.P.).—The bout between Paulino Uzcudun and Primo Carnera may be held in Milan if strike conditions do not show rapid improvement, Jeff Dickson, American promoter of the match, said today.

Dickson has been forced to suspend the ticket sale because of the strike but plans to try again tomorrow or Thursday.

Bobby Jones' Retirement Permanently Is Doubted

Lure of Game Too Strong, Says Willie Macfarlane.

By EDWARD J. NEIL.

NEW YORK, Nov. 18 (A.P.).—Willie Macfarlane, the tall, slender Scotch professional who once gave Bobby Jones one of the most surprising lickings of his golfing life, thinks the chunky master of the links will be back in action within three or four years.

"Bobby will be back," he said. "He loves competitive golf too well to stay on the sidelines. He'll see one open championship and then he'll race to the clubhouse for his bag and his shoes. It'll be the old firehorse hearing the bells again."

Macfarlane, like all other professionals, has a deep affection for the stubby, smiling Southerner who has shot so many lucrative open championships away from him. With Johnny Farrell, Willie shares the honor of once having beaten out Jones for the national open crown in one of the two most sensational playoffs in the history of the competition.

Forced Jones Into Play-Off in 1925.

It was at Worcester, Mass., in the burning heat of late summer, that the tall Scot tied with Jones at 291 strokes for top honors in the 1925 open championships. They were tied with a pair of 75's at the close of the regulation 18-hole playoff, then in effect. They set out to decide the title in another eighteen holes and Bob finished the first nine with a four stroke advantage, taking a 35 to Willie's 39.

The aura of invincibility that shrouds Jones today hadn't settled as definitely on Bobby's shoulders then, but there was no one in the steaming gallery who dreamed that any golfer could spot the Atlantan four strokes and beat him in nine holes. But Willie shot as he never had before or since, blasted through the final nine in 33 strokes while Bobby took 38, and wound up with a single stroke margin and the open championship.

Affable Scot Knows His Jones.

It was during that final round that Jones remarked it was 110 in the shade.

"Isn't it nice," said MacFarlane, "that we don't have to stay in the shade?"

So the affable Scot knows his Jones. He wasn't surprised to hear that Bobby has accepted a contract to make twelve one-reel talking pic-

British Official Sees Jones Still Amateur

St. Andrews, Scotland, Nov. 18 (A.P.).—Bobby Jones' status as an amateur golfer, in the opinion of Secretary Henry Cullen of the Royal and Ancient, will not be affected by his making of films.

"Mr. Bobby Jones is an ordinary member of the Royal and Ancient Club, having paid his entrance fee and his annual subscription," said Cullen today. "I do not consider that the making of films has any effect whatever on a golfer's position as an amateur and so far as I can gather Mr. Jones has definitely stated that he is not becoming a professional. There has been no time to consider the matter in committee and I am only expressing my own opinion."

DRY GRIDIRON IS HOPE OF MARYLAND

Aerials and Running Plays Polished for Navy Battle.

MARYLAND is hoping for a dry field when it plays Navy at Annapolis Saturday.

While the Old Liners' attack is not so limited as to be hopeless or helpless on a wet or heavy gridiron, it is much stronger and more likely to click when the Old Liners are able to mix their aerials with their running plays.

Conditions at Norfolk last Saturday were such that forward passing was almost out of the question. Yet Maryland threw three and completed two. But despite the fact that the Old Liners were unable to "spread" the Virginia Poly Line so as to make its running plays easier to work they were able to gain consistently on straight football.

Had conditions been suitable to a mixture of passing and running plays, the Old Liners doubtless would have compiled many more points. This would have given Curley Byrd a chance to rest his regulars, but as it was he had to keep them in for the full game in order to protect the 13 to 0 lead gained in the first half. They did this in fine style until the last four minutes, when the Gobblers got off a long pass to score.

Midshipmen Outweigh Old Liners.

As in all past games, except the one with Washington College that started the season, the Old Liners will be outweighed at Annapolis. The Old Line forwards are rangy, but Faber, the center, weighs only 160 pounds, and except for Bill Fisher and Ernie Carliss, the tackles, none of the linemen goes above 183.

However, it is in the back field that Maryland has conceded most of its poundage, and will do so again against the Midshipmen.

With Bill Evans, Shorty Chalmers, Boisey Berger and Al Woods as the starting quartet, the Old Line ball toters average just 163½ pounds to the man. Chalmers and Berger weigh 168 each, Woods tips the scales at 162 and Evans at 156. If Poppelman gets in the game with his 173 pounds, the average goes up to 168.

However, all of the Maryland backs are sturdy, and Coach Curley is willing to sacrifice a little weight for speed.

Rockne Stages Long Drill For Northwestern Game

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Nov. 18 (A.P.).—Notre Dame today settled down to intensive work for what may be its sternest football test of a long, arduous season—the battle against the undefeated Northwestern eleven Saturday.

Coach Knute Rockne sent his first and third teams through a long rehearsal, stressing perfection in timing plays, while Assistant Coach Hunk Anderson directed the seconds and fourths in a defensive drill against a well-picked reserve outfit which has labored for a fortnight in perfecting Northwestern and Army formations. Larry Mullins was at Joe Savoldi's full-back post.

Evanston, Ill., Nov. 18 (A.P.).—The Notre Dame shift and its peculiarities was the lesson that Coach Dick Hanley gave his Northwestern Team today as it went through a long defensive scrimmage with the freshmen. Kicking, an unsatisfactory phase of Northwestern play lately, also was stressed and Coach Hanley had his brother, Lee, together with Capt. Hank Bruder and "Red" Woodward tuning up their punts.

All the Wildcat regulars came through the Wisconsin game in fairly good shape. Full Back "Ceb" Russell injured his nose and was forced to have it sewed up with two stitches.

Ram Becomes "Goat" Of Fordham's Defeat

New York, Nov. 18 (A.P.).—Rameses IV., mascot of the Fordham Maroons, had a short reign. Rameses IV, a ram, was obtained as successor to Rameses III, killed by dogs a few days before the St. Mary's game. After St. Mary's had given Fordham its first defeat, the boys decided Rameses IV was a jinx and shipped him back to the Jersey City abattoir from which he came.

Letzelter, Half Back, Over Army Age Limit

West Point, N. Y., Nov. 18 (A.P.).—Cyril Letzelter, of Pittsburgh, former Carnegie Tech football star, was dropped from the varsity squad of the United States Military Academy today.

Authorities said an investigation had disclosed Letzelter, regular half back, was over the age limit of 22 years when he entered the academy and that it would be "against the best interests of the Military Academy to allow him to participate in any further varsity athletic activities." He will be permitted to remain at the academy as a student, the official statement added.

Shifts in Navy Team In Drill for Old Liners

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis Md., Nov. 18.—Naval Academy gridders had a hard offensive scrimmage this afternoon against the "B" squad, which employed as best it could University of Maryland formations. There were times when the reserves, assisted by three second-string backs, Campbell, Davis and Konrad, halted the varsity, but on a whole the regulars gained ground to the satisfaction of Navy Coach Bill Ingram, who frequently named the plays from huddle formation.

New flanks, Torgeson and Elliott, who substituted and played a major portion of the Southern Methodist 6-6 Tie at Half Time Broken as Tech Rips Eastern Defense.

Reichman Leads Way as Last 2 Periods Yield 4 Goals.

By BOB CONSIDINE.

THE challenge of Eastern High School's Football Team, which started out early in the year as a mere peep and increased in volume until yesterday afternoon at halftime it had developed into a roaring defy, was rent asunder at its peak by a battering Tech High eleven, which in the final half of the deciding game of the high school series stepped hard on the gas to register one of its most decisive victories of the year. The final score was 31—6. The score at the half was tied at 6—6.

Tech stands preeminent among the high school teams today, receiving the crown for the third successive year by dint of yesterday's victory over its foremost challenger. About 8,000 spectators witnessed the fray, which yielded a gate of $1,200—a sum which will be turned over to the District Commissioners for partial relief of the District's needy.

Eastern Holds Own in First Half.

For one breath-taking half Eastern held its own yesterday against a team drilled as few high school teams, past or present, have been drilled. Held its own by reason of its airtight line play. Tech's backs were bottled up. Sach's 5-yard gain being the only real territory snatch of the quarter. Otherwise the teams battled as closely as could be possible, with lines charging hard and accurately to cut down the ball runners. The quarter saw much kicking, with Nelson and Palmer booting on even terms.

Tech began that inspired football it is capable of at the start of the second period. Going into high the Maroon and Gray robots dug their cleats in the turf for a 77-yard push down field for the touchdown. But hardly had they accomplished this when Lyman McAboy blocked one of Nelson's punts, picked it up and ran 55 yards to a touchdown—the first time Tech's goal has been crossed in the series. Both Gormley and Conlon missed their placement kicks and the boys tramped off the field tied at 6-6.

Tech Lets Loose In Second Half.

Tech simply let loose in the last half. Everything worked, everybody worked for Tech, and a regular procession of touchdowns seemed past Eastern's gradually demoralized forces. Tech's attack was tremendous; its hard-driving backs biffing and banging their way for a while and then racing unmolested through the ever-widening gaps in Eastern's tiring line.

It was more difficult than ever to single out a personality within Tech's line-up. George Sachs scored three of his team's touchdowns, but tremendously good player that he is, it seemed that any man in the back field could have accomplished the same trick had their signal been called. Tech's back field was a perfect unity—well-welded to Tech's superb line. The West Point parade precision of Capt. Kolker and Bell ine coming out of their position to lead Tech's airtight interference; the diving charges of the other linemen all rolled up into one divine team yesterday.

Nelson's crisp 10-yard pass to Wohlfarth in the middle of the first period was Tech's first intimation that the throttle was wide open—it being the first pass of the year for the Manual Trainers. But Tech was stopped, and Nelson kicked. McAboy recovered Palmer's answering kick in midfield, after it had touched Gormley's hand. But Eastern could go nowhere, and the two remaining kicks killed the quarter.

Tech Backs Crack Eastern Line.

YALE VIEWS HARVARD PLAYS

Eli Scrubs Use Crimson Formations as Seen by Scout.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 18 (A.P.).—Yale's varsity football squad began perfecting defense and offense today in preparation for the final game of the season with Harvard. Ducky Pond, who has scouted the Crimson all season, led a team of scrubs in dummy scrimmage against the varsity. The scrubs put on Harvard formation, stressing forward and lateral passes.

Carnegie Defeats Being Ironed Out.

Pittsburgh, Nov. 18 (A.P.).—Lots of weak spots in Carnegie's attack and defense will have to be eliminated if Temple is to be held on even terms. Tartar coaches sent the varsity through a long workout today, ironing out defects that were revealed in yesterday's scrimmage.

Army Team Works Out on Muddy Field.

West Point, N. Y., Nov. 18 (A.P.).—Despite a muddy field, Maj. Ralph I. Sasse gave the Army football squad a hard workout today in preparation for both the Ursinus and Notre Dame games. Only five more practice days are available before the team leaves for Chicago on November 26 to meet Notre Dame November 29, and there is plenty of work yet to be done.

Fordham Making Plans to Stop Bison Ace.

New York, Nov. 18 (A.P.).—Maj. Frank Cavanaugh, Fordham coach, is trying to evolve a defense to stop the rushes of Clark Hinkle, outstanding back field star of the Bucknell Bisons.

Light Workout Held At Harvard.

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 18 (A.P.).—The Harvard varsity football squad, but four days away from its objective game with Yale, was given only a light workout today by Head Coach Arnold Norween. The Crimson Team first went through a light signal drill in the baseball cage and then adjourned to the stadium.

Two Deaths Result From Grid Injuries

Marietta, Ohio, Nov. 18 (A.P.).—John Wightman, 21, of Northampton, Mass., tackle on the sophomore class football team, died from a broken neck today after participating in the annual sophomore-freshman game at Marietta College.

Wightman was injured during a series of line plays and coaches believed he took part in two plays after his injury. He died en route to a hospital. The body will be taken to Northampton tomorrow.

OMAREEN, OUTSIDER, CAPTURES FEATURE AT BOWIE

Adequate Up To Finish Second

Long Shots Score in Six of Seven Races on Card.

Hackey H. Takes 3d to Pay Backers $70.90 for $2.

By J. B. SNODGRASS.
Special to The Washington Post.

BOWIE RACE TRACK, Nov. 18.—M. N. Mooney's Omareen proved best in the Glen Burnie Purse, featuring the Bowie card today, and, like the other race this afternoon, was an unexected winner, being the fourth outsider of the six which scored during the afternoon. The Wheatley Stable's Adequate closed fastest of the others and was second. The Geneseo Stable's Spanish was third three lengths in fron tof Morsel.

The favorite, Molasses Jane, was never a contender. She went out of the picture like all other horses that have been on the rail where the going is roughest.

Morsel Leads to Head Of Stretch.

Morsel led to the head of the stretch, when Omareen, which had been chasing him resolutely, came to the front. W. Cannon had the mount on the Son of Omar Khayyam and was endangered when Adequate came on fast at the sixteenth, the filly lacking a length of catching Omareen. Another length separated the Wheatley filly from Spanish, the third horse. The time was 1:48 4-5. The winner paid $16.00.

We Dun It and Sun Shadow were withdrawn before the field was called out, leaving six horses to start. The money flowed in on Molasses Jane like she was a sure winner. She was a trailer all the way, with Riley up. Adequate might have been the winner if Carroll had been more alert, but he lost four lengths at the first turn. There was a larger crowd out than on opening day and the weather was better, except for fog, which never fully cleared up.

The Lone Star Stable's Ebb and Flow, making his first start and an outsider in the betting, led all the way in the first race, lasting to win by a nose and paying $47.70. Trice, one of the favorites, was coming fast at the end and, almost overtaking the winner under a hard drive by Workman, held the place from Spanish Bonero by a half length. All Told was fourth. Eddie Watters took Ebb and Flow far out in front from the stalls and kept him going, with Jimmy D. and All Told closest to the pace. But when the turn into the stretch had been made, it was a question whether he could withstand the challenge of Trice. The finish was the closest of the meeting.

Toney Princess Easily Cops In Second.

The Dorwood Stable's Toney Princess won the second race, for 2-year-olds, by four lengths, surrounding the field from the outside in the stretch. After the Black Toney filly came St. Agnes, four lengths behind the winner. Three lengths farther back, J. P. White's John F was third, and Portcodine fourth. The winner paid $16.40. The time was fast, 1:12 1-5.

Abduction, a field horse, set the pace, with Baboo next, and led into the stretch, when the outside horses, where the going was better, came to the front. Thirteen started. The apprentice P. Munden, one of the youngest and smallest riders, had the mount on Toney Princess.

J. P. McGovern's Hacky H. won the third race, beating the favorite, French Lass, which has been winning with regularity in Maryland. A nose separated the two on the wire. Dixiana Farm's Irish Polly, which had set all the pace, was a close third. George Fields, who has had an offer from Aga Khan to ride in Europe, had the mount on Hackey H., and the winner, coupled in the field with Barn Dance, paid $70.90 for a $2 ticket. The time was 1:12 flat, for the fastest 6 furlongs of the meeting. The start was good, Irish Polly, Hackey H. and French Lass leading the parade, with Flyer close up. Coming into the stretch Hacky H. went to the front and French Lass moved up on the outside.

Secondary Feature Won By Nicotine.

The Wheatley Stable's filly, Nicotine, won the Bay Ridge secondary feature by a length from C. V. Whitney's Angry, with the favorite Voltear, third, two lengths behind Angry. Searcher, which delayed the start several minutes, was fourth. The winner paid $11. Angry, which led most of the way, was $10.40 a place. Voltear was closest to the pace until he reached the stretch, where Nicotine had picked up Angry. Voltear began to lag from there on and went the way of other favorites. He could not match speed with Nicotine. Carroll rode a much better ride on Nicotine than on Adequate.

Albert John Adams, the sensational little Baltimore apprentice jockey, brought home a real long shot in the sixth, a mile and one-sixteenth contest for 3-year-olds and upward. He was aboard L. J. Collins' Vacation, 5-year-old bay gelding by Spur—Teacher's Pet. The gelding held no appeal for the betters and as a consequence he paid off at the rate of $47.90 for a $2 straight wager. This race marked the sixth successive defeat of choice.

Tail Spin a field horse, closed with a great rush to get second money, missing first by only a horse feather. Vimont was third and Negodale, the pace maker, fourth. Titus, winner last year of the Florida Derby, was the favorite, but quit at the head of the stretch.

Favorite Finally Scores In Seventh.

The only favorite of the day to win scored in the seventh race, when Judge Caverly, owned by George Mitchell and ridden by Kurtsinger, finished gamely to beat Woolorac by a neck, with Fair Bill third, three lengths farther back. Twelve platers started in the mile and eighth test.

Judge Caverly's victory interrupted the triumphs of the long shots which had scored in the first six races in a field day for outsiders in the betting. Judge Caverly paid $7.30 in the $2 straight mutuels. Woolorac was $23.70 to place and $11.80 to show.

Golden Cloud, a field horse, made the early pace, but wilted rapidly at the half-mile pole, and Woolorac, which began slowly, was rushed into the lead by Church. Judge Caverly and Fair Bill were in close attendance. Judge Caverly outgamed Woolorac in the stretch drive. Fair Bill was much the best of the others and beat the second choice, Danger Signal, five lengths for third money.

EBB AND FLOW, showing good speed to assume a commanding lead, saved ground until straightened into the home stretch, responded to a bold drive and just lasted. TRICE, a keen factor from beginning, fought it out determinedly at the end. SPANISH BONERO made up ground steadily, was kept wide to secure racing room and finished gamely under weak handling. ALL TOLD turned in a good test.

SECOND RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,300; claiming. For 2-year-olds. Start good. Won easily; place, same. Went to post at 1:31. Off at 1:37½. Winner, Berwood Stable's br. f. TONEY PRINCESS was carried wide entering home stretch, but finished full of run and drew away into a commanding lead, the last furlong. ST. AGNES, well up from break, shook off JOHN F. in the stretch run. Latter hung when put to a drive. PORTCODINE was on outside of leaders entire trip. BABOO showed good speed.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—HACKY H., $70.90, $19.80, $10.40; FRENCH LASS, $3.90, $2.90; IRISH POLLY, $4.00.

HACKY H. forced the pace to the top of home stretch, where he came through on inside, saving much ground, drew away at furlong pole, but was tiring at end, driving hard to stall off FRENCH LASS. Latter began slower than usual and was outrun first half, responded with good courage to a drive and was going very strong at end. IRISH POLLY broke fast and showed a lot of speed, but tired badly in home stretch.

FOURTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,600. The Glenburnie, For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 2:36½. Off at 2:37. Winner, N. N. Two-dollar mutuels paid—OMAREEN, $16.00, $6.10, $4.00; ADEQUATE, $3.90, $3.30; SPANISH, $4.60.

OMAREEN, showing sharp improvement, was steadied off the rapid early pace, came stoutly when called on and finished stoutly, but just lasted to withstand ADEQUATE. Latter, taken up at break and far back for six furlongs, finished with a rush. SPANISH, far out of contention early, made up ground stoutly in the final drive. MORSEL was made entirely too much use of when sent into a long early lead and faltered in the final test.

FIFTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,400. The Bay Ridge. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:06½. Off at 3:12. NICOTINE broke slow and was permitted to get settled in her stride before Carroll made a move. She worked her way up on the outside rounding the far turn and, wearing ANGRY down, outgamed him in the final drive. ANGRY broke rapidly and opened up a long lead first quarter. He hung on well until last sixteenth when he tired.

Bowie Notes

Special to The Washington Post.

BOWIE RACE TRACK, Nov. 18.—Will Hopkins, brother of Freddie Hopkins, who handles C. V. Whitney's Equipoise, has an offer to handle a well-known Western stable and will likely accept before the week expires.

Jockey George Fields has an offer to ride for the Aga Khan, Europe's wealthiest sportsman.

The plater David Bone, which has not been to the races in many weeks, broke a shoulder while working this morning.

Nominations for the Miami, Fla., stakes will close on Thursday.

Mrs. Gadsden D. Bryan, part owner of this track, who is ill, recovered sufficiently to attend today's racing.

The following horses are on the schooling list: Amourette, Aegis Albanzno, Barren Hill, Bagpiper, Fair Beth, Gay Knight, Jubilation, Mavro, Monterey, Madder, Walter K., Strong Tackle, Sun Friar, Sign Off, Sweet Air, Star Crest, Raucona, Rock Queen, Rose Grand and One Alone.

At the conclusion of this meeting, Jack Price will ship Walter J. Salmon's string, including the speedy Ladder, back to winter quarters at Belmont Park, New York.

Jockey Donald Mergler accompanied the W. M. Jeffords string back to winter quarters at Berlin, Md., on the Eastern Shore.

The Audley Farms handicap horse, Bobashela, has been thrown out of training for the year.

The fog was so thick this morning that it was impossible to time many of the horses that worked. The weather man, after dealing kindly with Laurel and Havre de Grace and then taking a shot at Pimlico, seems to be venting his wrath on the Southern Maryland Agricultural Association. However, there are two $10,000 and one $30,000 stakes to be run and, given good weather, the host organization should attract record crowds.

Paul Fox has an offer for Little Fox, full sister to Precious Pearl, dam of Leo Cotner, sire of Don Leon, one of the present season's best 2-year-olds.

Frank Garrett claimed Portcodine out of the second race for $5,300, while Mrs. Olive Curtis took Garlic out of the same race for $4,500.

Jimmy Butwell today denied that he was galloping horses for any one but William Shea, of New York. It was stated yesterday that he was affiliated with Rus Padgett.

Mrs. Elmer Trueman's Earful spread a foot in the running of yesterday's opener and will be retired for the year, according to word given out today by Trainer Elmer Trueman.

WHIPPETS TO RACE HERE TODAY

Many Capital-Owned Dogs on 7-Race Card at Ball Park.

LOCAL owners of whippets, which are entered in the National Capital whippet races to be held this afternoon at 2:30 at the Clark Griffith Stadium yesterday finished grooming and training their dogs. The following local whippet owners have entered their fleet animals in this competition: Dudley Browne, Fire Chief and Fire Bell; W. C. Sumner, Sumner's Blazer, Sumner's Prince, Sumner's Lady and Sumner's Beauty; Charles W. Steers, My Own; George E. Hutchins, Harvest Moon; W. M. Stewart 3d, Playboy; W. E. Sumner, Mist; Walter Johnson, Koon Kahn; Mrs. George Spangler, Mishap.

All of the above whippets are owned and entered by local breeders, fanciers or owners and consequently a great deal of local interest has been aroused among whippet lovers in this city.

Sumner's Beauty Races Bonnie Doon.

The special championship match between Sumner's Beauty, owned by W. C. Sumner, of Bethesda, Md., and Bonnie Doon, owned by William J. Inglis, of Perth Amboy, N. J., will be the outstanding event of the program.

The Maryland Steeplechase, which is an unusual feature of a whippet derby, also has aroused keen interest among local sportsmen.

All children under 8 years of age, who are accompanied by an adult, will be admitted free as the guests of the committee, as also will all Boy Scouts who appear at the gate in uniform. The World War veterans at the Walter Reed and the Naval Hospitals will be the guests of the President's Own Garrison, Army and Navy Union, and the National Capital Kennel Club for this event.

Fire Chief, a red and white whippet, 1 year old, weighing 28 pounds, has already won several races this year at the Maryland Whippet Club at Brooklandville, Md.

Mishap Is Consistent Winner.

Mishap, a red and white whippet, 2 years old, weighing 20 pounds, has been a consistent winner for two years and has beaten several fast fields at her own weight and also has conceded weight and won.

Summer's Blazer is one of the fastest 21-pound whippets in America. Blazer has been a consistent winner for three years and has won several matches.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS —By John Hix

So you thought that a giraffe's neck had more bones in it than a sparrow's. Well, I used to, too. A giraffe has seven vertebrae in its neck while a sparrow has sixteen. In mammals seven vertebrae is the usual number, be it mouse or elephant. Sixteen is the usual number for birds but there are exceptions. The swan, for instance, has 23. And chickens . . . no thanks, we'd prefer the drumstick.

You've gotta hand it to the owner of the 49-inch mushroom, because if you tossed it to him it might knock him out. That mushroom would make enough sauce to cover a couple of cows. Although the name of this species, "lentinus lepidius," does not sound edible, it is. Plenty of moisture from a nearby stream caused this mushroom to grow into such gigantic proportions.

Well, sorry as I am, I must blast the beliefs of all suburbanites. They all thought they rode on the slowest train in the world. But the one pictured above wins the gilt-edged third rail. Its owner, a watchmaker of Walthomstow, England, made this 8-inch train out of gold and silver. It runs by clockwork and requires two and a half hours to reach the end of a four and one-half foot track. That's about three miles a year.

Boots and Saddle's

(Reg. U. S. Patent Office)

—Bowie Selections—

By J. B. SNODGRASS.

BOWIE, Md., Nov. 18.—Large fields prevail at Bowie, with the exception of the feature race, the Conowingo, at a mile and a sixteenth. Five horses have been named for this, and the track should show improvement with a little sunshine on it. HAT BROOM, from the C. V. Whitney Stable, takes off weight, and is selected to win. While he was beaten a nose by BERBER last out, at Pimlico, he won his previous race over Adequate by a length and a half.

SUN MISSION probably will be the favorite, but the Sun Briar horse may not be able to concede weight to the Whitney colt, now at his best, with nine pounds between them. A 3-year-old at this season is almost a man and the younger horse gets the best of the scale from this time to the first of the year. HAT BROOM'S best races have been on a fast track. He was beaten by BERBER last Friday on a very muddy course, but his previous race was very fast on a fast course. BERBER is best of the others, and should take third money.

FIRST RACE—The first race is claiming, and over a route for older horses. HERNAN CORTEZ and CROYDEN will probably battle it out, but distance may be too far for CROYDEN, while it suits the Star Master gelding, which has been coming around to best form. He showed speed against Bridegroom at Pimlico. CROYDEN has been in the money his last eleven starts, but met very ordinary fields in his campaign in Canada. THE DOCTOR is probably best of the others and has a consistent record the past season. CANDY PIG has gone back in his racing since the Laurel meeting.

SECOND RACE—Marshall Field's PHALANX, a highly bred and expensive English horse, by Phalaris, said to have cost $100,000, is selected to win the second race, which is at 6 furlongs. He has never started in this country and there is no record at hand of his having started anywhere, but he has worked 5 furlongs in a minute flat in Maryland and there will be much interest in the showing he makes in this race. It would appear that he is bred for a route, but if he has the speed he has shown in works he should beat this ordinary field for 3-year-old maidens. CANE HEART, which has run some good races in good company, carrying the colors of Rudolph Sprecklels, should be the contender and may be the favorite, as there is no public line on the Fields horse. ARDMORE should hold the others safe.

THIRD RACE—GEORGE DE MAR should win the third race. Maybe beat him at Pimlico, but he did not run up to his New York form. Off badly, he came from last to run second, beaten a length. McKechnie put up a poor ride on him. AMSTERDAM may like the Bowie track better than at Laurel and Pimlico

CATHOLIC-G. W. GAME LOOMS AS WIDE-OPEN BA TTLE

Aerial Attack Reliance of Cardinals

Both Teams Ready to "Shoot Works" in Clash Friday.

G. W. Running Offense Stronger for Annual Game.

WASHINGTON'S annual local football battle between Catholic and George Washington Universities Friday night in Griffith Stadium is quite likely to develop into one of those wide-open affairs featuring offensive football to the detraction of interest in the defense.

If prospects materialize both teams will shoot the works, displaying every attacking weapon in their repertoire with complete abandon, but with high hopes of success.

Each team is fairly loaded with passing plays directed by expert tossers. Catholic will look to Johnny Oliver to hurl its aerials, while Billy Wells will be G. W.'s chief reliance in this department.

Passes Main Threat Of Cardinals.

While the impression may have been gained that the Colonials possess the best passing attack, owing to the presence of Wells, who is generally conceded to be Oliver's superior, the fact remains that the Cardinals have a formidable overhead game and have ben developing it as their main threat since early in the season.

Forward passes play no more important part than running in G. W.'s offense, so in point of versatility the Colonial attack probably is the better. Perhaps it will prove the stronger in general because it is versatile. Good running plays add to the effectiveness of passes by reason of causing shifts in the defense of the opponents.

Contributing to the prospect of wide open football is the fact that both teams have ben saving up many trick plays. Various spread formations have been worked out by each team solely for the purpose of springing surprises in this game.

Colonials Have Edge In Punting.

Should the game develop into a defensive struggle with good punting necessary to success, then the Colonials will have a decided advantage. Otts Kriemelmeyer has shown in past performances that his punts excel those of Carl De Mello, the Cards' best kicker, by an average of about 10 yards. Kriemelmeyer has been consistently kicking baout 50 yards per punt.

St. Alban's 13–0 Victor Over Baltimore Friends

Special to The Washington Post.

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 18.—A fast St. Alban's Prep School Grid Team from Washington, D. C., visited Baltimore Friends today and returned home on the long end of a 13-0 decision. The local team was able to hold their opponents only in the first and last quarters.

Bob Lorton, end for the winners, scored shortly after the opening of the second period when he camped under a 20-yard pass from Bill Fletcher, St. Alban half back, and ran 10 yards to the six-pointer. "Bits" Chesley, hard-driving visiting right half back, led the drive from midfield which ended up over Friends' goal line in the third quarter.

Friends threatened only once when in the third period Christhilf and Borne plunged well to advance the ball to St. Alban's 2-yard line. The Washingtonians held well and the home team lost 10 yards before it had taken its allotted number of downs.

California U. Urges Coast Athletic Probe

Los Angeles, Nov. 18 (A.P.).—The University of Southern California received a suggestion today from the University of California that these schools and Stanford investigate rumors of "subsidization of athletes."

A telegram from T. M. Putnam, Pacific Coast Conference representative at California, to H. O. Willett, the Trojan faculty representative, read:

"We regret exceedingly the newspaper controversy now being carried on over alleged professionalism. Please regard statements made by individuals here as having no official authorization. It is the practice of the administration not to interfere with editorial policies of student papers.

"In view of the publicity given to alleged subsidization of athletes in conference institutions, I believe it would be best for all concerned to make thorough investigation of their own institution. The University of California wishes to place itself on record as intending to do this and trusts that other members of the conference will cooperate with them."

The controversy was set off by an editorial in the daily Californian at Berkeley intimating substitution of athletes following defeat of California, 74 to 0, by Southern California in their annual football game here November 8.

DIXIE HIKERS SEEK TITLE SATURDAY

40 Already Entered in Race Sponsored by N. C. U.

Special to The Washington Post.

CHAPEL HILL, N. C., Nov. 18.—Indications are for a large, fast field for the seventh annual Southern Conference cross-country run, to be held over the University of North Carolina's 5-mile course next Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

Forty harriers have already been entered from five conference institutions tonight—Georgia, Florida, Tennessee, V. P. I., all participants last year, and Virginia, not represented last season. Carolina has yet to announce its entries, and reports are expected the first of the week from Georgia Tech, Duke, Washington and Lee and Clemson, all of which had teams last year, and possibly from Alabama and Auburn.

Virginia Poly Looms As Favorite.

V. P. I. looms team favorite despite a close 27-29 early season loss to Carolina, champion for four successive years, which has largely a sophomore team on which Capt. Baucom is the only letter man.

The number and caliber of stars already entered give evidence that the field will be fast.

Miles, of V. P. I., who finished third last year, ran the Carolina course in a dual meet this fall in 27:34, just a half minute short of the winning time last year, and was closely pushed by Capt. Baucom, of Carolina, who was sixth in the conference run last season.

Barnhardt, of Georgia; Capt. Heizer, of Duke; Ayres, of Florida, and Elder and Carter, of V. P. I., finished well up in the running last year, and are reported as better this season.

Fisher, of V. P. I., and Holder and Lauck, of Virginia, are newcomers expected to make the old heads step to win.

Londos and Romano In Grappling Feature

One of the largest wrestling crowds ever to see a match in Washington is expected at the Auditorium tonight when Jim Londos defends his N. B. A. heavyweight title against Mike Romano, popular Italian mat champion, who is accorded an even chance of winning.

Last August, Londos gained a decision over Chief White Feather in 48 minutes in a rather fluky manner, calling on the Indian and knocking him out when the latter was applying a chin lock, but just last Wednesday Romano threw White Feather in 31 minutes. Not only will the Italian delegation be out in force to cheer Romano on, but so will the majority of local mat fans, for Mike is mighty popular here.

Promoter Joe Turner has arranged an attractive supporting card for the championship tussle with Pat Orthecker meeting Hans Bauer, Tiny Roebuck meeting Wanka Zalesniak and Cowboy Toots Mondt meeting Joe Yeger, Hungarian champion. The first match starts at 8:30 o'clock.

ELDBROOKE M. E. WINS.

Eldbrooke M. E. Basket Ball Team won a rough-and-tumble decision over the Army War College five last night by the score of 54 to 17. Freeman and Fuchs played well for the Churchmen, while Anderson was outstanding among the Collegians.

V. P. I. CHOICE OVER CADET ELEVEN

Turkey Day Clash at Roanoke Should Be Thriller.

Special to The Washington Post.

BLACKSBURG, VA., Nov. 18.—A tense atmosphere about the V. P. I. campus this week heralds the approach of the Old Dominion's historic football finale—V. P. I. versus V. M. I. Again, Thanksgiving is the day and Roanoke is the battleground. On Maher Field, where elevens of the two institutions first left their cleat marks 26 years ago this fall, the Gobblers and the Flying Squadron will clash in their twenty-eighth game since the series inaugurat in 1894.

Smokeshop oracles and cigar stand coaches are pointing to the Techmen as favorites, by virtue, they say, of smashing drives in late season games. But it is different up in the Polytech stronghold among the Alleghany ridges.

Poly Eleven Has Won 17 Times, Lost 8, and Tied 2.

The Polytech Team and corps of Cadets are reminiscing ruefully on the events of 1927, '28 and '29, and realizing better than ever that the annual grand finale on turkey day always has been and always will be anybody's game until the last whistle sounds. These are the thoughts that will spur the Gobblers on in their preparation for Dixie's military football classic.

Those impish rulers, the gods of the gridiron, have recorded seventeen wins for V. P. I., eight for V. M. I., and two tie games in writing one of the South's old classics into the record books. There were times when V. P. I. teams were sitting on top of the world in the Thanksgving fracas with the Keydets, but, if another such era is ever again ushered in at Blacksburg, it will be hailed as a total stranger by all except the gray-haired clan.

From that rainy November day, 1894, when V. M. I. took the first game, until Thanksgiving Day, 1919, when the original V. M. I. Flying Squadron docked behind Tech's goal for a 13 to 0 win, the Keydets mastered the Techmen in but one game.

The same Flying Squadron romped away again in 1920, and Ed Ryder led the Cadets to a 6 to 0 win in the mud four years later. A great Poly defense kicked over the dope bucket to cop a 7 to 0 thriller in Ben Cubbage's farewell battle in 1925, and Frank Peake raced to two touchdowns in the first five plays for another Tech win a year later.

That was the last Polytech win, for V. M. I. crossed up the prognosticators in 1927 and 1928 and the famous Cadet "Iron Men" rallied around Capt. Al Hawkins for a shutout win a year ago. This is why the V. P. I. corps is pleading for touchdowns.

V. M. I. Starts Work Today for Tech Game

Special to The Washington Post.

Lexington, Va., Nov. 18.—Coming back from an unsuccessful invasion of the stronghold of Kentucky's high-powered Wildcat machine, the V. M. I. Cadets were given a complete rest Monday and only a light workout today. Starting tomorrow, however, Coaches Raftery and Hess will work their charges into shape for a hard scrimmage Friday. Saturday the varsity will see the Cadet first-year team battle the V. P. I. Gobblers, who are led by two high-scoring backs, Robinson and Casey.

V. M. I. escaped injuries in the Kentucky clash, and Doc. Bailey, Rand Gregory and Temp Wooters, who were left in barracks on the crippled list when the Flying Squadron took to the road, should all be in condition to engage in rough work by the end of the week. Coach Bill Raftery is especially anxious to continue his experiments with his back field, as Capt. Roy Dunn and Gilly Laughorn are the only fixtures.

At present Buck Wright, letter man from last year, who has been shifted from full back to half back, and Louis Siegel, promising sophomore, appear to have the edge on Stumpy Travers.

WOODBERRY, EPISCOPAL TO MEET

Prep Schools Ready for "Big" Game Saturday.

Special to The Washington Post.

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., Nov. 18. The thirtieth annual football game between Woodberry Forest and Episcopal High School, to be played Saturday afternoon following the dedication of Hanes Field at Woodberry, will in all probability go down in history as the red-letter game of a long series dating back to 1901.

The two strong and evenly matched teams will meet before a record crowd, including the Governors of Virginia and North Carolina, gathered to dedicate Hanes Field, the recent gift to Woodberry Forest of two prominent alumni.

Teams Appear Evenly Matched.

Both elevens have flashed unusual power, with little to choose between the two. It is true that Woodberry suffered a defeat at the hands of the Staunton Military Academy eleven and Episcopal has not yet met defeat, but so far there has been nothing to show that one team is more powerful than the other. The Woodberry eleven ran roughshod over the Augusta Military Academy Team, defeating it 60 to 0. This same Augusta eleven held Episcopal to a two-touchdown margin of victory.

Both Episcopal and Woodberry opened their season with victories. The E. H. S. eleven repulsed the Eastern High Team, of Washington, by a score of 20 to 0, while Woodberry was eking out a one-touchdown victory over Emerson Institute, also of Washington.

The following Saturday a much improved Woodberry Team barely met defeat at the hands of S. M. A., Staunton, last year's State champions, by the score of 6 to 0. The Cadets were outplayed in nearly every department of the game. Episcopal won its second straight game, downing the highly touted Tech High, of Washington, 26 to 13.

Episcopal continued its unbeaten string of victories on the following Saturday, turning back the A. M. A. Cadets, 14 to 0. On the same day Woodberry easily defeated Virginia Episcopal, of Lynchburg, winning by a four-touchdown margin.

Both Register Upset Victories.

The next week both Woodberry and Episcopal upset the dope bucket and completely snowed under their opponents, the former winning from A. M. A., 60 to 0, and the latter downing Fork Union, 32 to 0.

Both teams took their next games, Woodberry defeating a lighter Shenandoah eleven, 47 to 2, and Episcopal narrowly downing Swavely Prep, 13 to 6.

Barring accidents, Woodberry will be represented Saturday by a team which may justly be ranked with its most powerful ones on record. It has proven its great offensive power, even in its defeat at the hands of Staunton Military Academy.

It is highly probable that Coach Bic Cardwell will bring to Woodberry an undefeated team that will be prepared to flash a brand of ball they have shown throughout the season. The followers of the Cherry and Black eleven are backing it enthusiastically as the strongest outfit since the season of 1923, when Episcopal climaxed an undefeated season with a 26-to-19 victory over Woodberry, thereby clinching the prep school championship of Virginia.

Since then the Alexandrians have fought through six seasons of ups and downs, winning but twice from Woodberry and never approaching their State title, lost by one disastrous game with the Staunton Military Academy in 1924. The last three years were lean ones with them, but Cardwell and his assistants have finally bolstered their ranks into a versatile team, possessed of much scoring power, which is staging a strong bid for the championship.

TECH BEATS EASTERN, 31 TO 6

Victory Gives Manual Trainers Scholastic Title.

starting the second quarter. Sachs and Reichman hit center and right tackle, respectively, for 10 yards between them. Then Reichman got away on the first real gain of the game, sprinting around left end for 22 yards.

The ball was handed to Sachs for the remaining 35 yards. Every time save once he dug his way through the middle of Eastern's line, with Lank and Baxter clearing the path. Sachs crashed center from the 3-yard line for the score. Gormley missed the placement.

Nelson's attempted kick on Eastern 35-yard line was blocked with a thump that could be heard 6 blocks. McAboy, the blocker, scrambled after the ball and ran to the touchdown 15 yards ahead of every man on the field. Corridon missed the placement.

Tech barely missed scoring shortly after the next kick-off when Nelson's 35-yard pass cleared Reichman's fingers by 3 inches as he raced over Eastern's 10-yard line. Nelson kicked superbly outside on Eastern's 5-yard line from midfield. Wells wisely attempted to rush rather than risk a blocked kick as the half ended.

Rout Continues In Third Period.

Tech was incomparable from the start of the third period to the end. The Four Coltmen sped quickly down field to a touchdown, whose source was their own 30-yard line and whose mouth was Eastern's goal. Nelson's pass to Reichman for 15 yards helped the drive. Reichman sped over through left tackle from the 3-yard line. Gormley missed the placement. The rout was well under way.

Tech drove 50 yards for their next tally, after Eastern's backs were held for downs in midfield. Nelson's pass to Melkeljohn aided matters along the way for a gain of 15 yards. Sachs, on a spinner play, went through center unmolested from the 4-yard line for the six-pointer. Rhodes missed the placement, but things of that sort did not matter now.

Tech was right back again in this third period. Jack Rhodes intercepted a pass from Wells on Eastern's 40-yard line, fell on Eastern's 15, got up and drove back two tacklers for 5 more yards until he disappeared under sheer weight. Hatos stole across on the first play of the last quarter on a triple pass which saw the big back step through his own left tackle. Nelson tossed to Sachs for the extra point.

Eastern, Helpless, Forced to Kick.

Eastern could do nothing with the next kick-off, so Wade punted to Nelson on Tech's 30-yard line. Hatos and Sachs took the ball down the field in alternate charges, finding huge holes opened for them by Tech's ever-strengthening line. Sachs streaked through center from his 3-yard line for the goal. Yznaga missed the placement.

The game ended shortly after with Eastern being held for downs on its own 10-yard line.

which the pros have competed for the most tempting prizes, there would have been many scandalous incidents of cheating, whereas, up to the present, there has been only one.

Duffers Unlikely to Benefit From "Talkies."

With no wish to depress the earning power of his moving picture demonstrations or instructions, I nevertheless doubt that they will work any improvement in the proficiency of the common dubs who pay their instruction fees in the guise of admittance to an entertainment. I have watched Him make a thousand shots in the tournaments, observing the flick of his wrists, the posture of his elbows, ears, neck and left heel at all the critical stages of his swing and, though I have hurried to my home pastures to try his way while these impressions were still fresh and have hit or threatened my ball precisely as Bobby did, somehow the effect was otherwise, and I am convinced that there is some trick in it.

Bobby need not pine too hard for his prefix for he will still be "Mr." in the sports pages due to a whim of sport writing style derived, maybe, from Charles Dickens, who thus adorned the humblest of his figures. In fact, the "Mr." is more commonly conferred on Max (Boo Boo) Hoff, the sinister character who is lawing Mr. Tunney, than on Harold Vanderbilt, whose social status is extremely upper-case. Under the circumstances, I should think he might prefer to be known as plain Bobby Jones, a name which has always been uttered or typed with something like endearment in this country.

Moreover, it is pleasant to learn that he has turned nonamateur if not pro at this particular time because the probable price mentioned, $250,000, is a happy assurance that the day of the big money in the sports business has not faded away into a long and gloomy nighttime of little purses.

Mohawks, Landsdownes In Third Meeting Tonight

Strengthened Baltimore Eleven, Which Beat and Tied Hawks in Previous 1930 Games, Promises Another Battle at Stadium.

THE Mohawks will make their third attempt of the season to down Nate Weinstock's Landsdowne eleven from Baltimore tonight at the Griffith Stadium. In previous games the visitors have scored a win and played a scoreless tie with the local eleven.

In their initial game of the season the Hawks were caught for a sleeper when Penny Johnson, fleet end of the Landsdowne Team, intercepted a lateral pass on his own 94-yard line and raced the entire distance of the field for the only touchdown registered against the Indians this season. Although outplayed in their return encounter, the Baltimoreans were always equal to the occasion when the local eleven threatened to score.

Weinstock will present a stronger eleven than faced the Hawks in former games, having added Whitey Bender, former University of Baltimore star; Walter Middleton, from Carnegie Tech, and Bob Wilson, of Amherst, to his line-up.

The Hawks have shown improvement with each game this season and, after getting off to a loss to the Landsdowne eleven, have not been scored upon. All members of the Hawk outfit are primed for action tonight, having no casualties from the Quantico Marine game Sunday.

W.-L. ELEVEN TO TACKLE CENTRAL

Strong Ballston Team Here in "C" Club Game Friday.

Special to The Washington Post.

BALLSTON, Va., Nov. 18.—The Little Generals of Washington-Lee High invade Washington Friday to meet Central High School's grid team in the annual "C" Club game at Central Stadium. The game is scheduled for 3:30 o'clock.

Allen Goodwin, one of the best scholastic backs developed in Virginia in recent years, will be eligible to play against Central. Goodwin, declared ineligible in his Virginia district for appearing in the line-up of a sandlot team, is free to play with the Little Generals in appearances outside the league.

Coach O. L. Driver has been racing his team at full speed in preparation for the Friday battle. Capt. Stanley Mortimer, another sterling performer, is showing his early season form and will have to be stopped if Central is going to hold down the scoring.

W.-L. to Present Strongest Team of Season.

All in all, Washington-Lee will present its strongest team of the season against Coach Rauber's Centralites. Harry Chase, regular end from last season, has recovered from early season injuries and will be on hand. Goodwin, Mortimer, Chase and Archie Via, giant tackle, are All-State selection for 1929.

The Virginans have lost one game this season, and that to Fredericksburg High. On the other hand, the Little Generals have bested Alexandria High, conquerors of Fredericksburg, and have also defeated Eastern and Episcopal.

The entire student body of the Virginia institution will attend the game, bringing along its 50-piece band.

ST. PAUL'S EAGLES WIN.

St. Paul's Eagles won their second game of their season last night when the Palace A. C. five was defeated, 30 to 20, at Central High School Gymnasium.

Nau, Sullivan and Cline shone for the winners.

game, were on the regular combination today. Chambers, husky young tackle, who substituted for Bryan last Saturday, worked out as a running mate for Capt. Blimp Bowstrom.

Gray and Underwood, regular guards, and Tuttle, center and star of the line the past two games, were at their posts. The back field was unchanged with Dale Bauer directing plays, Gannon and Kirn at the halves and Hageberg, full back.

Navy flashed a versatile attack today with prominence given other members of the back field, other than Kirn, who, last Saturday, did most of the ball carrying. Aerials and running plays alike commanded attention of the coaches, with particular emphasis being given the interference.

Ingram feels that Navy's interference has not been so lax this year as it has been poorly timed. Many times the interference moves too quickly, rather than not at all, and it is upon this point that smoother team play will be sought in preparation for the visit of the Old Liners Saturday.

RETURN OF JONES TO GOLF FORESEEN

tures demonstrating his wing and shots.

"I expected that would happen," he said. "I knew about it some time ago. We professionals have a way of hearing about such things. I'd do the same thing myself. He'd be foolish not to make all that money while he can.

"Bobby Jones is an amateur and he always will be an amateur. He will play in open championships in three or four years, both here and abroad, I think, but he will never take the money that goes with the open prize. Ask any professional if he thnks Bobby is a professional now and he'll tell you he isn't and never will be.

Professionals Sorry To See Jones Go.

"The professionals are sorry to see Bobby go. He is a grand sportsman.

"I'd rather finish second in an open championship that had him in than win one without him. All the rest of the pros will tell you the same thing, too.

"So remember what I say now. They may rule him out as an amateur—which I don't think they should do—but he will compete again on both sides of the water. He loves golf and he loves a battle. He's proven himself the greatest golfer in the world."

Willie remembered something.

"And besides," he said, "there's a new ball coming into tournament play next year. There'll be a public demand to see what Bobby can do with that light ball. Bobby'll want to try it out, too. He'll be back."

young athletes out of schools and for the dissemination of Nationwide publicity concerning the union's work.

Brundage, who was elected to serve his third one-year term as president, pointed out that the field to be covered by the A. A. U. in developing athletes and promoting healthful sports is enormous. Publicity is a most important part of the work of the union, said Brundage, in view of that fact that a large majority of the people are unacquainted with its aims and hopes.

Brundage's election, contrary to expections, was not unopposed. Maj. Patrick Walsh, of New York City, a representative of hte powerful Metropolitan Association, polled 43 out of 133 votes cast. After the first ballot, the election was made unanimous. Walsh later was elected first vice president.

Others named to high officers were: T. Morris Dunne, Portland, Oreg., second vice president; Dr. Harold A. Bruce, Schenectady, N. Y., third vice president; Benjamin Griffen, Pittsburgh, Pa., fourth vice president, and Daniel J. Ferris, New York City, secretary-treasurer.

Miami to Be Site of 1931 Convention.

Award of championship events for 1931, selection of Miami Beach, Fla., as the site of the 1931 convention, award of the post-Olympic track meet between the British Empire and the United States to San Francisco for 1932, and donation of $500 for a memorial to the late Joseph B. McCabe, chairman of the foreign relations committee, who fell dead at the convention Monday night, were other developments of the closing session.

Most important of the legislative acts of the day was the passage of a constitutional amendment which precludes the practice general throughout the country of "loading up" star stars by basket ball and volley ball teams on the eve of championship. The amendment states that the players must be organized at least 60 days prior to competition.

President Brundage said that a committee has been named to meet with representatives of the Young Men's Christian Association to work out an alliance betwen the two bodies.

Under the terms of a resolution offered by Norman Landreau, of Washington, and adopted, the union will place a memorial to the Unknown Soldier in the amphitheater at Arlington.

EPIPHANY GIRLS WIN.

STOCKS SCORE GAINS AFTER EARLY SLUMP

Strength of Motor Shares Acts as Impetus for Last-Hour Rally.

RAIL SECTION WEAKENS

New York, Nov. 18 (A.P.).—Just as an extension of Monday's decline was assuming more than technical stature the stock market turned quietly upward today.

Early losses of 1 to 3 points were converted into net gains of roughly the same size in a last hour rally which proved to be the most active movement of a dull session. Sales barely exceeded 2,000,000 shares, the exact total being 2,023,050.

The motor and motor accessory shares gave the market its lift and all groups except the rails got aboard for the upturn. Copper and utility shares had been heavy and although the former made a somewhat sluggish response to the rally the early losses were recovered. United States Steel, which had been off 1¾, was up 1¼ at the close and net gains of about the same extent appeared in most of the industrial favorites. American Telephone exchanged a loss of more than 2 points for a small improvement over the Monday close.

Winnipeg Wheat Prices Break.

The wide break in Winnipeg wheat featured an otherwise calm day in the commodity markets. Extreme losses of nearly 8 cents a bushel there found Chicago futures, which normally rule within a few cents of Canadian quotations, moving narrowly, with December holding around 73 cents, in contrast to Winnipeg's low of 55. Domestic quotations ranged ¾ to 1¾ net lower. Corn was heavy, losing about 2 to 3 cents in reflection of a disappointing increase in contract stocks, as well as the softness of other grains.

Business in copper was quiet, and foreign sales, which have been active, tapered off. At least one custom smelter cut to 11 cents, but producers held to 12 and scattered offerings below that figure were attributed to speculators, who had bought at 9½.

The decline of $181,000,000 in bank loans on securities indicated that the record drop of $219,000,000 in Federal Reserve brokers' loans had not represented merely a juggling of position but actual liquidation, which of course helps the general financial situation. Collateral borrowings of the reporting member banks are now $465,000,000 under a year ago.

Bank Commercial Loans Increase.

Other interesting items in the weekly bank statement were the $42,000,000 increases in commercial loans and the $63,000,000 rise in investments, the latter reflecting continued bond purchases.

After the early downward course of stocks had reached a point where considerable resistance to selling pressure was appearing, prices became virtually stationary and the market seemed to be waiting for news, of one sort or another, to route it into activity. When nothing developed the demonstration in the automotive group was started. It was especially vigorous in the rubber shares. Goodyear rose 5, Goodrich 3, U. S. Rubber 2 and the preferred 4¾. Murray, Hudson and Electric Auto-Lite 2 and Nash and Briggs 1. Auburn Auto gained nearly 6.

Sears Roebuck was firm on the declaration of the stock dividend for the first half of 1931, while Gillette and Autostrop moved higher in anticipation of the merger approval. United Biscuit responded to the increased dividend.

Norfolk & Western Closes Lower.

Union Pacific, Norfolk & Western, Northern Pacific and Lackawanna failed to fully recover from their early weakness and lost about 3 points on the day. New York Central, Atchison and Baltimore & Ohio, however, firmed, the first named gaining 2 points net.

Advances in Radio, General Electric, Westinghouse, Texas Corp., Standard Oil of New Jersey, National Biscuit, North American, Electric Power & Light and American Can averaged about a point. Allied Chemical rose 3¾.

Cotton here was quiet, off 6 to 14 points at the close, largely in sympathy with uncertainties in the other commodity markets.

Foreign exchanges were dull. The Spanish peseta again receded, but other continental rates were slightly changed.

BONDS ARE STEADIER IN SLUGGISH SESSION

Treasury Group Declines as Three Liberty Issues Score Advances.

SEVERAL CARRIERS LOSE

New York, Nov. 18 (A.P.).—Moving sluggishly throughout the greater part of today's session, bonds steadied in the final hour under the firming influence of a mild rally in shares.

Prices were narrowly irregular, with high-priced rails and utility bonds displaying a firmer tone than in the previous session. Activity was somewhat improved also, although still under the average day's transactions.

United States Governments set the pace for high-grade investment issues. Liberty bonds continued to advance, the 3½s and 4¼s attaining new peaks for the year and the first 4¼s selling at the best figures for 1930." Treasury issues, however, sagged.

Latin-Americans Decline.

Scattered selling of Latin-American bonds gave an irregular tinge to the foreign list, where trading covered a broad field of issues. Bolivian 8s slumped 7 points, to 77, and the 7s reacted 3 points. Brazilian 6½s yielded more than a point, and a few other issues of the South American republic were easier.

In the European division German bank and industrial issues were well supported, and the government 7s advanced ½. The International 5½s, however, yielded 1⅛ and closed at the bottom. At the closing price of 70½ the Young plan loan is nearly 20 points off from the price at which it was offered last June.

With few exceptions the sharpest changes in domestic liens occurred in this grade issues. First and second grade bonds were steady to firm. Industrials, which were in the doldrums for a long period, displayed a little improvement. Low-grade and speculative issues that move in sympathy with the share market probably will await more definite signs of business and industrial improvement before attracting.

Anglo-Chilean Nitrate Off.

Anglo-Chilean Nitrate 7s dipped to a new low at 70 on a 4-point decline. A similar drop carried Lorillard debenture 7s to a new minimum. Fisk Rubber 8s, International Agricultural Chemical 5s, U. S. Rubber 5s and Commercial Investment Trust 6s were much improved.

Declines of ⅝ each in American Telephone debenture issues stood out in the utility group. Rock Island general 4s, St. Paul 5s of 1975, Big Four 4s, Wabash second 5s, Pennsylvania 4½s, Nickel Plate 4½s, C. New Haven 4½s, Erie 5s of 1967 and International Great Northern adjustment 6s were among the rails that moved contrary to the general upward trend maintained by carrier obligations.

Further evidence of a sharp increase in the volume of new offerings was given in the announcement of two large issues for tomorrow. New England Power Association is offering $20,000,000 two-year 5 per cent notes, and Central Ohio Light & Power Co. is marketing $3,600,000 in 5 per cent bonds.

CHILD, 4, IS SAVED ON SWALLOWING LYE

Atlanta Surgeon's Skill Aids Girl to Eat Again; Throat Seared.

FED THROUGH STOMACH

Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 18.—Skill of two Atlanta surgeons has won a long battle against starvation for 4-year-old Inez McGraw, of Ashburn, it is revealed at Georgia Baptist Hospital.

Five operations since May 26 to relieve a "stricture of the esophagus" or closing of the throat, have been successful, and for the first time in almost six months the little girl is joyously happy in contemplation of normal eating.

In a dangerously weakened condition because of her inability to take nourishment, she was brought to the hospital here by her mother, Mrs. E. P. McGraw, who told doctors the child had swallowed a portion of lye. An examination showed the caustic solution had badly seared the delicate throat tissues, and an operation to insert a good-feeding tube in her stomach was immediately performed.

Inez at that time weighed but 20 pounds. In a few weeks, however, she began to gain and the first throat operation was decided upon. Her condition continued to improve and a more balanced and a substantial diet was given her through the stomach tube, making possible more operations designed to dilate the esophagus.

Within the last few weeks she has been able to swallow a little selected food, although surgeons still are giving her milk, raw eggs, fruit juices, soup, &c., by way of the tube. Drs. H. C. Myers and H. H. Drewry, interns attached to the hospital, said that they expected, however, to be able shortly to abandon the latter method of nourishment.

Inez, meanwhile, is consummately elated and romps through the corridors as much as her nurses will allow. But of one thing she is convinced, "As a food, lye can be used much more advantageously to scrub the kitchen floor."

Vigilantes Resist Chicken Thefts.

Hagerstown, Md., Nov. 19 (A.P.).—A band of vigilantes to curb chicken stealing has been formed by Washington County, Md., and Franklin County, Pa., farmers. Each night a detail from the association patrols the farms of the members. The Washington County group already has apprehended several men. Two convictions have been secured.

Wheat Area in Canada Drops 148,000 Acres

Ottawa, Nov. 18 (A.P.).—The area sown to fall wheat in Canada on October 31 for the season 1931 was estimated at 894,4000 acres today by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. This is a decrease of 148,000 acres from the 1,042,000 sown last year.

The condition of fall wheat on October 31 was 96 per cent of the ten-year average, against 88 per cent on the same date last year, the report said.

Man Overcome by Gas From Bathroom Pipe

Special to The Washington Post.

Martinsburg, W. Va., Nov. 18.—John Grove, watchman at a quarry here, was nearly asphyxiated last night in the bathroom of his home by gas which had escaped from an open pipe. He was found unconscious on the floor by his mother and revived at a local hospital.

Gas company employes, who investigated, believe he fell and may have struck the control valve.

NEW YORK COTTON.

New York, Nov. 18 (A.P.).—A slight opening advance was followed by declines in the cotton market here today, with March contracts selling off from 11.45 to 11.27 under comparatively small offerings which appeared to be prompted by the situation in grain, reports of bank suspensions in some of the Southern States, and the absence of aggressive support. March closed at 11.30, with the general market closing barely steady at net declines of 6 to 14 points.

The opening was steady at an advance of 1 to 2 points with the active months selling about 2 to 4 points net higher during the early trading in response to the relatively steady showing of Liverpool. Some trade buying as well as covering was reported, but the demand seemed to be readily supplied by Southern selling combined with local, Wall street, or Western liquidation. Offerings were not general or aggressive, but demand seemed to be restricted to some trade buying and covering and prices worked gradually lower, reaching the lowest points of the day in the late trading. Near December sold off from 10.98 to 10.83, and May from 11.72 to 11.55, making net declines of about 12 to 15 points, and closing positions were within 2 or 3 points of the lowest.

There was further liquidation of December, presumably in preparation for notices next Monday. This was largely in the way of switching from near to late months, with new December closing 72 points under May, compared with 74 points on the previous day. The comparatively small volume of business otherwise was regarded by some local brokers as indicating a disposition to await the further development of Farm Board policies following the recent convention of the Grain Stabilization Corporation in the grain markets, while the severe break in wheat at Winnipeg appeared to have an unsettling effect on sentiment. Reports that labor disputes were developing in British railroad and coal mining circles also may have contributed to the hesitation or uncertainty reflected by the action of the market.

Liverpool cables said there had been covering with continental and Bombay buying in that market and reported freer buying of cotton piece goods by India. Exports today, 66,273, making 2,854,555 so far this season. Port receipts, 85,621. U. S. port stocks, 3,977,062.

Forecast—For the District of Columbia—Fair with continued mild temperature Wednesday and Thursday; gentle northeast, shifting to east or southeast winds.

For Maryland and Virginia—Fair with continued mild temperature Wednesday and Thursday; moderate northeast, shifting to east or southeast winds.

The Western disturbance has made little eastward progress, being central tonight over southeastern New Mexico. Roswell, 29.36 inches, and the Hudson Bay disturbance continues to move northward. The disturbance over the ocean east of Newfoundland is moving very slowly northeastward and another disturbance of wide extent and marked intensity has overspread Alaska and Yukon, Kodiak, 28.30 inches. The minor disturbance that was central south of Cape Cod this morning has apparently moved southeastward toward Bermuda, Hamilton, 30.00 inches. These disturbances have caused rain within the last 24 hours in the North Atlantic States, portions of the Middle Atlantic States, the Carolinas, the North Pacific States, and from southern California eastward to El Paso, Tex., and by snow in the Plateau and Rocky Mountain regions and the western portions of the Dakotas and Nebraska. Pressure is high and rising over the greater part of the United States and southern Canada, except the Plains States and southern Rocky Mountain region, Father Point, Que., 30.40 inches, and Spokane, Wash., 30.34 inches. The temperature has risen in the great central valleys, the West Gulf States, and the southern Plains States and the weather is still unseasonably warm from the Plains States and Texas eastward to the Atlantic Coast. The following stations report the highest temperature of record so late in the season: Fort Smith, Ark., 84 degrees; Memphis, Tenn., and Birmingham, Ala., 82 degrees; Cairo, Ill., 80 degrees, and Springfield, Mo., 78 degrees. However, the weather has become colder in the Rocky Mountain and Plateau regions and the temperature is now much below normal over the greater part of that area.

The indications are for generally fair weather and continued mild temperature in the Washington forecast district during Wednesday and Thursday, except that the southwestern disturbance will likely cause showers Thursday in Ohio, Kentucky and Tennessee.

At least one custom smelter and some dealers were offering copper today at 11 cents a pound, a full cent under the price recently set by producers and most custom smelters. Producers, however, held firmly to the 12-cent price. It was said in trade circles that some of the copper offered at lower prices was resale metal which speculators had acquired at the recent low price of 9½ cents. Consumer demand was light and there were few sales at any price.

The New York Stock Exchange today called members attention to the rule requiring that copies of all market letters, analyses and circulars must be submitted to the exchange committee on publicity. This rule has not been enforced for some times and Wall street was inclined to interpret it as indicating that the exchange officials were planning to exercise closer supervision of members advices to customers. At the offices of the committee, however, it was said that the notice had no special significance, that it had been sent out primarily as a matter of routine.

Net income of subsidiaries of the National Public Service Corporation, a part of the Middle West Utilities System, was reported today as $1,284,559, against $1,330,289 in 1929.

ADVICE ON INVESTMENTS

By CHARLES W. STORM.

Northern Pacific.

H. K.—Can you give me an idea of the earnings of Northern Pacific for the current year?

Answer—The stock is now selling at the lowest price in six years and within a few points of the lowest at which it has sold in the last 20 years. Northern Pacific is selling to yield more than 9 per cent from the $5 dividend, which is expected to be earned for the year. Direct earnings are estimated at $5.60 a share, including the equity in earnings of the Burlington and the Northwestern Improvement Co. The stock is selling for about 7 times earnings and is considered a good speculative investment for long term holding.

Davison Chemical.

F. M. L.—I am interested in Davison Chemical stock and would like whatever late information you may have regarding it.

Answer—Earnings of the company for the fiscal year ended last June were equivalent to $4.04 a share on the outstanding stock, which was considered a good showing and which might lead to the resumption of dividend payments. Profits for the past 12-month fiscal period showed an increase of 24 per cent over those for 1929 when $3.34 was reported by the company. Sales for the 1930 fiscal year showed an increase of approximately 20 per cent because of the diversification of the company's business. The outlook is considered good, but when directors will take action on a dividend is entirely up to the board itself.

Deere & Co.

W. D. J.—I am writing for some facts regarding Deere & Co.

Answer—The company will pay a stock dividend of 1½ per cent in January, along with the usual quarterly cash distribution of 30 cents a share. A similar stock dividend was paid a year ago. The present common stock, which is selling around 50, is after a 5-for-1 split up. Net earnings for the fiscal year ended October 31, 1929, last were equal to $13.72 a share on the present common stock, which was the best year enjoyed by the company in the past ten. No inkling has been given, however, as to earnings for the past fiscal year. Deere & Co. stock may be classed as a fair speculative investment issue.

American Car & Foundry.

T. V. D.—Please give me some information with reference to American Car & Foundry. How is the stock regarded?

Answer—Business received by this company from the railroads this year has been small. The common stock is selling at a level to yield about 18 per cent from the $6 dividend, which has not been earned in late years, and the present price is regarded as an indication that the payment may be reduced or omitted.

The company, however, is in strong financial shape, and the dividend on the preferred stock, which is selling to yield approximately 9 per cent, could be paid out of accumulated surplus. Earnings for the fiscal year ended April 30 next are not expected to equal those of the preceding fiscal period when $5.44 a share was reported on the common. Considerable speculation, therefore, attaches to the common stock.

American Republics Oil.

G. N. H.—I am a holder of American Republics Oil and would like some information and an opinion of the stock.

Answer—The stock is selling at the lowest price in several years as a result of poor earnings. Indications are that nothing will be earned on the common stock this year because of the unsettled conditions in the oil industry and price-cutting campaigns. At present the company is producing about 6,000 barrels daily. The company has an irregular earnings record and the fact that no dividends are paid on the stock does not make it an issue preferable for investors. The company owns or controls under lease about 1,750,000 acres of oil lands, only a small part of which is now under development, and drilling has been halted except where it is necessary to protect the value of the lease.

General Foods.

H. L.—How is General Foods regarded? What is the trend of earnings and the outlook?

Answer—The outlook is good. Low commodity prices are helping earnings. While the sales volume was 12 per cent smaller in the first half, net income showed an increase of 8 per cent. Percentage of net profits to sales was 16.92 against 15.59 last year. First half income was $2.01, against $1.86 last year. Earnings for 1929 were $3.89 as compared with $3.75 the year previous, while estimates place 1930 income at $4 per share. General Foods acquired controlling interest in Frosted Foods, Inc., last year, and this acquisition is regarded as important inasmuch as the latter controls the Birdseye process for quick-freezing meats, fruits and vegetables in packages, for which a Nation-wide distribution is planned. Dividends are $3 a year and at current prices the yield is about 5 per cent. The stock is regarded as possessing excellent prospects.

Radio Products Corporation.

C. H. S.—Please inform me as to financial standing of Radio Products Corporation, dealt in on New York Curb, and if suitable for investment?

Answer—Stock has a fair degree of attractiveness as a speculative investment. Two dividends of 50 cents each, for no stated period, have been paid thus far in 1930. If it be assumed that these dividends are to be quarterly, stock possesses even greater attraction on account of exceedingly high yield. Company earned for year ended December 31, 1929, $5.17 a capital share and current financial position at end of that twelve months was very satisfactory, current assets then being approximately seven times current liabilities.

Besides all this, recently stated that, despite general business depression, earnings for first half of 1930 would equal $2 per capital share, or double the amount paid in dividends to May 1 last. Moreover, it was stated that on June 26 last current assets totaled $480,000, including $280,000 cash, while current liabilities were only $70,000.

Freeport Texas and Others.

Mrs. M. G.—I am a stockholder in Freeport Texas, Liquid Carbonic and Robert Reis Co. All my holdings are common stock. Please tell me the condition of each of these companies.

Answer—Freeport Texas and Liquid Carbonic are among the few companies that have not been visibly affected by the serious business depression recently gone through, as is evidenced by the fact that their earnings, while showing some falling off from those of last year, have been more than sufficient to cover dividend requirements, which have been met promptly.

This indicates a healthy condition of both these companies and promising future prospects when general business gets back to normal. Same, however, can not be said of Robert Reis. The fact that the company found it necessary to pass the first preferred dividend on January 1, last, and that it has not since resumed payments, is sufficient to indicate the present status of the concern, which is fully portrayed in prevailing prices for its shares.

NEWS OF LATEST HAPPENINGS IN MARYLAND AND VIRGINIA

WIFE ASKS DIVORCE FROM ARMY OFFICER

Mrs. Vivian C. Johnson Files Action in Prince Georges County.

DESERTION IS CHARGED

William H. Johnson, a captain in the Army, stationed at Honolulu, is sued for divorce by his wife, Vivian C. Johnson, in a bill filed yesterday in Prince Georges County Circuit Court. Mrs. Johnson claims that he deserted her in the Hawaiian city in 1927, and refused to live with her after that.

The couple were married in Washington in 1920 and have no children. The woman asks absolute divorce. J. Wilson Ryon and Albert R. Hassall appear as attorneys for her.

Alleging that his wife left him to return to her former husband, and then left the other man for a third, Albert H. Bloom, of Hyattsville, filed suit for absolute divorce in the same court. The couple were married in August 1929, and the wife deserted him two months later, the man says. He asked a divorce on the grounds of infidelity.

To permit the erection of a barbecue stand in Brentwood, the board of county commissioners yesterday changed the zoning of two lots in that town. They are lot 45A and 25 Island avenue near the bridge, over the Northwest branch. The tract befest frontage of lot 44A, on Rhode longs to Frank H. Baden.

The change was the result of a compromise between Bird H. Dolby, Baden's attorney, and the Park and Planning Commission. Baden had asked the change for five lots, numbered from 44A to 45 A, and the commission had disapproved the change. They agreed, through the chief engineer, Irving C. Root, to a partial granting of Baden's request.

The board of commissioners also appointed two examining bodies to inquire into the necessity for two county roads which have been requested. Guy Trueman, William Long and Edward Woods will consider the proposed road to the Bradbury Heights School and report on the advisability of having the county take over the rough gravel road established by the contractor who built the new structure.

The other examiners will consider a new road from the Baltimore boulevard through Columbia Heights, a distance of about 1 mile. They are George N. Palmer, W. W. Bowman and H. A. Friday.

George T. Sellers and Leo Gosnell were appointed constables by the board. Both appointments were to fill vacancies. Sellers takes the place of B. F. Brown, of Laurel, who was killed in an automobile accident last summer. Gosnell replaces George Winters, of Piscataway, who recently died.

Stabbed with a pitchfork during the course of a fight at the Bowie Race Track yesterday, Jack Coleman, colored, of Rhode Island avenue near Sixth street, was brought to a Washington hospital. Although the tines of the instrument went all the way through his body, and he received a bad cut on his head, he was allowed to go home after treatment.

Coleman and the other colored man, who escaped, were both employed by the Leroy Gentry Stables, where the fracas took place. The injured man was brought to Washington by the Prince Georges County rescue squad.

A delegation of 16 persons from Meadows, Md., appeared yesterday before Nicholas Orem, county superintendent of schools, to ask the erection of a modern, two-room school at that place. They were headed by Robert M. Hardy.

They were told by Orem that he had no power to locate new school buildings, and he advised them to take their request to the county board of education. He also told them that he doubted the advisability of building a small school there when consolidation of schools was gaining favor with progressive school boards all over the country. He also pointed out that the town had had no gain in school population in the last seven years.

By consolidating the schools of the county, Orem said later, $25,000 a year could be saved in operating costs and the children could be in smaller teaching groups and have better instruction. This yearly saving would be sufficient to wipe out the deficit which now faces the board, due to a large building program and the necessity for employing extra teachers.

This deficit has been reduced from about $13,000 to $10,000, he said, by the most rigid economy. Several materials which have been needed by the system have not been bought, accounting for the drop.

Hickory Grove School had the highest attendance rating of all the one-room schools in Prince Georges County during the month of October, with an average of 99.9 per cent. Accokeek and Pine Grove were tied in the two-room schools, each having 98.4 per cent.

Among the larger graded schools, the one at University Park led the list, the attendance there being 98.2 per cent perfect. Oxon Hill was first among the high schools, having an average of 99.1 per cent.

Comparative figures for the State for the month of September, published yesterday, show that Prince Georges county had the highest attendance of any in Maryland in their elementary schools, and was third in the high schools.

Well in Annapolis Aids Water Supply

New Source Will Give 1,000,000 Gallons Daily.

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., Nov. 18.—With the completion of a well, drilled to a depth of 240 feet and which will produce 1,000,000 gallons of water daily, the alarm over the water shortage in Annapolis has been removed. Meanwhile, Mayor Quenstadt is advising the Naval Academy authorities of the purpose of the city to remove the connection with the academy mains. For about two months the city has been receiving 200,000 gallons of water daily from this source. The mayor has addressed a letter to Rear Admiral Samuel S. Robison, superintendent, expressing the city's gratitude for the cooperation.

Rains of the last several days have greatly augmented the water supply coming from the feeding streams, and with the operation of the well near at hand the storage basins and main reservoir will be at full capacity.

Columbia Association Opens Three-Day Annual Meeting at Grace Church.

ADDRESSES ARE HEARD

The Rev. Samuel Judson Porter, pastor of the First Baptist Church, was reelected moderator of the Columbia Association of Baptist Churches at the opening of the three-day annual meeting at the Grace Baptist Church yesterday.

The association, numbering 27 churches, with a membership of 15,667 in the District, nearby Maryland and Virginia, also reelected William W. Everett as vice moderator for the second successive term, and S. G. Nottington was reelected clerk.

Plans for early construction of a Sunday school building as the first unit of a Baptist Church to be erected in Silver Spring, was announced by W. W. Everett, as chairman of the executive board of the association. He pointed out that the congregation of 104 members, with the Rev. J. Wesley Loftis as pastor, will continue to meet in the theater there until the new structure is completed.

Announcement was made also that the new Baptist orphanage, in construction at Bethesda, to house 80 boys and girls now at the orphanage in Brookland, will be ready for occupancy during the early part of next year. Dr. H. W. O. Millington, executive secretary of the association, reported satisfactory growth of the Baptist Bible school established last month in Waddell Hall, on Eighth street between G and H streets northwest.

Various Baptist pastors addressed the group, including the Rev. John E. Briggs, of the Fifth Baptist Church; the Rev. E. Hez Swem, of the Centennial Baptist Church; the Rev. F. W. Danville Expects Federal Mediator

Secretary of Labor Davis Still Defers Statement on Textile Strike.

Special to The Washington Post.

Danville, Va., Nov. 18.—No further light was shed here today on reported activities of the Federal Government regarding the Danville textile strike and for the second time James J. Davis, Secretary of Labor, deferred his anticipated statement. Neither was it known to union representatives whether or not the strike was touched on at today's Cabinet meeting by either Mr. Davis or Secretary Lamont, of the Department of Commerce, who conferred for some time on the subject yesterday. The belief, however, here is that Commissioner of Conciliation Hugh Kerwan, of Washington, will be sent to Danville to try to meet the spokesman of the Dan River Mill management for a conference.

C. H. Edwards, chairman of the Alta Vista Red Cross Chapter's relief committee, today issued a prepared statement denying that efforts had been made to secure jobs for idle textile workers of that town in the Danville mills, as charged by the local union. He stated that it was true that since there is small prospects of the Alta Vista cotton mills reopening any time soon that the workless people who have been subsisting on Red Cross charity had been admonished to secure work "elsewhere" as promptly as possible.

The county grand jury today indicted five union members for unlawful assembly and with violating the terms of an injunction issued early during the strike by Judge Turner Clement. Two nonunion workers were fined in the local police court today for promiscuously firing revolvers in their back yards.

FAIRFAX HIGHWAYS PERILOUS, PROTEST

Beautification Work Has Made Roads Dangerous When Wet, Claim.

LODGE OFFICERS NAMED

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST,
P. O. Box 245, Fairfax, Va.
Phone Clarendon 2324-W-2.

Motorists using the Washington-Richmond highway in Fairfax County below Alexandria are long and loud in their criticism of Virginia's program of highway beautification. Recently the forces of the State highway department ployed the shoulders of the road alongside of the paved surface and spread topsoil, fertilizer and grass seed on the plowed shoulders. The soft soil, coupled with the recent rains, has made the road exceedingly dangerous and slippery. The shoulders are torn up by unlucky motorists, who slide off the paved surface, and gangs of workmen have been kept busy trying to keep them level.

Many collisions have occurred, causing at least one fatal accident, that in which Nathan Mills, of Hoadley, Va., was killed last Saturday morning when the truck on which he was riding skidded into a tree. Numerous autos have been stuck in the mud lining the road, many requiring towing to regain the hard surface. Motorists claim that this condition will exist all through the winter unless something is done to remedy it.

The State has caused warning signs to be placed all along the road calling motorists' attention to the soft shoulders, and small trees have been placed on the soft shoulders of the road every few feet as an added warning, but it has been pointed out that any one is liable to skid or swerve slightly from the pavement when the brakes are applied, especially since the road is only 18 feet wide.

The Fairfax Council will also hold its meeting this evening and convene at 730 o'clock, following which the District Council will meet. W. A. Wine, of Quicksburg, Va., State president, and other State and national officials of the order will be present. A committee composed of J. Frank Swart, John C. Sisson and Stacy S. Swarrt have been appointed by the local council to take charge of the refreshments and entertainment program. Frederick W. Ebhardt, of Alexandria, deputy State president of Fairfax District, will preside at tonight's meeting.

The regular meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association of McLean will be held this afternoon in the auditorium of the Franklin-Sherman School at McLean.

The annual election of officers will be the principal order of business at the meeting of the Guild of the Neighborhood House at McLean this afternoon.

Sanders, associate councilor; Mrs. Arthur Wood, vice councilor; Mrs. May Connor, associate vice councilor; Mrs. Emma Millard, conductor; Mrs. Millie Jenkins, warden; Mrs. Viola Money, inside sentinel; Mrs. Irene Caton, outside sentinel; G. Ashley Money, trustee. Representatives to the State convention to be held this year at Winchester are Mrs. Louise Burger, Mrs. Emma Millard, and S. C. Sanders with Mrs. Viola Money, Mrs. Catherine Leigh and Miss Margaret Day as alternates.

The council is planning to hold an oyster supper on December 3 in the auditorium of the old Colvin Run schoolhouse for the benefit of Virginia orphans.

The Fairfax County treasurer has arranged for his deputies to be at the Falls Church Bank all day tomorrow for the purpose of assisting the residents of that vicinity in making payment of their taxes this year.

UTILITY WITHDRAWS WATER RESTRICTION

Alexandria Company Thanks Public for Cooperation During Emergency.

RAILWAY BAN WILL HOLD

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU,
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

The Alexandria Water Co., which had imposed drastic restrictions on the use of water on account of the protracted drought, has removed these restrictions, and announced that the normal use of water may be resumed, although users are asked to avoid waste.

The company, in the announcement, extends thanks to the people of Alexandria for cooperation in conserving the supply of water during the period of scarcity, and also extends thanks to the Mutual Ice Co., from whose artesian wells the water company has been drawing approximately 1,000,000 gallons a day. The announcement States that due to the rains the springs and streams from which the supply for the reservoir is obtained have again begun to flow, and it is estimated that there is now on hand a supply sufficient to last 60 days.

The only restriction that has not been withdrawn is that placed upon the Southern Railway Co., which was using approximately 700,000 gallons a day for its engines. The railway company for some time past has been getting water from another source of supply, and will continue to do so until conditions have returned to normal. The water company is still using water from the Mutual Ice Co.'s wells, having installed 1,500 feet of 6-inch pipe and the necessary pumping machine.

The city council, to cooperate with the water company, recently passed an ordinance forbitting the use of city water for washing automobiles, but it is understood that this ordinance is no longer in effect.

With the adoption of the constitution and by-laws submitted by Dan S. Hollenga, secretary, the organization now known as the Virginia-George Washington Highway Association was formally launched at a dinner in the George Mason Hotel Monday night presided over by Fred C. Goodnow, president of the association.

The object of the association is to have the name of U. S. Route No. 50, now known as the Lee-Jackson Highway, extending from Alexandria to Winchester, changed to the George Washington National Highway and to seek the cooperation of Federal State and local agencies in having this name apply to the highway extending to the Pacific Coast. The first meeting of the association was held in Winchester, when officers were elected.

The governing board of the association is to consist of fourteen directors, including two each from Alexandria and Winchester and two each from the counties of Frederick, Fairfax, Fauquier, Loudoun, and Clarke. The officers are to serve for one year each and are to consist of a president, vice president, secretary, and treasurer. The plans provide for the beautification of the highway and for advertising it to the motoring public as one of surpassing scenic beauty.

The association voted to invite A. A. Pickering, of Rowleburg, W. Va., to address the next meeting, it being explained that he is the prime mover in the project for changing the name of the highway.

C. Page Waller, president of the George Mason Hotel Corporation, welcomed the visitors on behalf of the hotel; Mayor Carroll Pierce extended the welcome of the City of Alexandria, and President P. C. Goodnow spoke briefly.

One of the most important meetings of the city council of the year will be that of tomorrow, when the annual budget will be adopted, and also the new tax rate fixed. There was a threatened delay in adopting the tax rate, owing to the fact that the property of the public utilities of the city has not been assessed, this coming under the jurisdiction of the State Corporation Commission. The commission has announced that efforts will be made to reach a satisfactory solution of the problem to meet the local conditions, which require that all propcrty be assessed at its actual value as sen by the board of assessors.

The present assessed valuation of the property of the utilities is approximately $2,300,000, and the city, in order that the proposed new tax rate may be applied equally to all, would require an assesment of the utilities of approximately $5,000,000, otherwise the utilities would pay much smaller taxes than heretofore.

It is expected the new tax rate will be $1.15 on each $100 assed valuation. The present rate is $2.65 per $100, but this is based on an arbitrary assessment of, in most cases, approximately one-third the actual value of the property, whereas it is now proposed to place the assessed valuation at the actual market value of the property. The proposed new rate will, it is believed, yield a slightly increased revenue to the city.

A mass meting of Episcopalians of Alexandria and this neighborhood will be held in St. Paul's Church at 8 o'clock tonight for the discussion of the plans of the Diocese of Virginia and the national church for the year 1931.

The Rev. J. Churchill Gigson, D. D., rector of St. James' Church, Richmond, and the Rev. Herbert J. Donovan, of Fairfax, will be the speakers. The Right Rev. Frederick D. Goodwin, Bishop Coadjutor of Virginia, will preside.

The congregation of the First Baptist Church has adopted the budget of the church for the coming year, amounting to $18,000. The report of the budget committee carried with it authority for the employment of a choir director and church assistant, the latter to have charge of religious education and other church activities. The matter of selecting this assistant was left in the hands of the board of deacons, who will make a report tothe congregation.

The nineteenth anniversary of the organization of Martha Washington Chapter, Order of Eastern Star, was celebrated last night in the Cameron Street Masonic Temple, with formal ceremonies staged by the past patrons and past matrons of the association, under the chairmanship of Mrs. Llewellyn F. Dyson.

The annual bazaar for the benefit of St. Mary's Catholic Church will be held in Armory Hall, beginning today and closing Saturday night, and is expected to be one of the biggest events of its kind ever undertaken by the church.

Supper will be served each evening from 5 to 9 o'clock. There will be a fancy table, a country store, candy and soft drink booths, and a bingo

HELP THE POOR BOOTLEGGER.

THE bootlegging business is in a depression. Never since prohibition, according to reports, have the bootleggers had such a hard time making a dishonest living.

• • • •

Many of them are in such dire straits that they don't know where the wife's next diamond necklace is coming from.

• • • •

They are having a difficult struggle to keep the wolf from the labeling plant.

• • • •

Unless better times come very soon thousands of our best known bootleggers will have to give up their private yachts, get along with one limousine and sublease their hunting estates.

• • • •

In some cities the supply so far exceeds the demand that they have stopped cutting the liquor with water, industrial alcohol, piano polish and coloring extracts.

• • • •

During the prosperous era there was no industry that boomed more than the liquor industry. The boys didn't even have to send out salesmen. Orders poured in over the telephone and all shipments were made collect on delivery. The policy was never to give a customer an even break.

• • • •

THE only thing that flattened a consumer more than the liquor itself was the schedule of prices. If he could survive both he was a Grade A insurance risk.

• • • •

The roar of the bootleggers' trucks was loud in the land and great was the prosperity of the poison peddlers. Prices were subject to increase without notice and it was not considered cricket for a buyer to make any critical comment if he opened a bottle marked "Rare Old Farr Rye" and found it to contain raw turpentine.

• • • •

Now all is changed. "Buy now" would have been a great slogan in the old saloon days, but it is a dud as a business promoter in the alcohol industry.

• • • •

Since the market break of a year ago the customers have practically withdrawn in a body and conditions have reached a point where the bootleggers are almost ready to turn honest.

They are even ready to sell stuff in the original bottle.

• • • •

SOME of the largets bootleggers are economizing to such an extent that they have closed their art departments and are using only one design of label.

• • • •

The boys are really in a bad way. They could get a better break selling apples on street corners. If the situation gets any worse you may see the unprecedented apectacle of bootleggers in bread lines.

• • • •

CHANGES ARE URGED IN COURTHOUSE PLAN

Montgomery County Studies Altered Interior and Adding Land.

WOULD PROTECT TREES

Two important steps planned to improve the Montgomery County General Courthouse Building, now under construction at Rockville, were taken yesterday at a joint meeting of the courthouse building committee and the Board of County Commissioners at Rockville.

Rearrangement of the space allotted to the county health office on the second floor of the building, at a cost of $2,800, was considered to care for proposed extension of the health service by the State Health Department. A plan to make Montgomery County a regional center for several Maryland counties, through which the health work would be directed for the region, has been advanced.

Committee Named.

The other step was appointment of a committee to study possibility of acquiring property in the rear of the present courthouse, a tract of approximately two acres, to be used in the development of the site. With the jail site, this property will allow for an extensive park in the rear of the courthouse and at the same time permit the construction of the road in the rear of the building, back of the stately maple trees which form one of the most attractive features of the present courthouse site.

In order to widen the present street in accordance with the plans for the beautification of the area it would be necessary to remove these trees, which stood before any of the present citizens of the town were born. The trees are approximately 100 years old.

County officials and citizens believe it would be almost sacrilege to tear down these mighty mementoes of the earlier days.

Difficult to Replace.

Further, it is pointed out, more than two generations would pass before trees of anywhere the same majestic stature could be grown. Officials believe it would be cheaper to purchase the property in the rear, which is still in acreage.

The growth of the courthouse is expected to require expansion to the rear and it is believed the land can beacquired now at a fraction of what its value will be 10 or 15 years later if county real estate values continue to advance at the present rate.

Members of the committee are: Mayor J. Roger Spates, of Rockville; Josiah W. Jones, Gilbert Grosvenor, County Commissioner Lacy Shaw, B. F. Saul and George E. Hamilton.

The actions of the subcommittee on the building committee approved construction and plans and specifications. Dr. Benjamin C. Perry presided at the meeting, which was attended by all save three members.

Denial that the Maryland Public Service Commission has attempted to maintain high gas rates in Montgomery County as indicated in a resolution presented to the Montgomery County Civic Federation, by the Chevy Chase, Section 8, citizens committee, is contained in a letter received by Maj E Brooke Lee.

It was written by Harold E. West, chairman of the commission, in answer to a query by Maj Lee.

Branding the statement as absurd, Mr. West declares that the commission for several years has been endeavoring to secure the same rates for Montgomery County as in Washington, and that this end is likely to be accomplished within a year. He points out that the Washington Gas Light Co. has reduced its county rates by about $40,000 a year.

Mr. West says that the Maryland Public Service Commission and the Public Utilites Commission of the District of Columbia have probably been confused by those protesting. The Washington commission has insisted on a differential in favor of Washington subscribers, he said, while the Maryland Commission hopes to have this wiped out.

The Montgomery County Commissioners yesterday approved the county board of education request that a deficiency appropriation be approved, to enable the board to proceed with its school expansion program.

The board of education pointed out that about $39,000 more than was appropriated by the last Legislature will be needed to complete the building program. The Legislature authorized $836,000. Included in the deficiency is the $17,000 needed to complete the Chevy Chase Elementary School.

The county commissioners promised to make the sum available in the next emergency provision, if the General Assembly fails to provide the required amount by bond issue.

Fines and costs collected in County Police Court at Rockville in October totaled $1,691.50 in criminal fines and and $43 in civil costs. The sum of $616 was collected for motor vehicle law violations, and is to be deducted from the total and forwarded to the motor vehicle commissioner at Baltimore. The report, signed by Judge Charles W. Woodward, was presented to the county commissioners yesterday.

Tires and tubes, machinery, motors and other equipment and accessories valued at between $2,500 and $3,000 were stolen from the Brookeville Garage, Brookeville, early yesterday morning. The robbery was discovered by the proprietor, H. T. Carver, when he opened the garage yesterday morning. Sergt. Guy L. Jones, of the Silver Spring substation, Montgomery County police, took charge of the investigation.

The garage was entered by breaking a window in the rear. A light roadster also was taken, possibly to haul the loot.
